PASSING EVENTS

The western front has been the scene of considerable artillery activity south of La Basse Canal while in the Givenchy region the Germans attacked the French positions no less than eight times, the French fire being so terrific that the Germans were cut to pieces as they left their trenches, and were compelled to give up the attempt. Artillery fire continues at many points along the front. Southeast of Tahure, in Champagne, the French fire has been effective against the enemy's trenches and earthworks, and also between the Meuse and the Moselle, to the north of Rigneville, and in Lorraine, about Aubermenil and Domèvre. Continuous artillery firing is reported south of the Somme in the region of Lihonne, Canny and Beauvraignes. On Oct. 22nd an enemy aeroplane was brought down from a height of 7000 feet by British airmen.

The Russians claim that the German advance into their country has reached its limit, and now hope to prevent Von Hindenburg crossing the Dvina. The Russians have ample arms and ammunition now, and as the work of equipping and munitioning the armies goes on speedily and thoroughly they will not want for lack of them in attacking the invader. German official reports make no mention of progress south of Riga, but state that the Germans have recaptured the Schlossberg positions northwest of Dvinsk, and have taken 2,940 Russian prisoners. No other important news is contained in this bulletin, but a Petrograd report of a later date says the Germans on Oct. 23rd took Illukst by assault, where in fierce street fighting they sustained severe losses. In the struggle in this region, nearer Dvinsk and south of that city, the Russians had the best of it, capturing several villages by the bayonet after hard fighting. Nothing of moment has occurred on the line elsewhere.

The war in the Balkans is becoming intense, the Serbs fighting recklessly against desperate odds, attacked as they are by Austro-Germans and Bulgars from the north and west. French troops having effected a junction with the Serbians started fighting on the southern flank of the invading Bulgarians, and severely checked the enemy, while warships of the Entente allies have bombarded the wharves and warehouses of Medegatch, the Bulgarian port on the Aegean Sea, and destroyed several military posts on the Bulgarian coast. Both the French and British Admiralty offices report the bombardment of the Bulgarian coast, the British statement saying that British, French and Russian ships composed the Allied squadron. An Italian squadron is also taking part in the blockade and bombardment of the Bulgarian coast. A large number of British troops are said to be landing, and perhaps a more cheerful time is coming for the heroic Serbs. The Serbian capital has been removed from Nish, now seriously menaced by the Bulgarians, to Prizrend, in the extreme western part of the country on the Albanian frontier.

On the Italian front brilliant successes are officially claimed, the fighting in the vicinity of Goritz, the key to the Isonzo campaign, being very heavy and disastrous to the enemy. There are unconfirmed rumors that Goritz has fallen. For five months the Italian big guns have been hammering the strong forts set on the steep hills around Goritz, which, situated in a pocket formed by a bend in the Isonzo, its natural protection on the west, and the mountains stretching in a semi-circle north, east and south, has been regarded by the Austrians and military experts of other countries as an impregnable fortress. The Italian General Staff has made no secret of its belief that the fall of Goritz means a clear road to Trieste, the great Austrian port at the head of the Adriatic, which is the chief Italian objective in the campaign. The strong Italian offensive now going on it is thought will result in the recall to the frontier of the Trentino and Trieste of many of the Austrian troops now being used in the Serbian campaign, giving the Bulgars still more reason to regret their alliance with the Teutons.

The position of Greece purports to be outlined in a publication which appeared in all the Athens newspapers on the same day. The Government is said to express surprise at the intervention of the Entente powers in relations between Greece and Serbia, holding that Greece is an independent nation, and has a right to regulate itself and its fortunes. To intervene to aid Serbia, it is held, would require 400,000 men, and Greece would ruin herself without saving Serbia. England and her allies are thanked for their offers, but it is asserted that Greece is giving them all possible aid in permitting Allied troops to cross Greek territory.

Italy and Russia have formally declared war against Bulgaria, the Czar in his manifesto especially denouncing her treason to the Slav cause, prepared with perfidy since the beginning of the war, and culminating in the dastardly attack upon bleeding Serbia, prompted by German intrigue and fratricidal hatred.

The British submarines are still very active in the Baltic, four more German steamships having fallen victims—the 'Hernoesand', 1,182 tons gross; 'Plauen', 4,210 tons; 'Rendsburg', 4,639 tons and 'Electra', 1,261 tons, while a Petrograd despatch says one operating near Libau attacked and sunk a German cruiser of the 'Prinz Adalbert' class. A Berlin despatch says most of the crew perished.

King George on Oct. 22nd issued an appeal to his people to come forward voluntarily and aid Great Britain in her fight against the Germanic allies. 'More men, and yet more,' he says, 'are wanted to keep my armies in the field, and through them to secure enduring peace.'

King George is now in France, visiting the British army. It is said he hopes to see some of the allied troops.

Von Bissing, the German so styled governor of Belgium, has issued another of his never ending proclamations accusing the people of Brussels of notifying the enemy forces of the location of buildings in which German troops are housed, thus causing many air raids. If the raids continue the troops will be quartered in the homes of the civilians, contrary to the agreement heretofore made. Similar steps will be taken if hereafter arms and ammunition are found in the possession of residents of Brussels.

The King, having heard that the Canadian Red Cross Society was looking for a house in the vicinity of London as a convalescent home this week, commanded the lord chamberlain to offer for this object the house and grounds known as Upper Lodge, at Bushey Park, a beautiful royal demesne in Surrey, about ten miles from London. General Carleton Jones accepted the offer on behalf of the Canadian medical service.

The success attending the appointment of Mr. Lloyd George as Minister of Munitions is testified to by the 'Times' correspondent, who says that the production of munitions has increased fourfold, and in one highly important branch over thirtyfold.

The Luxembourg authorities have decided to follow the German and Belgian examples and have ordered coinage of 200,000 francs in five and ten centime pieces of zinc.

An official Canadian honor list given out by the Militia Department at Ottawa on Oct. 25th shows that 15,187 Canadian soldiers have been killed, wounded, are prisoners or missing. Of this number 677 are officers and 14,510 of all other ranks. There have been killed in action 99 officers and 1,625 men. Those who died of wounds number 25 officers and 654 men. There are also 32 officers and 1,110 men missing, and it is presumed that nearly all of these were killed in battle and buried by the Germans. This would mean 581 officers and 3,389 men have fallen in battle. The wounded are 457 officers and 9,660 men.

Oakville to Go Dry

Oakville is to vote on a local option bylaw at the next Municipal election. The village council on Monday night gave 2 readings to a local option bylaw. No petitions had been prepared and the Council simply acted on its own initiative at the request of a deputation of temperance reformers. The sentiment in favor of bar abolition is strong in Oakville, and the backers of the move must be confident the bylaw will carry.

Erindale

On Friday evening, Nov. 19, a Patriotic Concert will be held in the Parish Hall under the auspices of Court Lorraine I. O. F. An excellent programme will be rendered by the following well known artists: Mr. Harvey Lloyd, Comedian; Miss Bigwood, Soprano and Miss Dillon, Pianist. An address will be delivered by Bro. Geo. A. Mitchell of Toronto. The programme will begin at eight o'clock. Admission: Adults 25c, Children 15c.

Port Credit

Residents of the village got a real taste of martial law last Friday night that brought the war close home to them. Outposts were in charge of every crossroad, and at every few hundred yards on the Lake Shore road. Every traveller, either on foot or driving, was challenged. There were many exciting incidents when some of the autoists objected to being held up so often. By the time they got a mile most of them, however, got used to hearing 'Halt! Who goes there? When they stopped the rigs were searched for 'the enemy.' Mr. Edward Burns got even with the invaders by allowing them to capture a big bag of apples by admitting they were 'spies.'

VILLAGE DECORATED

The whole village was gaily decorated for the invaders, and instead of resistance the boys found a splendid welcome awaiting their arrival. All houses were beflagged, and the camping ground opposite the St. Lawrence Starch Works was brilliantly lighted. The entrance to the Grand Trunk station had huge signs of 'welcome,' while the exit was similarly decorated.

The Port Credit branch of the Peel Auxiliary of the Red Cross Society has been organized with a full staff of officers. They are H.-K. Bowden, president; Rev. Mr. Humphrey, Thos. Allison and C. H. McMullin, vice-presidents; T. D. Schiller, secretary and G. McClelland, treasurer. Addresses were given by J. M. Godfrey, G. M. Kelly, W. C. Jones, J. L. Ross, R.N. Irvine and Sergt. Eccles, a returned soldier. Three recruits were obtained at the meeting.

Brampton

Mr. E. S. Williamson, known throughout Canada as an interpreter of the works of Dickens, died at Wellesly hospital, Toronto, on Saturday night. Mr. Williamson suffered a breakdown some months ago, but pluckily held to his duties at the Parliament Buildings until Oct. 18th, when he was removed to the hospital. He died from a form of tuberculosis. The remains were removed to his home in Brampton. On Tuesday, following a service at the home conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hunter, they were taken to Toronto for burial. At 3 o'clock a service was held at A.W. Miles funeral chapel, 306 College St., and was conducted by Rev. Dr. W. H. Hincks and Rev. Dr. W. F. Wilson. Interment took place to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The funeral was attended by many members of the Dickens' Fellowship, which will hold a memorial service on Friday evening, Nov. 5th. Mr. Williamson was born in Brampton forty-three years ago, the son of the late W. S. Williamson. He was educated in the local schools, and in 1889 he entered the public service as a clerk in the Crown Lands Department. He was closely associated with the late Aubrey White, being secretary of the Lands and Forests Department. As a lover of Dickens he was probably without a rival anywhere. He was the owner of Dickens' watch and of other curios, and his library had thousands of volumes and documents relating to his favorite. He was the founder of the Dickens' Fellowship in Toronto, which, with its 1000 members, became the largest of its kind in the world. He was president of the Fellowship from its beginning in 1905 until 1912, when he resigned and was succeeded by Mr. F. M. Bell-Smith. As Sergt. Buzz Fuzz he made an instant success in the presentation on many occasions of the drama 'Bardell v. Pickwick.' He was also a member of the Dickens' Players. Mr. Williamson is survived by his widow, a daughter of the late Wm. McKenna, of Brampton, by two sons, Aubrey and Gordon, and by two brothers, Mr. Curtis Williamson, the distinguished Canadian artist, W. A. Williamson, Brampton; and two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Robertson and Mrs. Edith Beyon, both of Toronto.

Brigham Vicar's Forty Years Ministry

During his discourse Sunday night at Brigham Church, Canon Pollock alluded to the fact that it was just forty years that day since he first occupied the pulpit in Brigham Church. Vast changes have taken place in those forty years, which seemed a long time to look back to. Perhaps there was only one, or possibly two, persons there that evening who were present on that occasion forty years ago. The majority of those now in the congregation would not even be born. During his ministry the churchyard had twice been extended, and 1,338 persons had been buried there, which was more than the present population. There had been 310 marriages and 1,445 baptisms. Six hundred of those baptised had come forward for confirmation. There was great disappointment in the fact that, although good examples had been set, a great many had fallen away. When he first entered Brigham Church he thought surely this church will never hold the people, but he was sorry to say the church was seldom filled. He felt bound to ask the solemn question, during the 5,000 times he had preached from the pulpit, what fruit had been brought down? What a reckoning there would be on the Day of Judgement. He wished to God that he could only blame himself for the abuse of God's grace. He entered on his ministry with the full determination to preach Christ and Him crucified, which he had done to the best of his ability; and if he had shunned to declare the counsel of God, he alone would have to answer to God. The Brigham Church presented a different scene forty years ago. The chancel was just being restored and the Communion table was placed beneath the tower. Since then the beautiful chancel had been in evidence, the church had been decorated and a very good organ installed. They had lived in times of peace with very few dissensions, and he had been shown kindness on many occasions, for which he was truly thankful. As his remaining days, months or years must necessarily be short, he asked for sympathy and help to make his last days better than the first.

Mr. E. W. Pollock, Streetsville, is a son of Canon Pollock. The above is a clipping from an English paper.

Sofia Now Admits That One-quarter of Dedeag-hatch Was Razed by the Shells

A despatch from Sofia says: Although the bombardment of Varna by the Russian fleet lasted only ten minutes, the bodies of 22 civilians already have been found, while over a hundred persons were injured, many of them severely, according to reports received here.

The Russian fleet was sighted at eight o'clock in the morning rapidly approaching the city, and opened fire while still at a great distance. It approached to within a little over three miles, but withdrew before the Bulgarian batteries could make their fire effective.

According to officials here, the Russians never searched out the Bulgarian batteries, but merely shelled the city, especially the harbor sections, where Greeks form the majority of the population. The people are greatly excited over the bombardments of Bulgarian cities on the Aegean and Black Seas.

The damage done by the bombardment of Aegean Sea towns and villages by the allied fleet recently was greater than at first reported. One-fourth of the entire city of Dedeag-hatch was razed by the shells of the warships.

BLOWING PATH TOWARD LILLE

French Troops Destroy the German Entrenchments in the Arras District.

A despatch from Paris says: The French have made a valuable gain south-east of Neuville-St. Vaast, on the road between Arras and Lille. The attack was preceded by the explosion of heavily-charged mines, which tore up the enemy trenches at this point and destroyed their barbed wire entanglements. The instant after the mines were detonated the French troops rushed forward and occupied the craters made by the explosions, strengthening the new positions. The German guns to the rear at once began a heavy bombardment, under cover of which the Germans re-organized and made repeated counter-attacks in an effort to regain the positions, but the French held the advantage.

The Germans made another gas attack east of Rheims. The French troops, protecting themselves against the gas-clouds, poured in a heavy infantry fire, which was supported by a certain of fire from the French artillery, and the German attempt was cut short.

An earlier German attack in the Champagne made at night at La Courtine was stopped by the French rifle and machine gun fire.

An official communication from Field Marshal Sir John French, the British Commander-in-Chief in France, says:

"Since my last communication, the situation on our front has remained unchanged. There have been mining activities on both sides, but without important results.

"The enemy's artillery has been active east of Ypres and south of the La Bassée Canal. Our reply to this shelling has been very effective.

"Our airmen brought down two German aeroplanes yesterday, one falling inside our own lines, and the other close behind the enemy's front trenches."

THE CORRECT METHOD OF ADDRESSING MAIL

In order to facilitate the handling of mail at the front and to insure prompt delivery it is requested that all mail be addressed as follows:—

- Regimental Number
- Rank
- Name
- Squadron, Battery or Company
- Battalion, Regiment (or other unit), Staff appointment or Department
- Canadian Contingent
- British Expeditionary Force
- Army Post Office, London, England

Unnecessary mention of higher formations, such as brigades, divisions, is strictly forbidden, and causes delay.

Shell Burst 100 Yards From Italian King

A despatch from Turin says: Signor Barzilai, the Irredentist Minister, who just returned from the war zone, states that Austrian shrapnel burst only one hundred yards away from an observatory where he was watching the battle on the Isonzo in the company of King Victor.

German Atrocities Museum in Petrograd

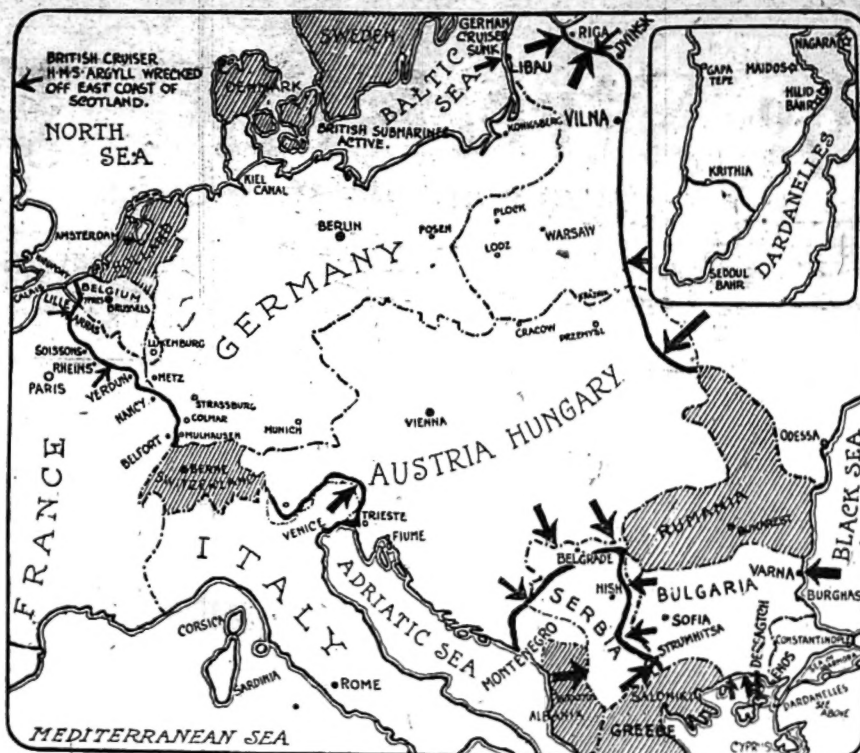

A despatch from Reuter's Telegram Company from Petrograd says: "The German atrocities museum has been opened here. It contains a large number of photographs of mutilated soldiers whose wounds are alleged to have been caused by explosive bullets, and also tables of statistics of five thousand cases of atrocities investigated by the special commission of inquiry into German atrocities, by which the museum was established."

Four More German Steamers Sunk in Baltic

A despatch from London says: British submarines have sunk four more German steamers in the Baltic. It is announced in an official statement received from Petrograd. The Norwegian steamer Selma, 987 tons, has been sunk, presumably by a German submarine. Only two of the crew of 21 have been picked up. The tank steamer H. C. Henry, of British registry, but owned in Seattle, Wash., has been sunk in the Mediterranean. No lives were lost.

The Week's Developments in the War.

The major interest in the war during the last week has been in the developments in the Balkans. The Austro-German troops have made some progress in their invasion, although the Serbians have offered a heroic resistance, and the enemy's advance has been hampered by the nature of the country. On the northern part of their front the Bulgarian army has met with some success, and has joined hands with the Austro-German forces. Further south, however, the French and British troops landed at Saloniki, have joined the Serbians and have driven the Bulgarians to their own frontier at the same time, with the result that Strumitza is being menaced by the forces of the Entente.

British and French war-ships have bombarded the Bulgarian coast from the Aegean Sea, and Turkish troops are reported to have been rushed to reinforce the Bulgarians on the coast, in anticipation of an attempt to land by the Allies.

Russia is negotiating with Rumania for permission to send troops through that country against Bulgaria, while Russian war-ships have bombarded Varna, one of the two principal Bulgarian ports on the Black Sea. On the Western front, there has been comparatively little change, both sides claiming some local successes. The Russians are now on the offensive on most of the great Eastern battle-front, but conditions there show little change.

With the obvious aim of relieving the pressure on Serbia, the Italian troops have taken the offensive on their front, and despite the difficulties of the country, have won important positions. Other developments are indicated on the chart.

200,000 CANADIAN SOLDIERS NOW AT FRONT OR IN TRAINING

Nearly Twenty New Battalions Have Been Added to the Expeditionary Force in the Last Month

A despatch from Ottawa says: There are now 200,000 Canadian soldiers under arms, either at the front, in England, or Canada. To the 10,000 which it was announced had enlisted up to the end of September nearly twenty new battalions have been added during the past month, while the foundations of others are being laid to raise and train men in the smaller local centres.

The new units recently recruited are as follows:—Two pioneer regiments, one in Western Canada and one in Eastern Canada. One regiment of mounted rifles from Niagara district; one battalion from Toronto; one from Grey County; two from Simcoe County; one from Ontario County; one or possibly two from Elgin and Kent Counties; one from Essex County; one from the Rainy River and Fort William districts; two new battalions from Manitoba; two from Saskatchewan; one from Alberta; one from New Brunswick, and one at Victoria, with another to be raised on the British Columbia mainland.

GERMAN MASSES ARE HELD BACK

Made Five Distinct Onslaughts On the French Positions in Tature Sector.

A despatch from Paris says: A German assault on the Tature sector, begun with violence Saturday, continued with five more distinct attacks on the French positions, preceded by extremely heavy artillery fire and the use of gas shells. In the first of these five attempts the Germans succeeded in reaching the summit of the Butte de Tature. At other points and in the remaining four attacks they were repulsed, with heavy losses, and everywhere were forced to return to the trenches they had occupied before their attack.

The assault which won the Butte de Tature covered altogether a front of five miles, running from the woods at the side of Hill 195, past the Butte de Tature, and the village of Tature, to and including the earthworks known as La Courtine. After a bombardment of extreme violence the German infantry, made up largely of units recently sent from the Russian front, attacked all along the line. The French fire cut through their ranks and threw them back, except at the one point named. Before the village of Tature the Germans suffered especially heavy losses, leaving a large number of dead before their trenches.

The German artillery opened again on the same series of positions, using large-calibre shells filled with suffocating gases. Beginning with an attack on the eastern section of La Courtine, the enemy followed up the offensive at intervals with assaults on the village of Tature, the region to the south of the village and the crests to the north-east. The French artillery and rifle fire beat them back to their trenches in each case.

FOR FIRST TIME IS FAVORABLE

Balkan Situation Is Hopeful From the Allies' Point of View.

A despatch from London says: From the allies' point of view, the Balkan situation looks more favorable than at any time since the invasion of Serbia began, or, as one military observer said frankly:

"It looks for the first time favorable." The cause of this is a sudden marked change in Rumania's attitude in favor of the allies, a change which has occasioned Berlin practically to despair of the hope that this Balkan State would maintain its neutrality.

Bucharest despatches make no secret of the fact that Rumania is lending a willing ear to the Entente offer to grant all her claims, including Bessarabia.

A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Bucharest says that at an audience granted Minister of the Interior Jonescu and M. Filipescu, leader of the Conservative party, King Ferdinand declared that he was not opposed to the realization of the aspirations of the Roumanian people, and that in this matter he placed himself in the hands of Parliament and the Government.

A half million well-equipped Russian soldiers are reported to be in readiness, waiting for Rumania to say the word, then to march through that country to relieve the Serbians. Rumania herself, by accepting the allies' offer, is expected, by the terms of the pact, to send her own army over the frontier, falling in the rear of the Teuton and Bulgarian forces advancing toward the heart of Serbia from the bend of the Danube.

Already the German general staff is said to be figuring with this danger. The news is confirmed that part of the army of Gen. von Lisingen, fighting in South-western Russia, has been sent to the Roumanian border line.

TWO DOZEN CAPTURED CANNON DISPLAYED AT HORSE GUARDS

Guns Which Germans Used in Defence of Loos Viewed by Thousands of London Citizens

A despatch from London says: With their silent muzzles pointing towards St. James' Park, the first trophies of the great offensive in France have been ranged on the Horse Guards parade. Twenty-one German field guns and three trench mortars formed a war exhibit of the highest interest to Londoners. Not since Crimea and the Indian Mutiny have guns captured from an enemy crunched the gravel of the Horse Guards parade and publicly ranged as labelled exhibits.

With the exception of three pieces captured at Le Cateau, August 23, 1914, the whole of the guns took part in the Battle of Loos September 25 last. The mud and stain of the battlefield is upon them.

The trophies were hauled into position by the gunners of the Royal Horse Artillery, and beneath the muzzle of each gun was driven a little notice board informing the public of the name of the regiment or division which captured it and where it was captured. Four armed sentries guarded the trophies and a sentry box was placed at each of the four corners of the wired enclosure. The presence of these captured guns from Loos made an appeal to the imagination of thousands of people who swarmed around the enclosure.

LOOKING OLD TOO SOON

The Condition of Too Many Women and Too Many Girls.

Too many women and too many girls look old long before they should. Their faces become pale and drawn; wrinkles appear and their eyes lack brightness. Can this be wondered at when they so frequently have headaches, backaches and a general feeling of wretchedness and weakness? In most cases it is the blood that is to blame. From one cause or another the blood has become thin and watery, and it is a fact that anaemia (bloodlessness) more than any other cause, gives women this prematurely aged appearance. It is important that the blood supply of girls and women be regularly replenished—important not only on the score of looks, but to restore robust health, which is of greater value. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood and restore the system shattered by overwork or worry. These pills give a glow of health to pale faces and make tired, weary women and girls feel bright and happy. With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at hand there is no need for any woman or any girl to look ill or feel ill. Mrs. J. McDonald, Jr., Hay, Ont., says: "I honestly believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. Some years ago I had anaemia, and as I did not realize the seriousness of the trouble I soon became a complete wreck. I got so weak I could hardly walk. I neither ate nor slept well, and could not get up stairs without stopping to rest. At times I had an almost unbearable pain in my back and would have to remain in bed. I suffered almost constantly from a dull headache, and when sweeping if I would stoop to pick up anything I would get so dizzy that I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling. At times my heart would beat so fast that I would have a smothering sensation. My eyes were sunken and my hands and limbs would be swollen in the mornings. I tried several kinds of medicine without benefit and my friends thought I would not recover. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and before long could see and feel that they were helping me. I gladly continued the use of the pills until I was completely cured and I cannot say enough in their praise, and I strongly recommend them to all run-down girls and women."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

QUENCH THIRST BY STRATEGY.

A General Can't Get Liquor in Paris Cafes, But Wife Can.

Gen. Gallieni's order against alcohol being served to military men has caused many an amusing scene in the Paris restaurants. In the provinces the order is not so strictly observed. An official definition as to what constitutes alcohol has been given, by which it appears that men in uniform are entitled to drink any natural wine or any liquor not more than 15 degrees strong. This bars even vermouths and quinquinas, all of which contain more than 15 degrees, in fact, it leaves no "aperitif" that is considered worth drinking.

British Generals have been refused whiskey and soda at dinner, much to their indignation, and, when as often happens, their French is not sufficient to enable them to understand the reason, the other diners have had some fun out of the incidents. At many a restaurant when the coffee stage was reached it could be noted that officers seemed to be taking two cups at once. One contained a liqueur. Some restaurant keepers close their eyes when an officer orders a soft drink for himself and alcohol for his wife, and each drinks from the other's glass. Other restaurants are more careful, explaining that such and such a place had been closed for two days for allowing such a dodge.

Men on leave from the front take the matter philosophically, some resentfully, some smilingly. At the front itself the rum ration has been suppressed except for the men in the first line trenches. A returned "pollu" when asked what was his chief souvenir of the campaign so far (he had been at the front all the time since August) said at once: "The funeral of the rum bottle. When the order suppressing the rum ration went into force we got an empty bottle and buried it with all the military honors we could arrange. We made wreaths for its grave and drew up a moving death card, announcing the death of a much-loved comrade, deeply regretted by all who knew him. They said the officers were much amused when they saw it."

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

Ailments such as constipation, colic, colds, vomiting, etc., seize children of all ages, and the mother should be on her guard against these troubles by keeping a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. If any of these troubles come on suddenly the tablets will cure them, or if the little one is given an occasional dose of the tablets he will escape these troubles. The tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Admiral Jellicoe At a Dress Ball.

SHOOTING FOR RAIN.

An Expert Says Cannonading Will Not Cause Rain.

At a recent meeting of the Royal Meteorological Society, Dr. H. R. Mill, director of the British Rainfall Organization, discredited the theory that the firing at the seat of war was the cause of the heavy rainfalls of last winter. Those who argue that cannonading causes rain assert that the concussion shakes the air and thus precipitates the moisture in the clouds. If that theory is correct, the precipitation should occur immediately and in the area within which the explosions shake up the air strata. As a matter of fact, the lack of rain in the western war area during the months of September, October, March and April was noticeable and unusual. In the same way, he said, people had attributed the exceptional wetness of the winter of 1903 to the general adoption of wireless telegraphy. The fact that the winter of 1873, which was long before the use of Hertzian waves, was notably wet, and that no year since 1903 has been nearly so wet, in spite of the enormous increase in radiotelegraphy, shows the inaccuracy of such an explanation.

JELlicoe's COAL BILL.

Modern Battleship Uses Twenty Tons of Coal an Hour.

The British Navy is the world's champion coal-consumer. In 1913, under peace conditions, the Admiralty spent no less than $11,455,245 on fuel. What the bill for 1914 will be time alone will tell, but it will be many times greater than what it was in 1913. Every ship is in commission, every bunker is crammed with black diamonds, and, day and night, a full head of steam has to be maintained, ready at a moment's notice for the order "Full speed ahead." The average modern battleship requires about twenty tons of coal an hour in order to maintain a full head of steam. And we have nearly seventy such ships at present in commission, says London Answers. A battle cruiser, such as the Lion, has engines of greater horse-power than the average battleship, and consequently requires more fuel.

When Sir David Beatty's squadron of five battle-cruisers paid their famous visit to the Heligoland Bight, they consumed between them nearly 5,000 tons of the best Welsh steam coal.

Considering their size, torpedo-boat destroyers are even bigger gluttons for coal than battle-cruisers. Our Navy must be burning over 100,000 tons in the course of a day. The German Navy, which is resting so comfortably in the Kiel Canal, is doubtless very much more economical.

The British taxpayer can therefore look forward to being presented with the biggest coal bill the world has ever known. He can also look forward to going short of coal himself.

Germany used to be our best customer for coal, but the Navy is more than making up for any custom we have lost through the war.

Stocks are getting low and prices are going up and up. But we shall have one consolation as we sit by our empty grates. We may shiver, but Jellicoe is getting all the coal he needs. And a battleship without sufficient coal is of no more use than so much scrap-iron.

ZINC IN WAR TIME.

A Constituent of Cartridge Brass and Shell Fuses.

Zinc is so essential in war that it has risen enormously in price in the past year. Costing originally only two-fifths as much as copper, it now costs decidedly more than copper, in spite of the fact that copper itself has sharply increased in value. Zinc is a constituent of cartridge brass and shell fuses, and is used also as a covering for iron barbed-wire fencing. In 1913 the United States, Germany, and Belgium were the leading producers of zinc. Of the three, only the United States smelted domestic ore. Belgium and Germany relied mainly on zinc concentrates that they imported from the Broken Hill mines in New South Wales, where, for one reason and another, it does not pay to do the smelting. France, Spain, and Great Britain also produce substantial quantities, but not enough to supply their own needs. Austria and Germany have considerable deposits of ore in Silesia, Hungary, Carinthia, and the Tirol. As the zinc-smelting furnaces of Great Britain are not well adapted for dealing with the Broken Hill concentrates, it buys the bulk of its supplies from the United States.

NEW WAY OF FIGHTING FLIES.

A Farmer Gives an Easily Applied Preventative.

Farmers whose barns and outhouses are infested by flies in the summer season may be interested in learning how to banish the pests. According to the Bloemfontein (South African) friend, a farmer who had many cows housed in different sheds saw, without being able to prevent it, the annoyance to which the animals were subjected. He happened, however, to observe that one shed, the walls of which were of a somewhat bluish tint, was free from flies, and the cows were unworried by their attacks. Thereupon he added a bit of blue color to the lime with which he covered the walls of his sheds, and from that moment the flies deserted the premises.

The following is the formula he used in providing this effective specific against flies: To twenty gallons of water add ten pounds of slaked lime and one pound of ultramarine. The wash should be applied twice during the summer.

MOTHER'S "NOTIONS"

Good for Young People to Follow.

"My little grandson often comes up to show me how large the muscles of his arms are."

"He was a delicate child, but has developed into a strong, healthy boy, and Postum has been the principal factor."

"I was induced to give him the Postum because of my own experience with it."

"I am sixty years old, and have been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for many years. Have tried all sorts of medicines and had treatment from many physicians, but no permanent relief came."

"I used to read the Postum advertisements in our paper. At first I gave but little attention to them, but finally something in one of the advertisements made me conclude to try Postum."

"I was very particular to have it prepared strictly according to directions, and used good, rich cream. It was very nice indeed, and about bedtime I said to the members of the family that I believed I felt better. One of them laughed and said, 'That's another of mother's notions,' but the notion has not left me yet."

"I continued to improve right along after leaving off tea and coffee and taking Postum, and now after three years' use I feel so well that I am almost young again. I know Postum was the cause of the change in my health and I cannot say too much in its favor. I wish I could persuade all nervous people to use it."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Postum comes in two forms: Postum Cereal—the original form—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder—dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost about the same per cup. "There's a Reason" for Postum.

Painful Swellings Reduced Muscular Strains Ended

Such Troubles Now Quickly Rubbed Away by Powerful Remedy.

If you have any muscles that are strained and weak, that are frequently subject to rheumatic pains; if you have any painful swellings that refuse to go away—get busy with Nerviline. This is the very sort of trouble that Nerviline is noted for curing quickly. "I have proved Nerviline simply a wonder in reducing a hard, painful swelling. It followed an injury I received in my left leg and caused me great pain and discomfort. The muscles were strained and sore, and no other remedy gave the ease and comfort I got from rubbing on Nerviline. There is a soothing, pain-relieving power about Nerviline that touched the root of my trouble. Nerviline reduced the swelling, it destroyed the pain, it brought my limb back to perfect condition." The experience of Mr. Bowen, whose home is in Middlesex, is not unusual. Thousands are proving every day that muscular pains of every kind, chronic rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica will yield to Nerviline when nothing else can possibly cure. Nerviline is an old-time family pain remedy, used nearly forty years with great success. The large family size bottle costs 50c., trial size 25c. at all dealers.

THE GREAT SEAL.

A More Elaborate Article Than Most People Imagine.

The Great Seal of England that Lord Haldane handed to the King when he resigned the Lord Chancellorship is, says the London Chronicle, a more elaborate article than most people imagine. It costs about $3,500 to make it, and it consists of two heavy silver plates, in one of which is cut the die for the front of the seal, and in the other, that for the back. When the seal is to be affixed to a document, a lump of wax is softened in hot water and cooled in cold water, after which it is placed between the two plates and pressed. It comes out in the shape of a disk, with an impression on each side.

Formerly there was an official attached to the seal who was quite as proud of his office as the Lord Chancellor was of his. That was "Chaffwax," whose sole business was to melt the wax and to take the impressions of the Great Seal as often as required. The writer remembers the last of the "Chaffwaxes," a rosy-cheeked old gentleman who lived long to enjoy the pension that a grateful country granted him for his important services. Those services are now performed by an unnamed subordinate in the chancellor's office.

Now that vodka has been abolished, the Russians are taking to tea with great favor. Russian agents are buying great quantities of tea in the East, thus forcing up the price of the product.

A Violated Agreement.

"I don't like to find fault, Mr. Landlord," said Dixie Ipsit, addressing the proprietor of the Ocean View House, "but didn't I understand that our arrangement was that all bills were to be presented weekly?"

"Undoubtedly, sir," replied the landlord.

"Well, I think you had better notify your mosquitoes of the fact, sir," said Dixie. "About 10,000 of them are presenting their bills nightly."

The Warm Bath.

Smythe's mistake, which is described in an English contemporary, must have been disconcerting, to say the least.

"You'll find your bath in the outhouse."

Thus he had been directed the night before at the little inn where he was stopping, and that is why he was now, in his dressing gown, pushing open the outhouse door. It was dark, but there was the tub, and it would do. He hopped in. In the middle of his ablutions the red-faced landlord thrust his head in at the door. In the dim light he failed to see the man in the tub.

"Water quite nicely warm, thanks," observed Smythe, "but it's a trifle muddy."

"Muddy be hanged!" roared the landlord, bursting in suddenly. "Your tub's in the next place. Git out of it, you blitherin' idiot! Not a word of this in the 'ouse, mind! Not a word of this in the 'ouse! That's my 'ome-brewed ale you're a-washin' in!"

The more talk it takes to run things the slower they move.

BRITAIN'S DREADNOUGHTS.

Numbers More Effective in Sea Than Land Fights.

The question of numerical superiority is of extremely great importance in naval fights—much greater than in land battles, says the World's Work. Ashore a weaker force, by intrenching and using obstacles, can stand off a much stronger one; for example, the German army in France has probably been outnumbered more than two to one during the recent extraordinary operations, yet the allied troops have been unable to make very much headway against the strongly intrenched line.

But on the water the "terrain" offers no protection, and, in consequence, it is mathematically demonstrable that, assuming equality of units, the "strength" of two opposing fleets varies as the "square" of the numbers of ships.

The great value of initial numerical superiority is evident; if England's 45 dreadnoughts can bring to action Germany's 26, the preponderance of strength of the larger fleet (assuming equal units) will be in the ratio of 2025 to 676—that is to say, England's superiority will be actually more than three to one, instead of less than two to one, as seems at first evident from the numerical proportions.

How to Awake Fresh as a Daisy Constipation Gone!

No other remedy acts the same. Works while you sleep, smoothly, silently, effectively. Cures the worst headache or constipation. This is what happens when you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For wind or pain in the stomach nothing works better. No bad taste left behind, no furred tongue, no more dizzy spells or bilious fits after taking Hamilton's Pills. All the old costiveness, frightful dreams and nervous disorders disappear as a ship in the night. The appetite is sharpened up, takes on a keen edge. You enjoy your meals, relish and digest them. Strength and buoyant spirits return. You feel good, you look like your old self again with bright eyes and rosy cheeks. The best guarantee of good health and old age that man and woman can have is the regular use of this family Pill. Suited to all ages, you should get a few 25c. boxes from the drug store and keep them handy. Remember the name—Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut—no substitute so good as the genuine.

To Raise Telegraph Rates.

Along with the rise in the price of nearly everything else, the telegraph rate in Great Britain will probably soon be raised. It is reported that the postal authorities—the telegraph lines are the Government-controlled in Great Britain—are considering increasing, from 12 to 18 cents, the rate for sending a 12-word message, address and signature to be counted as words as heretofore. The 12-cent rate has been in force 30 years.

IT'S A GOD-SEND TO HUMANITY is what a leading physician says of Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal. Properly cooked into porridge according to directions on package, without stirring after first making, it is a delight to humanity. Use a double boiler or set boiler in basin of boiling water and use one cup meal to two cups water. Cook for half an hour. It's very nutritious, prevents indigestion and relieves constipation or "money back." Ask your doctor. At grocers, 10 and 25 cents.

The Runaway.

In spite of scoldings, Helen persisted in running away from home. One day, after a longer absence than usual, her mother asked, "Helen, dear, does not your conscience trouble you?" explaining that her conscience was a little voice speaking within.

Helen answered: "Oh, yes, mamma; that little voice is always saying: 'Run faster, faster, Helen; your mother is after you!'"

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows

The Silver Lining.

War does not make all men blood-thirsty. On the banks of the Yser in Belgium where there has been such fierce fighting, the ambulance men one day found a young German badly wounded; and in the midst of the bursting shells they stopped to scribble a line describing what they had seen and heard, and pinned it on the blanket that enveloped him.

When he reached the improvised hospital, the nurses read the blood-stained sheet of packing paper, and one or two brushed away tears as they did so. It bore these words: "He saved the lives of seven British soldiers." It is good to know that, tenderly cared for by an English doctor, he eventually recovered.

Advantage of Years.

The novelist's small boy had just been brought to judgment for telling a fib. His sobs having died away, he sat for a time in silent thought. "Pa," said he, "how long will it be before I stop gettin' licked for tellin' lies—an' begin to get paid for 'em, like you do?"

Much Alike.

"So you have been around the world, eh? It must be great to observe the various customs and the amusements of the inhabitants of strange and far countries."

"I didn't notice any great difference. They all put in their spare time going to moving picture shows."

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gentlemen,—I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT on my vessel and in my family for years, and for the every day ills and accidents of life I consider it has no equal. Germany Needs Copper.

The German Ministry has announced that owing to a scarcity of copper all chandeliers and lighting apparatus as well as works of art, such as statues, will be taken over by the Government. Lighting appliances not in daily use will be taken first, but it is stated that the Government soon will have to seize all the copper in Germany.

Two Brothers Serve

"This is my second day in the trenches of Flanders, and I have had many strange experiences," writes Lieut. H. W. Scruton to his father, Mr. L. Scruton, of 1841 Dundas St. "We were taken in a train from Boulogne to the front, and were quartered for a time in a piggery. The officers slept on boards in the loft, and the men slept on the cement floor. The place was infested with mice. The trench we are in is 500 yards from the Hun's line. At one place it is only forty yards away. There is considerable sniping going on all the time. One of our snipers had bullets pierce his cap and sleeve. I had a peepscope shot off a rifle in my hands, and the warning made me careful, as the Huns are good shots. The safest place is close to the parapet. The whole place is a mass of trenches. The zig-zag ones lead to the rear to the support trenches. During the night some of our men erected barbed wire entanglements on 'No Man's Land,' as the ground between the two forward lines is called. We are told to be ready to advance at any moment, and are always ready. I have two platoons to look after. Every six days the men are taken from the forward lines and taken to the rear for a rest. Our food is good, and nearly always plenty of it. At this particular place the rats are very numerous. They are tame, and the men have to watch their haversacks, or their lunches of biscuits will be found missing. The officers detect them at night with their flash lamps. Seven officers are in our division reserve. Near our billet in the rear is an artillery battery, and the enemy is bombarded incessantly. All the farm houses and buildings nearby are blown to pieces by shells."

Lieut. Scruton is 23 years old, and enlisted in Guelph, where he was foreman of the W. G. and R. His twin brother, Lieut. Frank D. Scruton, is as present in the 78th Battalion, Hughes Camp, Sewell, Manitoba. Previous to enlisting, he was assistant sales manager of the Ashdown Hardware Co. of Winnipeg.

"LET GEORGE DO IT" SPIRIT

Practical Patriots Needed

PORT CREDIT, Nov. 2.—"If women could not get there would be no need to hold recruiting meetings. The time has come when it is up to the women to ask their brothers and their lovers why they are not in uniform; why are they coming around. The time has come for every able bodied man to enlist. I would hire a carload of petticoats and put them on every man physically fit, not in uniform." Thus did Col. Windeyer stir up the 2000 people gathered in the boiler room of the St. Lawrence Starch Works at a joint welcome of the 74th Battalion and a patriotic gathering last night. Continuing, the commander of the 74th said there had been too much of the "let George do it" spirit shown among young men. "It is time Tom, Dick and Harry came forward."

WANTS PRACTICAL PATRIOTS

"Canada will never raise the required seven more battalions by the young civilians going around singing, 'We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall.' In conclusion, he said it was not a case of cowardice. 'I am afraid—every man is afraid—it is a case of us all being a little gun shy. But that is because the urgent need for men has not been realized.'"

Mr. W. C. O. Innes, general secretary of the Peel War Auxiliary, said the organization was started to band together those who cannot enlist, but can assist with the following: (1) to raise a sum for the Red Cross; (2) to raise recruits; (3) to raise funds for the Canadian Patriotic League and (4) to look after the returned wounded, and to see that each man gets suitable employment. (Cheers.)

BIG TASK AHEAD

"In Germany the women are following the plow that the husbands and sons can take Canada," said Major Birch, the battalion Chaplain. "We have not had the best of the fight yet. Before it is finished many of us may be under sods not ours, but freely will that sacrifice be made for the redemption of our country, and the whole world. Tests will be applied where the highest qualities of the nation shall be required."

Following the Chaplain's appeal, Sergt. Eccles, recently returned from the trenches, urged recruits to come forward. In about ten minutes a score of names were enrolled.

Among those on the platform with Chairman Reeve Elliot were Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, President J. M. Godfrey of the County Auxiliary, Col. Windeyer, President G. M. Kelly of the Port Credit branch of the Auxiliary and General Secretary W. C. Innes.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME

Speeches of welcome to the battalion were made by Mr. L. A. Hamilton and Mr. G. M. Kelly. The latter assured the men that the country would stand behind them in the Red Cross work.

Other speakers were: Mr. C. McDougal of Brampton and Mrs. L. A. Hamilton of Lorne Park.

Prior to the meeting the officers of the 74th were entertained at dinner by the Port Credit Branch of the War Auxiliary at the Mississauga Golf Club.

On their arrival in the afternoon the men were given a cooling reception and each man received coffee, pie, cheese and cigars.

The new C.P.R. time table appears in this issue. There is an eastbound train at 6.16 p. m. instead of 4.06 and west bound at 8.20 in place of the old one at 4.30 p. m. The last train from Toronto arrives at 6.37 p. m. instead of 8.50.

The Ladies Aid will hold a sale of work and home-made baking in the basement of the Methodist Church on Friday Nov. 19th, afternoon and evening. In the evening there will be a program and refreshments will be sold. Admission Free.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Workman returned home last week after an extended visit with friends at Oxbow, Sask. They had a very enjoyable time and are much improved in health.

Mr. Roy Hollingshead arrived in town on Monday and is "sticking" type at the Review office.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered in the Methodist Church next Sunday morning.

The small boys—and some larger ones—were out Saturday night cutting up high jinks. Some of the tricks they played were real jokes—others were not. Destroying property is no joke. The boys who broke up the steps at the High School should be punished.

Toronto Township Council will meet at Cooksville on Saturday.

Mr. Steven Treanor and sister, Mrs. W. Taggart, returned home on Monday after attending the funeral of their Aunt, Mrs. J. Goose, which took place in Mount Albert on Sunday, Oct. 31st. The deceased was in her 64th year and was a sister of the late Mrs. Edy Trainor. Rev. T. W. Leggett, formerly of Streetsville, preached an impressive funeral sermon.

Mr. John McCauley had a very successful sale last Thursday, when all his farm stock, implements, etc. were disposed of at good prices. Messrs. Thompson and Russell were the auctioneers. Nearly a thousand people were present and it was well into the evening when the last article was knocked down. Mr. McCauley has had many successful years on the farm and has purchased a residence in Brampton where he intends to reside.

Mr. P. W. Merry, who has spent the last four years with Mr. John Stephens, 7th line, Trafalgar, left this week for England.

The Annual Convention of the Ontario Bee Keeper's Association will be held at the Hotel Carls Rite, Toronto (opposite Union Station) Tuesday to Thursday, November 23, 24 and 25.

Womens Institute

The Women's Institute have secured another supply of yarn. Anyone wishing to knit socks can get the yarn from the yarn committee: Mrs. C. H. Falcoer, Mr. D. Ross or Mrs. D. Lindsay.

The Women's Institute are collecting clothing, also old cotton or linen, to send to the 'Belgian Relief' and 'Red Cross Society.' Anyone having anything of this kind to donate is asked to leave it at Mrs. L. Pope's, Streetsville.

The Women's Institute have packed and sent away the fruit, jam and pickles which they have collected for the soldiers during the last few months. Those who helped will be gratified to know that there were 500 jars filled and sent away. So generous was the response from the village and surrounding country that we feel had 1000 jars been sent out they would all have been filled, so ready was everyone to do their 'bit'. The ladies wish to thank Messrs. Edmondson, Forster and Broadbent, who helped with the work on Tuesday ev'g.

At the beginning of the war a committee was formed in Toronto, with representatives from every large organization of women. Their immediate work is gathering funds to send a Christmas gift to our boys in the fighting line—consisting of a leather wallet of stationery with an inscription on the front "Christmas Greetings to Our Brave Soldiers from their Canadian Homes." Mrs. Albert Gooderham, the President, is now in England arranging for the purchase. A lady has offered her services to confer with the Canadian War Auxiliary in England, to see that the gift reaches every man by Christmas. The Committee is asking for seventy thousand quarters from the Women of Canada—will you send your quarter? (All money from Peel County to be sent to Mrs. E. G. Graham, Brampton.) Every Institute member, as well as every other woman, is asked to contribute.

At 'The Marjies,' the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Campbell, on Saturday the 29th of October, the marriage was solemnized of their only daughter, Mary Alice, to Mr. Wm. H. Leslie, only son of the late James Leslie and Mrs. Leslie. The Rev. J. F. Scott officiated.

Agricultural Meeting

An Agricultural Meeting will be held in Streetsville on Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall. J. A. Carroll and J. W. Stark of the Department of Agriculture, Brampton, will give short addresses. All farmers and farmer's sons in the vicinity of Streetsville and village men interested in better Agriculture are asked to turn out as arrangements will be made in connection with the Short Course in Agriculture this winter.

The class will be held in Streetsville if enough young men turn out to make it worth while, and unless at least 25 farmer's boys can be guaranteed within the next week or two to attend the class beginning January 10th, it will have to be held in some other part of the county. Now is the time to bustle around and find men and do not let this chance go by to give the farmer's boys in your community a chance. At Tuesday evening's meeting the whole plan of the short course will be outlined and committees will be appointed to hunt up all the likely men. Any boys interested in the course who find it impossible to turn out on Tuesday will please send in their name and address to the Department of Agriculture, Brampton.

McClintock's
STREETSVILLE

The Rev. Ernest Houghton of Bristol, England, has made an appeal to patriotic women of the nation to come forward and marry the maimed heroes of the war and devote their lives to ameliorating their sad condition. He contends that unions thus arranged "promise a greater degree of happiness than is customary from the methods in England because they are based upon a high degree of unselfishness."

Leaving this slightly obscure argument in favor of the plan untouched, we may point out the fatal weakness of this as well as of most other benevolent plans to cause people to get married on a large scale. The plans do not go beyond the altar. They seem to go on the theory that when the ceremony is performed the whole problem is solved. They take for granted that the happy pair will live ever after, undisturbed by such petty considerations as food, clothing, shelter and the like.

If the Rev. Ernest Houghton has devised a plan which will not only assure the maimed hero a wife but will also deal in an acceptable manner with the pressing problem of support which is sure to come to the front after the first brief period of patriotic exaltation, he is indeed a man of real talents. But a bright idea which ends at the altar and forgets the harder is a little too impracticable to confer great increase of fame on its originator.

That war respects places as little as persons is the moral of the apparently trustworthy report from the Holy Land of target practice on Gethsemane and Cavalry by the Turks. Years ago not a few persons resented the railway from Jaffa to Jerusalem as a commercial intrusion on regions of sacred association; but what is to be said when the walls of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre tremble with the concussion of high explosives?

When the Kaiser made his now famous pilgrimage in 1898, and left a statue of himself in the likeness of a Crusader on the Mount of Olives, it was expected that after a few years in the "reversed crusade" the alliance of Gaiour and Moslem would give the Turks license for gun play amid the treasured relics of the life of Christ on earth. But if the sanctity of an oath, and the right of the human soul to its own unprofaned holy of holies is disregarded, who can expect that the mailed fist now raised against Christendom will halt at the door of Christ's tomb?

FEDERAL ARSENAL MAY BE ERECTED

British Agents Look Into the Possibilities of Making Big Guns.

A despatch from Ottawa says: With the object of determining the possibilities of production of heavy guns in Canada, Sir Frederick Donaldson and Gen. Mahon, representatives of the British War Office, are visiting the principal steel-producing centres of the Dominion. They are now concluding an inspection visit to the plants of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co., the Nova Scotia Steel Co., and similar industries in the Maritime Provinces, from which they will visit Montreal, Toronto and other cities.

It is learned that the establishment of an arsenal for the production of such cannon by the Dominion Government itself would be acceptable to the British War Office.

FOUR GERMAN YACHTS CONDEMNED AS PRIZES

A despatch from London says: The racing yacht Germania, which on two occasions won Emperor William's Cup at Cowes, was condemned in the Prize Court as a prize of war. The Germania, which was captured at Cowes at the outbreak of the war, was the property of Lieut. Dr. Gustav von Bohlen und Halbach, head of the Krupp works. The other German yachts captured at Cowes—The Lasca II., Stella Maris, and Paula III.—also were condemned.

KAISER IN BELGIUM DAY OF EXECUTION

A despatch from London says: The Daily Mail correspondent at The Hague says it is stated on the authority of a retired German diplomat that on the day Miss Edith Cavell, the British nurse was executed the Kaiser was in Belgium, and was easily accessible either by the Governor-General or the military commander.

Millions in Cotton Waste.

In Lancashire, England, the cotton waste has an annual value of $75,000,000. This vast sum is represented by rag-ends and sweepings and pickings and combings. Thousands of women are employed to divide this stuff into good, middling and bad, and it is sold at various prices for different purposes—namely, making, matting, surgical wadding, and, most of all, the making of chaddy.

ABOUT THE HOUSEHOLD

Dainty Dishes.

Lemon Jelly.—Make the jelly by using the juice of 2 lemons and the rind of 1 grated, 3 eggs, butter size of an egg, and 1 cup of white sugar, thicken over the fire, but do not let it boil. This is nice for tarts, which should be made of puff paste.

Yorkshire Pudding.—One pint of sweet milk, 2 eggs, 5 tablespoons of flour; salt to taste. Mix eggs, flour and salt with a little milk until smooth, then add the rest of the milk gradually. Pour the mixture into a well-buttered dripping pan and bake 15 minutes in a tolerably hot oven. This is nice served with roast beef or poultry.

Cabbage Slaw.—Take a small head of cabbage, wash well, cut very fine with a slaw cutter or a knife of any kind. Take two small onions, peel and cut fine, mix with the cabbage, then season with salt, pepper, and vinegar to taste. Now take an extra dish and mix three good-sized tablespoons of thick cream with one tablespoon of sugar and mix with the slaw. This is delicious, especially if kept cold till serving time.

Bread Sauce for Game.—Cook half pint of soft, stale bread-crumbs, a pint of milk, one good-sized onion chopped very fine, a saltspoonful of ground mace, a saltspoon of paprika and a level teaspoon of salt for five minutes in a double boiler; stir constantly. The mixture must be perfectly smooth. Add a rounding tablespoon of butter; stir until melted; then add four tablespoons of thick cream and use at once for game or roasted guinea fowl.

A Substitute for Whipped Cream.—Sometimes one wishes to serve a dish that calls for whipped cream when neither the cream nor the time for whipping it are available. An excellent substitute is made by beating the white of an egg to a stiff froth, adding a ripe banana cut into very thin slices and beating until the banana is only a pulp evenly distributed through the egg. The result is a creamy delicacy that can be used in any recipe that calls for whipped cream.

Turkish Rolls.—Pound one cup blanched almonds to a paste, put into a double boiler with one pint of milk, a pinch of saffron and a tablespoon of sugar, a scant teaspoon salt and a tablespoon rounded of butter. Heat to scalding, remove from fire and when lukewarm add one-half cake yeast dissolved in a little water. Add sifted flour to make a soft dough and knead ten minutes. Put into a warmed earthenware bowl and cover until light; make into very small, long rolls, place an inch apart in greased pans to rise, then brush with beaten white of an egg and sprinkle with finely minced almonds. Bake in a quick oven.

Pot Roast.—The genuine pot roast is brown and rich and juicy, being cooked wholly in its own gravy and without any added water. A four to six pound is a nice size to cook properly. Select a piece with enough fat on it to furnish richness. Also add a small piece of beef suet. Heat an iron kettle until it is hot enough to sear the meat at once, then drop the suet and the meat into the kettle and turn over from side to side until the whole is seared so that the juices will not escape. Do not let the roast burn, turn often enough to prevent that but let it roast to a deep brown. Add no water for the meat will cook thoroughly in its own gravy. Do not have too hot a fire. Three to three and one-half hours of slow cooking should do the meat to a turn. If it is desired to serve browned potatoes with the roast, remove the meat when cooked, add water to the gravy and drop the potatoes (either Irish or sweet) into the gravy and let them cook as usual. Season both meat and potatoes to suit the taste.

Household Hints.

Coarse salt is an excellent cleanser of irons.

Cheaper cuts of meat always require more cooking.

Good milk, eggs and butter are necessities, not luxuries.

Salt in cold water will remove blood stains from linen.

A tiny pinch of salt added to eggs makes them froth more quickly.

A lump of sugar dropped into milk will prevent its turning sour, it is said.

Glass or china can be safely packed if damp straw or hay is used for packing material.

Sugar forms about 70 per cent. of honey; it is derived from natural sugars by inversion, and is more easily digested in this form than cane sugar.

Before washing lace curtains run a narrow strip of muslin or tape along each outer edge. This will keep them perfectly straight, and will keep them from stretching at the edge.

To clean a burnt pan dip a hard crust of bread in kitchen salt and rub the burnt portion, then wash in hot soda and water.

Cane chairs that have become slack can be tightened by rubbing them with salt and water. Turn them upside down and put them in the sun and air to dry. They will be found to have tightened up like new articles.

To destroy the smell of paint place pails of cold water—which should be changed daily—in the rooms that are being painted. It lessens the annoying smell considerably. If you live in the country and can get hay put a handful of hay into the water, as this also helps to absorb the smell.

Quite a number of people find porridge made in the ordinary way most unpalatable, but here is a hint that will make the mixture one of the most sought after breakfast dishes. Put the water into your pan. Add a beaten egg and mix well in before sprinkling the oatmeal. Then boil and salt as usual.

A large glass bottle makes a good receptacle for buttons. By shaking the bottle you can see whether you have the button desired without taking all out.

When the butcher has cut the roast too heavy, ask him to cut off thin slices for steaks. Have the pan very hot, put in a piece of suet to make the pan greasy and fry steak quickly. The meat has a very good flavor.

Macaroni in Variety.

Macaroni with White Sauce.—Break the macaroni in one inch pieces, three-fourths of a cup, wash, roll and cook in salted water, then drain. For the sauce, melt four tablespoons of butter in a sauce pan. When it begins to fry add four tablespoons of flour and stir until well blended. Then stir in gradually while beating two cups of scalded milk, bring to the boiling point, add salt, the macaroni and let simmer for a minute before serving.

Baked Macaroni with Cheese.—Boil the macaroni in hot water as directed. (It should first be broken in inch lengths.) Put a layer of the macaroni in the bottom of baking dish, then a layer of grated cheese, add pepper and salt, repeat with another layer of crackers and cheese. Put bits of butter over the top, add enough milk to nearly cover the food and bake in the oven until a rich brown. Serve with crackers or toast.

Macaroni Cutlets.—Cook a half cup of macaroni broken in small pieces, drain and make a sauce as follows: Melt two and a half tablespoons of butter and add one-third cup of flour. Stir until well mixed. Pour this gradually into a cup of hot milk. Add one-fourth cup of grated cheese, and season with salt and pepper. Cool and shape in the form of cutlets, roll in bread or cracker crumbs, dip in beaten egg then in the crumbs again and fry in plenty of hot fat to brown nicely.

IS THIS KAISER'S NUMBER?

Surprising Combination of Revelation and Arithmetic.

The following ingenious attempt to prove that the Kaiser is the "beast" mentioned in Rev. 13, is taken from an old country paper:

"Take the letters of the Kaiser's name and arrange them one under the other; then to the right of each letter put down the number of each letter as it stands in the alphabet; after that put the figure six; carry these figures into another column, and add the total together, thus:

K	11	6	116
A	1	6	16
I	9	6	96
S	19	6	196
E	5	6	56
R	18	6	186
			666

Then refer to the 13th chapter of Revelations, 4th, 5th and 18th verses. The answer will be surprising, and it is hoped, prophetic.

The verses referred to run as follows:

"And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast? Who is able to make war with him?"

"And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and power was given unto him to continue forty and two months."

"Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is six hundred, three score and six."

HEALTH

The Staff of Life.

Bread always has been called "the staff of life." That old saying came into existence when bread and its making was in the primitive state. The wheat and rye were harvested and prepared for food in a more or less crude state. But that state left the grain almost whole, and all the virtues were allowed to remain intact.

To-day, bread, as made either at home or in bakeries, is more of a menace to health than "the staff of life." Bread always is placed before us at every meal and partaken of by the whole family. Its healthfulness, therefore, and adaptation as food becomes a matter of more importance than any other form of sustenance in use.

In producing disease superfine flour bread ranks next to pork and is made much more unhealthful by the fermentation process, which is destructive to the cell structure.

Yeast, when combined with dough, changes a portion of the starch of the dough into sugar, and this sugar is then decomposed and changed into alcohol and carbonic acid gas, and as this gas cannot escape through the gluten of the dough it collects in small bodies throughout the mass and causes the loaf to greatly enlarge until the fermenting process is checked by the application of heat in baking. If this mass is allowed to remain a little too long before being placed in the oven it becomes a putrid, sour mass, wholly obnoxious and unfit for anything but the ash barrel.

By the chemical changes which take place in the sugar alcohol and carbonic acid gas form 10 or 15 per cent. That takes away from the nutriment of the bread 10 or 15 per cent, rendering it unhealthful by the development and presence of the gas and alcohol.

Those elements of the grain which go to make bone, teeth and brain are largely removed by boiling, and the lime and phosphorus which nature has placed next the inner surface of the bran are mostly removed with the latter by bolting. This process of bolting is separating the coarser from the finer particles by sifting.

The coarse elements in grain are those beneficial to health. And these elements are, therefore, almost entirely absent in fine flour and the consequence is starvation of the teeth and bony structure of the body.

As long as people continue to use fine bolted flour, with nearly all the elements of bone sifted from it, they must expect to have decayed teeth, and feeble, slender bones.

If there is no reform in this direction in but a few generations more our osseous systems will have dwindled down to dwarfish size, and natural teeth in the young will be found very much inferior to what they are in this generation.

It is folly to look for the full and natural growth of any part of the body which is mainly deprived of the material in the food which enters into it.

If whole wheat, corn meal and rye were used exclusively for making bread, and no hot fine flour biscuits or bread were allowed to appear upon the table, there would be little indigestion (for indigestion is a condition of fermentation), no headaches and better regulated systems.

When you have growing children try feeding them with oatmeal bread, whole wheat, rye or corn bread in place of fine white flour bread, and you cannot fail to see a great improvement in their health, strength and sturdiness inside of six months.

Too much care cannot be given our children, even though we neglect our own systems. A future generation depends on our care of this one.

THE NATION UNITED TO WIN THE WAR

London, Nov. 2. — It is doubtful whether the House of Commons has ever been so crowded or a speech awaited with so great and eager anxiety in such an electrical atmosphere as that of Premier Asquith today.

Facts in Mr. Asquith's Speech.

Sir John French now has nearly one million men under his command on the western front. British casualties in France and Flanders have reached a total of 377,000. The Germans have not made a net gain of a foot of ground since April.

The Cabinet as a whole accepts responsibility for the failure of the Dardanelles operations. The first attack was made after full investigation and consultation with naval experts, and was fully sanctioned, though some doubt existed in the mind of Lord Fisher.

At present the allies on Gallipoli are holding back 200,000 Turks. The Dardanelles situation now is receiving the Government's anxious consideration, not as an isolated thing, but as part of the larger strategical situation in the Balkans.

British submarines in the Sea of Marmora have sunk or damaged two battleships, five gunboats, one torpedo boat, eight transports and 197 supply ships.

The beginning of the Salonica expedition was a request from former Premier Venizelos of Greece on Sept. 21 for France and Britain to supply 150,000 men on the express understanding that Greece would mobilize.

France and Britain are in full agreement to maintain the independence of Serbia, and are in accord as to the means of so doing, the plans having been ratified during the visit of Gen. Joffre to London.

The financial situation of Great Britain is serious, and the nation must be prepared to make far greater sacrifices than in the past.

Lord Derby's recruiting scheme is practically certain of success. The war, however, must be won, and rather than not win the Premier would not hesitate to make proposals to the House involving some sort of legal obligation.

Confident of the ultimate triumph of the allies, the Premier will not shift the burden from his shoulders until satisfied he is unable to bear it. He will not surrender the task while he enjoys health and the confidence of the nation.

The Cabinet War Committee will consist of not fewer than three or more than five members, and will keep the Cabinet informed of all important decisions.

THE SUNDAY LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, NOVEMBER 7.

Lesson VI.—Joash Repairs the Temple, 2 Kings 11. 21 to 12. 16.

G. T.—2 Cor. 9. 7.

I. Neglect to Repair the Temple (Verses 4-8).

Verses 4. Jehoash said to the priests—Several years after his accession to the throne. In 2 Chron. 24. 7 we have an account of the way the sons of Athaliah ruined the temple.

All the money of the hallowed things—that which was given for the vessels and accessories of the temple service. (See 1 Kings 7. 48-51).

For whom each man is rated—See Exod. 30. 12; Lev. 22. 18-23; 27. 2-8; Deut. 16. 10.

5. From his acquaintance—In the canvass for funds, each person was to go to those whom he knew. The modern method of soliciting funds is very like the old.

Repair the breaches of the house—The word repair means to fill up, to calk, indicating the sort of holes in the temple walls.

6. In the three and twentieth year—Jehoash was now about thirty years old.

7. Why repair ye not the breaches?—As no blame was attached to the priests by the king for their neglect in keeping the temple in repair, it is presumable that the temple offerings had so decreased that there really was no money on hand for the work of restoration. Their honesty was not impugned, for in verse 9 we read they were put in charge of the public offerings.

Race Hatred and Prejudice

Peace Will Come to the World When Men Will Walk in the Creator's Paths.

"And many people shall go and say, Come ye and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob, and He will teach us of His ways and we will walk in His paths . . . and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."—Isaiah ii., 3 and 4.

The world is still not converted to the teachings of the Lord. It has not yet learned to walk in His paths. Therefore, nation is still lifting up sword against nation and the art of war is still most flourishing. Men are astonished, nay, amazed, that in the year 1915 the peoples that are standing on the height of so-called civilization are decimating one another. Some have, accordingly, questioned the value of religion and have despaired of its influence, and have pessimistically given up hope that peace would ever come to the world. There is an intimate connection between true religion and world peace. Religion seeks to convert the human heart. It aspires to turn the natural man into the spiritual man. The law of nature is the law of strife. And the law of the spirit, when it shall triumph and be written in men's hearts, will be the law of peace. The process must necessarily be slow. But slow as it is

We Must Not Lose Hope.

So-called civilization has, to a great extent, to do with the mind and not the heart. The world grows in knowledge, in power over nature, in scientific use of nature's forces for man's purposes. But if the purposes be evil the knowledge only increases the power for evil.

Religion aims at teaching men that God is their Creator and Father, and, therefore, that the unity of their humanity should overshadow their differences of race and nationality. In a perfect democracy, made up of all sorts of races and based on the rights of men, this ideal will be realized.

Religion is an eminently practical thing. It plants the love of the alien in the hearts of men instead of hate and it makes justice superior to interest. The natural man, driven by his prejudice or his selfishness, fights. Though it must be said, men also fight for great moral ideas, and there is even a worse thing than war, which is humanity's sin writ large. When a nation prefers the comfort of its skin and the integrity of its pocketbook to any consideration of freedom and justice, and would rather do anything than fight, it becomes cowardly and degenerate.

Worse Things Than Death.

War, will, therefore, not be ended because of the horrors of it and the softening of men. It should not be ended that way, because there are worse things than death. War will not be ended in the world merely by the stronger crushing the weak. The passion for justice will always revive the weak for renewed effort until it triumphs in human hearts.

Peace will come to the world when men will have learned of the ways of the Eternal and will walk in His paths; when every bit of race hatred and prejudice shall be destroyed, and when men will have become so morally cultured that it will be instinctive with them to prefer the right to their own profit. The world, with all its present brutalities, is better than it ever was. The kingdom of God is slowly, to be sure, but nevertheless certainly growing in the midst of men. Religion is the root of the tree that will eventually bear the fruit of peace.—Rev. Samuel Schulman, D.D.

If the room suddenly had turned upside down, I could not have been more staggered. I vaguely heard Struber asking other questions in a tone that brooked neither disregard nor inattention.

"Do you mean one of the fellows with the diamond was Steve Willets?"

"No, no, no; I didn't say Steve—just Willets. That's all I ever heard of his name. The other fellow's, that I forget."

"Which of the two was Willets?"

"The fierce-eyed fellow. He was jolly enough too, though, when he had anything to say. He mostly sat quiet and watched, I remember."

Struber gave his head a short jerk as if the puzzle were perfectly comprehensible to him.

"And the little ivory box they brought the uncut stone in, would yuh recognize it if yuh were to see it again?"

"Surely," replied Aartsen. "It was square—about two inches"—he indicated the size with his hands—"covered with funny Chinese carvings."

We all turned abruptly to Miss Fox. She had uttered an inarticulate cry of amazement.

"Why," she faltered, suddenly blushing and confused under our concentrated regard, "that describes a small Chinese box that has belonged to my aunt ever since I can remember. But of course it can not be the same one."

"Of course not," Aartsen readily agreed. "Just as there was never such another diamond as this one."

"Don't be too sure," Struber drily advised him. "I can show yuh inside of an hour a box I bet yuh'll swear is the same one."

He flipped the sheet of wrapping-paper across the table toward the expert.

"The box had been wrapped in that," he went on, "wouldn't it just about fit those plain creases?"

"Don't forget," I spoke aside to the detective, while Aartsen, perplexed and frowning, examined the wrapper, "that there is another box that will fit those creases."

I meant, of course, the ring box. The only recognition by Struber of my reminder was another cut nod; he did not remove his sharp regard from Aartsen. Presently the latter showed the wrapper aside.

"I should say yes," said he. "But that means nothing. Plenty of boxes are that size and shape; any one of them would fit those creases."

With a secret, crooked little smile, Struber recovered the wrapper, and folding it along the creases, carefully to erase them, quietly placed it in his pocket.

"Mebbe yuh're wise when it comes to givin' diamonds the acid test," he observed to Aartsen, "but yuh ain't wise to the fact that this particular chunk o' ice was in somethin' else besides that wad o' paper when this wrapper was put on. Mr. Ferris ain't told us yet why he didn't bring it along."

"Because I couldn't find it," I quickly explained. "It was precisely such a box as Mr. Aartsen described—a replica of the box you have already seen, Struber. A verbal description, you know, wouldn't amount to much."

"What does anything amount to in this case?" inquired Struber. "You don't know. You're not ready to say what's important an' what ain't. It's up to me to find out, for it looks like I got to horn in without an invite because my reg'lar duties 've brought me in. This here gent"—indicating Aartsen by a sidewise motion of his head—"won't even say for sure what the rock's worth. I reckon they're scarce all right; but them dinkie little boxes seem to be as thick as fleas on a dog. How many is there anyhow? I'd like to see Miss Fox's aunt's."

Chink sign and all I feel like I was way out over my head, where the undertow and tide-rip was a-gettin' me. I ain't no Sherlock Holmes."

Miss Fox and I both laughed; but right away he regarded me with whimsical shrewdness.

"Just watch your Uncle Heinie," he adjured; "I'll go plugging along in my own way, an' I betcha, when we come to cash in, my stack won't be all whies. . . . Going anywhere particular to-day?" he asked irrelevantly.

I considered.

"Why," I returned at length, "I must be at the courthouse at two—have a motion to argue in department four; that will take only a few minutes. After that an engagement at the Heene Building; then the inquest. You are not asking merely out of curiosity, I suppose?"

"You suppose right. Mebbe I'll have something to tell yuh before night. Don't forget this—don't let on like you're wise to your shadow. Yuh might scare 'em off, and I want 'em to keep followin' yuh for a while." He turned abruptly to Miss Fox.

"If yuh'll give me that note to your aunt," he said, "I'll bother her just long enough to let me see the ivory box you spoke about."

We moved up closer to the building, away from the jostling sidewalk throng. A sheet from my memorandum-book, my fountain pen, the memorandum-book itself serving as desk, and the note was written right there.

She appended a street and number that I identified as being some distance out on Boyle Heights. "The First Street car goes within two blocks of the house," she told him.

Struber gallantly doffed his shabby derby and murmured his thanks. To me he said over his shoulder, as he moved away:

"I'll drift back to your loft as soon as I can. I've a hunch it'll help things along if we compare notes."

"I'm willing," I agreed. And the detective, in his illusive shiftless fashion, went rapidly away.

CHAPTER XIII.

Up to this time I had spoken of the death-ring to Miss Fox only in the slightest and most casual way; because, prior to Steve Willets' death, I never could bring myself to thinking of him as her father—her interest in it had seemed so remote that the idea did not suggest itself, and afterwards I was restrained from speaking of it by a reluctance to mention the instrument that had been the direct cause of that death.

But now, with the potential connection between the ring and the ivory boxes in mind, and the manner in which they had come into the mystery surrounding her own life, I decided that she was entitled to have all the information relating to it that I could impart. The circumstances of her attitude toward the bandit being nearly, if not quite, imperceptible, relieved the situation immensely. She fostered no tender memories of the man; in his death she had known no grief. The only sentiment respecting him was regret that he had been the sort of man he was. His taking off had been a blessing instead of an affliction.

Accordingly, therefore, after Struber left us and we were once more back at the office, the instant I found the opportunity I called Miss Fox into my private room for the purpose of telling her about the ring. The story of the diamond, of course, she had already heard that morning, except one feature that I purposely had not referred to at the bank, namely, the coincidence of its apparently miraculous arrival, and her having come into the midst of that astounding situation with what was to me the most extraordinary story of all.

My principal purpose, however, was to give her the ring's history, as much as I knew of it; and as I unlocked the drawer where I had hidden it beneath a mass of old papers, I said:

"The diamond coming as it did was enough to upset any man; but the two boxes being exactly alike was the limit." I was fumbling for the ring box. "You know, there is an atmosphere about this box, as if it had belonged to the ring for ages. It was hard to believe that there could be another just like it. Right on top of that came your story, then, a day or two later, the Strang letters—well, it's been a pretty strenuous week for me."

My hand encountered the box, which I drew forth. The instant Miss Fox beheld it I knew its appearance was not strange to her. But how little did I dream that this relatively unimportant episode was to end in a climax more astonishing than anything else that the baffling mystery had yet jolted me with. She was only frankly curious, and her lovely eyes were aglow with a light of anticipation. Then she saw the box and uttered a little exclamation.

What Fashionable Women Are Doing in the Great War.

Centuries ago a chronicler of the crusades recorded quaintly of a certain vain and valorous knight:

"Three wounds he received, in this battle, wherest he laughed; but the Paynim who shore his tall plume he cursed deeply, and rested not till he had, with his good sword, shorn off his head."

That was in the day when every gentleman who was not a priest must be a fighter, and could be a dandy only by the way. It was many years later that another type arose, dandy first and fighter afterward: the graceful idler, the society fop, suddenly transformed by patriotism, at his country's call, into a hero. History proved him, fiction adopted him; he became one of the most popular figures in drama, story, and romance.

But until now neither fact nor fiction has supplied a corresponding type of heroine.

The great war of to-day, although it demands of many of the noble women who have answered the call greater ability, responsibility, and thoroughness of training than has ever been demanded of women before, has also offered opportunities of service to others, hitherto merely women of fashion and the gay world, which many have eagerly accepted. Women used only to organizing balls for committees; women who have shone in foreign capitals interpret for hapless refugees; women who have played with petted children in charming nurseries establish orphanages, care for destitute mothers, or adopt war babies. Other women, of the modern athletic type, untrained in nursing, devote their nerve and muscle to slaving in hospitals,—hastily improvised, ill equipped, overcrowded, undermanned hospitals,—where they tag for the real nurses, and turn their hands to anything from writing wills and messages for dying men to menial and often horrible tasks of washing, scrubbing and disinfecting.

Others give themselves, with their automobiles, to the Red Cross, and drive their own cars, filled with wounded, over war-torn roads and half-wrecked bridges with skill and daring. Often they run them under fire, and not one of them has flinched.

"If ever this terrible time, which seems an endless nightmare, does really end," the American wife of an Englishman of high social position, who has been loyally working with the rest, wrote home recently, "and if I wake up to peace and pretty clothes and gay doings, and life as it used to be—sometimes I wonder who it will be that will wake? Not I, as I am now, or it wouldn't be waking, and not I, the old I of before the war; that I, my dear, is as dead as if she had been shot. I want to be happy and jolly again, yet when I think of the old life it seems no more possible to take it up and live it than to go back and be a little girl. I have died, or grown up, or been born again since then—I don't quite know which! I only know that I am, and must be, different, and that I cannot even wish to be the same again."

Sometimes to lose a self is to find a soul.

MISSILE FOUND BY X-RAYS.

Bullet Taken From Heart and Soldier Still Lives.

The opening of a chamber of the heart and extracting a bullet is reported by Professor Freund and Doctor Casperson in the Munich Medical Weekly. The patient was a young soldier who had recovered from a bullet wound through the liver. Upon X-ray examination preceding his discharge from the hospital a foreign object was discerned in the heart.

It moved synchronously with the heart's pulsations, and the physicians decided that it was a shrapnel bullet.

To prevent possible dangerous complications it was determined to remove the bullet. The breast was opened, the pericardium slit sufficiently to permit the heart to be brought forward, a quick incision was made in the right ventricle, and the bullet was immediately found and removed.

Much blood was lost, but the bleeding stopped after a prompt stitching and the patient made a complete recovery.

The bullet, which weighed 12 grams, had taken a most erratic and extraordinary course. It struck the soldier on the left shoulder from above, as he was storming forward, inflicting only a flesh wound. It passed down and diagonally across the body, barely marking the skin, was deflected by a cartridge box and entered the liver, passing completely through it into the vena cava, one of the two trunk veins that empty into the heart. The bloodstream conveyed it thence into the right ventricle of the heart.

Sure He Would.

Making Better Farm Butter.

Nearly all butter sold by the farmer is of poorer quality than it should be. By more careful handling and better methods there is no reason why this product should not only be improved in quality, but a better price should be received for it. By carrying out the following conditions and methods a very much better grade of butter should be produced:

Hand separator cream produces better butter than that separated by any other method. The deep can surrounded by cold water is second best; pans and crocks are third best, and the water-dilution method comes last.

The cream should be kept in as nearly a sweet condition as possible until enough has been gathered for a churning. This should then be soured or ripened. To ripen the cream warm it to a temperature of 75 to 80 degrees, until it is sour enough; then cool down to a temperature of from 55 to 60 degrees, which is right for churning. Let it stand at this temperature for an hour or so before churning, if possible. This will cause the butter to come in better condition. Cream that is being ripened should be thoroughly stirred several times before it is ready for churning.

It is often advisable to save some of the buttermilk of one churning to be used as starter (the same as yeast in bread making) for the next batch of cream. Add a small amount of this buttermilk to the sweet cream when enough has been gathered for a churning; thoroughly stir it, and it will ripen very much more rapidly. Care should be exercised to keep this old buttermilk in as good condition as possible.

Strain all cream into the churn. This will remove all clots and particles of curd, and there will be no danger of white specks in the butter. Do not fill the churn over one third to one half full. Give the cream room for agitation, which insures quick churning. Turn the churn just fast enough to give the cream the greatest amount of agitation.

The butter should be gathered until the grains become about one half the size of wheat. Then draw off the buttermilk through a strainer, and wash the butter in cold water two or three times or until the wash water is removed practically clear. In washing, care should be exercised not to bring the grains together in one mass, but rather keep it in the granular condition. The washing of the butter removes the buttermilk and makes the butter keep for a longer time. It also puts it in better condition for salting.

The butter should be taken from the churn in the granular condition and the salt sprinkled over it before it has been worked together. Usually a scant ounce of salt is added for each pound of butter.

One working, at the time of salting is usually sufficient, providing the butter is hard enough when removed from the churn. If the butter is somewhat soft when taken out, it can be salted and set away for a few hours until it gets hard enough to finish. Butter is usually worked enough when the water has been removed so that it will bend without breaking. Too much working will spoil its grain and make it salty, while leaving too much water in it will spoil its keeping qualities.

Pack or print the butter as soon as it has been worked sufficiently and put it in a cool place until it is taken to the market. Remember that the appearance of the package, as well as the way the butter is packed, has a great deal to do with the selling price.

In order to make a uniform colored butter for the entire year, some color may be used. Very little will be required during the spring and summer months, when the cows are getting green feed. Colored butter is not only more appetizing, but can be sold on the market for a very much better price than that which is not colored. The color should be added to the churn before starting to churn.

COOKSVILLE

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Township Hall on Thursday evening last for the purpose of organizing a Branch of the Peel County War Auxiliary for Cooksville, Dixie and Burnhamthorpe. The Rev. J. S. Humphrey occupied the chair and after allusion to the purpose of the meeting called on Mr. J. M. Godfrey to furnish particulars which he did at some length. Addresses were also given by G. M. Kelly and W. C. Jones of Port Credit, Rev. H. V. Thompson and Messrs. Ross and Sims of Irindale, E. A. Orr of Clarkson, and O. S. McDonald of Brampton in the interests of the movement. Sergt. Eccles and Major Herod of the 80th made strong appeals for recruits with some success. After the speaking the meeting was devoted to organization. Mr. H. K. Bowden, Cooksville, was elected President, Rev. J. S. Humphrey Vice President for Cooksville, A. R. McMullin Vice pres. for Dixie, Mr. Geo. McClelland, Cooksville, Treas. and Mr. T. D. Schiller, Cooksville, Sect. A strong and active committee was appointed to canvass every resident in the districts at an early date for paid membership in the Society so that ample funds may be available for general Red Cross purposes which will mean each one's active participation in the war.

A sudden and unexpected death occurred here early on Friday morning last when Mr. Robt. Pinkney was called to his last reward. Although an invalid for some years, having lost the use of his lower limbs and one side from a form of paralysis, he was apparently in his usual health on Thursday night but evidently heart failure occurred for a bout 8 a.m. he suddenly succumbed. Having lived on the well known States farm for many years Mr. Pinkney was popularly identified with the vicinity and bore the respect of the community as an upright and conscientious man who by his faithful labors had acquired a competency. Owing to his infirmities he had retired from the farm some years ago and lived in the residence by the station, his oldest son, William, occupying the homestead. He leaves a widow and six children: Mr. Wm. Morris, Mrs. S. J. Harris, Mrs. Thos. Rutledge, Johnson and Sarah at home and William. He was 67 years of age. The funeral took place Monday to St. John's Church, Dixie and was largely attended. Mr. Jos. Pinkney, Dixie, an elder brother, seriously fractured his hip some months ago and has not yet fully recovered.

Arrangements are being made for the holding of the Annual Anniversary, Fowl Sapper and Entertainment of the Dixie Pres. Church on Sun. and Mon., Nov. 21st and 22nd. The services of Mr. Alex. Park, Scottish Humorist, Toronto, have been secured for the programme and others will be announced later. This has always been a popular and successful event and it will doubtless prove this year as satisfactory as formerly. Keep the date in mind.

The dead body of an aged man was found by the lake shore on the farm of Mr. Robinson near Sheridan on Sunday last. Coroner Dr. Sutton was notified and after making an investigation had the remains removed to Morley's undertaking rooms here. He was later identified as one Mr. Joseph Carey, aged 80 years, who lived with his sister at Dundas, Ont. Mr. Leo McNamany, a nephew of the deceased, who climbed the body, says that his uncle boarded the car to go and see friends at Burlington on October 27, and supposes that he did not leave the car until it reached Oakville, where he wandered down to the lake and probably fell forward into the water while washing or getting a drink. The remains were shipped to Dundas on Monday for burial. No inquest will be held.

Operations commenced Monday on the rebuilding of the Barber Shop and Pool Room for Harris Bros. on the site of the one destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. The building will be a venerable brick one story structure 22x60 ft., with a metal roof and a plate glass front.

The first Annual Meeting of the Women's Patriotic League of Cooksville District will be held on Tuesday, 9th inst. at 2:30 sharp in the Township Hall, Cooksville. Reading of reports, election of officers, etc. It is earnestly requested that all members and others interested in the work make a point of being present.

An Appreciation of Winter Classes

R. R. 2, Bolton, Ont.,
Oct. 29, 1915

Mr. J. W. Stark,
Dept. of Agriculture,
Brampton, Ont.

Dear Mr. Stark:

As the summer work is drawing to a close and the winter with its leisure hours is approaching, I thought perhaps you would like to know how we are getting along with our farming operations this year. I know you are very interested in my boys who attended the Agriculture Class in Bolton last winter conducted by our District Representative, Mr. Carroll and yourself.

You know one of our boys attended the Class in Agriculture of 1914 at Brampton. We saw that this course was so helpful to him that when the class came to Bolton both he and two younger brothers decided at once to attend.

These courses have been very instructive and practical. The farmers' sons are not confined to book learning, but hear lectures and addressers from practical men on various subjects pertaining to farming, also the breeding, feeding and marketing of all kinds of farm stock.

After listening to Dr. Reed on the feeding of horses one boy took charge of the horses with good results and a large saving in feed. Another son has taken over the management of the hogs and in consequence we received over $500 this fall for 26 pigs without having bought a dollars worth of feed.

The lectures given on farm gardening certainly bore fruit because our 1915 garden was the best we ever had; the tomatoes grown according to instructions were abundant, ripening a month earlier than usual. The boys also showed much enthusiasm in the cleaning of seed grain and their barley won 3rd prize in the Standing Field Crop Competition. We have had quite a revival in the dairy line—the boys weighing the milk and using the record sheets with very interesting and profitable results.

I feel very much indebted to the Representatives for the manner in which they conducted these classes, as they have removed the thought of drudgery from farm life. The old story of boys leaving the farm has been forgotten. Every young man in this district who attended this course has become an enthusiast in agricultural pursuits.

Let me say in closing that every farmer's son who can possibly do so should avail himself of the opportunity afforded by these courses. In no way can a young man spend a part of our long Canadian winter with so much pleasure and profit to himself. Yours very sincerely,
(Sgd) A. S. Rutherford

Brampton

Lieut. Sterratt, chief recruiting officer of the new County of Peel Battalion, is making his headquarters here and has already commenced the work of organizing. Sergt. Eccles will reside at Orangeville and will have charge of the work in the northern part of the county. The new battalion will have as its Colonel, F. J. Hamilton of Port Credit, a former Major in the 36th Battalion, who has just been promoted to the colonelcy. The Colonel and recruiting officers are getting good encouragement from the people of Peel, who are anxious for the success of the county regiment. It is recognized, however, that the 36th of Peel, having already recruited 50 officers and 1,500 men for overseas service, the work before them is a difficult one. In order to raise the 1,200 men in Peel, one in twenty of the entire population must enlist.

Port Credit

Great progress is being made on the Toronto and Hamilton highway, between here and Long Branch. Yesterday three gangs of men and teams covered the four mile stretch from a mile east of Port Credit to within a half a mile west of Long Branch. A little independent steam railway operated over the distance and hauled twenty trucks loaded with earth to the dump at Stop 36. At this end of the line a new camp was made.

The road has been graded for a considerable portion of the distance and work was started yesterday on the digging of drains close to the tracks of the York Radial.

The question of locating the tracks of the York Radial through the village has not been settled yet. The matter is under consideration by the Ontario Railway Board, to whom application has been made by the Toronto and Hamilton Highway Commission for an order compelling the company to move its tracks from the centre to the side of the road.

Clerk Griffith said it was the object of the Council to oppose the moving of the tracks to the south side at the point suggested, as the village wanted the railway to stop at its own property at the west side of Ann street and not to use any portion of the street through the village. "We don't want them to divert to the south and we are not going to let them if we can help it," he added. The Council, he said, did not mind how the railway got further but they did not intend to allow the company to use the municipality's streets. "We also urge that the railway build a terminus for us on their own property, which we think is the proper place," he concluded.

School matters are still in a very unsatisfactory state, owing to the clash between the Board of Education and the Port Credit Council, due to the latter turning down the request that debentures to the amount of $30,000 be issued to cover the cost of the proposed new school. "The question is far from being settled as far as the Board is concerned," said chairman Abraham Block. "We have not changed our opinions as to the educational needs of the village, and will get the money we want yet."

"Is there anything in the report that an appeal will be made to the Legislature to go over the heads of the Council in the matter?" he was asked.

"I don't think that will be necessary," was the reply.

Mr. Block pointed out that owing to the lack of accommodation in the Port Credit school continuation work, a score of pupils are going to school in Toronto at present, which means a great difference in cost to them. At least six pupils who passed the entrance examinations last June in the village have stopped their education owing to their parents being unable to afford the additional cost.

The local Board of Trade is lending its influence and time in trying to straighten out the difficulty. A meeting will be held shortly when the matter will be taken up.

Tuberculosis Day in Ontario Schools

The following is an extract from the circular issued by the Minister of Education to 11,823 School Teachers throughout the province, with reference to the Third Tuberculosis Day in the Schools, to be held on Monday, the 15th of Nov.

"A very special effort is now being made to save the lives of the children. Education in the means of prevention and cure is one of the most powerful weapons that can be used. With this object in view there is a general movement to direct attention to the work of the National Sanitarium Association, and therefore the Minister desires to notify school boards, and through them the parents of pupils and ratepayers generally, that the Dept. approves of the object aimed at by the association and recommends that on Monday 15th Nov. the Principals and Teachers of the schools call attention to the necessity of putting forth all possible efforts to prevent the spread of the disease and of availing themselves of the means supplied for this purpose, and of making such use of the printed statements that have been issued as may be deemed expedient."

In addition to the Department Circular, an Outline of Lecture and a small pamphlet, "Tuberculosis, what it is," will be distributed for use in the schools, asking and answering a number of popular questions regarding the nature of the disease and its prevention and cure, and giving in a simple form a great deal of exceedingly useful information.

All the Teachers, and particularly those who have been stimulated to action by Sermons delivered from the pulpits on Tuberculosis Sunday, 14th Nov., will be able to give their scholars the benefit of their inspiration on the Monday.

Roscoe Writes of a Night at Shorncliffe

Shorncliffe Camp, Oct. 24, '15

To the Review, Streetsville: I must take the last opportunity of sending a line through the Review to my Streetsville friends. We are, at the time of writing, in camp at Shorncliffe, and by the time you read this I will be helping to keep the old flag flying, and will be in the trenches "somewhere in France."

We have good food and lots of it, so are lucky in that respect. Our training, though short, has been extra stiff. As Canada's only permanent Infantry Regiment we are looked upon to set an example and I think I can safely say they have shown very good work so far. We were glad to get away from Bermuda and to get the chance to fight shoulder to shoulder with the boys who went before us. We have yet our names to make, and I do not doubt but that we have the kind of men to make it.

It might interest you to have a description of our camp. Tonight it is raining and a cold wind is sweeping over the commons. We have up till now been lucky as to weather, but a description tonight will show you what cheerfulness prevails under the most uncomfortable circumstances. Our tent is in the middle of a field of white canvas and were it not for the names we give the tents we might experience great difficulty in finding our "homes." The names are queer, as are many of the occupants. I live in 'Galore Rest' while near by are 'The Hate Club,' 'The Knotts,' 'Crystal Palace,' 'Abode of Love,' 'Bummer's Room' and a hundred other such titles.

Well, it is an awful night. Can you hear the rain as it patters against the tent, leaking through where anyone has chanced to touch the inside of the canvas? You might imagine me as I lean on my pack (which serves as a pillow) and write by the light of a candle placed on a soap box beside me. The Sergeant is calmly smoking a 'rag' and undoubtedly cursing the weather man for sending such abominable weather. My ohm is lying on his 'n'ber sheet which is spread over the wet and muddy floor, and he is snugly sleeping wrapped in an overcoat that I know must be soaked through. The rest of my mates are out in town or at the canteen. Strung up to the tent pole, with the butts a foot from the floor (to make room for our feet around the pole) are our rifles. They are all carefully jolled and wrapped in dampness and dirt. The wind insists on coming in under the floor or through the flap and is far from warm.

From the next tent comes the sound of a very much out of tune month organ whose rusted reeds shriek out the almost unrecognizable strains of 'Abide with Me,' and a score of voices, none too harmonious but earnest just the same, join in that beautiful old hymn.

A tin whistle is also to be heard from a distant tent playing 'There's a Girl in the Heart of Maryland' and the occupants of that tent are keeping time to the music (?) with boots, bayonets and swagger sticks, which are banged on the tent floor in a weird imitation of a file and drum band.

A lull in the ponding, and we can hear a lovely baritone voice singing 'I Wonder How the Old Folks Are at Home' and the chorus is echoed by a crowd of earnest singers. It is a favorite with us all and touches a tender spot.

Then the silence is broken by the bugle and 'Defenders' calls those men who have been confined to camp for infringements of regulations to answer to their names. This goes every half hour till 9.30 and life is certainly made miserable for them for a while.

If we peeped into the canteen we should likely hear some old timer spinning a yarn of the old days, or someone singing a song of home, sweetheart or country. These are the topics of most all the singing, and is sung right from the heart.

Hello! There goes the last post! With a shiver I turn in and wrap myself in my overcoat and blanket, settling down to that sleep which must prepare me for a hard day's work tomorrow. As 'Lights Out' sounds I am in the land of Nod, for it does not take us long to get to sleep.

If possible shall let you know what kind of a time they are having at the front. We are just in time for the winter campaign which is going to be a stiff one. I think Streetsville is doing splendidly, but if there are any more boys fit they should 'roll up' as they are needed. 'England Expects'—! Very truly yours, Roscoe. P. S. R. Hollingshead, 477419, Royal Canadian Regiment.

THE RUSSIANS CAPTURED 10,000 IN GALICIA AND NEAR DVINSK

Surprise Attack Demoralizes Gen. von Linsingen's
Austrian Forces on the Stripa

A despatch from London says: The weather, which has turned wintry, has not interfered with the Russian offensive along the eastern front. The Russians have extended their attacks to the district west of Riga and thence to the south of Dvinsk. They are keeping the Germans on the move, and the latter admit that in the region of Lake Swenton the Russians penetrated their lines.

The capture of 8,500 Germans in the south-western theatre, on the River Stripa, as the result of a surprise attack, is reported in an official statement issued by the Russian War Office. The statement tells of violent, but futile efforts on the part of the Germans to wrest the prisoners from the captors. Another Russian success is claimed by Petrograd in the fighting around Rafalovka, on the Kovno-Szarny. Here the Czar's forces took 22 officers and 712 men.

"In the region of Czartorysk bodies of Russian cavalry from 600 to 1,000 strong have been very active in attacking German infantry detachments in various localities east of Kovno. These operations have resulted recently in the capture of 2,000 prisoners."

The Austro-German forces on the Stripa River, in Galicia, have lost 28,000 men and 14 guns.

BULGARS ROUTED IN SOUTH SERBIA

Serbs, French and British Troops
Took Part in the Engagement.

A despatch from London says: South of Strumitsa on the Bulgarian border there has been sharp fighting between the French and the Bulgars. The latter attacked the French positions, but were repulsed with heavy losses. According to reports the British are co-operating there with the French, but, as heretofore, these reports are unofficial and fragmentary, and it cannot be said authoritatively whether the British were in touch with their new enemy.

"Official telegrams confirmed at the Serbian and Russian Legations here announce a great Serbian victory at the Babuna Pass. The Bulgarians were completely routed at Isevo, suffering enormous losses."

"Detachments of British and French troops hastened to defeat the enemy, who was shattered, and fled in disorder towards Kupili (Vele)."

"The right bank of the Vardar is now cleared of the enemy. The French also completely defeated the Bulgarians at Strumitsa, inflicting heavy losses on them and driving them beyond Kotsarion."

A Bulgarian army has reached the line of Nish forts, according to Sofia official despatches. It is not believed here that any great effort will be put forth to prevent the occupation of the war capital by the invaders.

The Teuton army under Gen. von Gallwitz, invading Serbia on the eastern bank of the Morava, captured Paracin, on the Oriental railway. This town, taken along with two others in the immediate vicinity, lies approximately 35 miles from Nish, the Serbian war capital—the direct line is a little more than 29 miles. It is this stretch of the Orient railway between Nish and Paracin that still remains in Serbian hands.

With the fall of Nish this railroad sector, essential to definitely clear the road to the Turkish capital, will become untenable for the Serbs, military observers here agree.

Meanwhile the battle line in Southern Serbia and in the strip of Bulgarian territory invaded by the French, has taken definite shape. On this battle line there are four principal salients, and at each fighting is now in progress. They are the Babuna pass, with the City of Priepel to the south, on the Monastir-Krupili (Vele), railway; Krivolak, due west of the pass on the Salonika-Nish line; Valanov, about 18 miles south of Krivolak, in immediate reach of the same line, and Robova, eight miles south of the Bulgarian stronghold Strumitsa.

APPEAL TO WILSON TO SAVE ARMENIANS

A despatch from Paris says: The French league for the defence of the rights of man and the Franco-Armenian Committee have made a joint appeal to President Wilson to use his influence "for the salvation of what remains of the Armenian race in Turkey."

OFFICIAL GERMANY WAR SICK AND ANXIOUS FOR EARLY PEACE

Secret Negotiations Set on Foot in Holland Have Fallen Flat

A despatch from Amsterdam says: Germany's secret negotiations for peace have fallen flat in Holland, even the most pro-German Dutchmen considering the terms preposterous. It is believed that the man behind the plot is Dr. Solf, German Colonial Secretary. Dr. Solf recently visited Holland, preserving great secrecy about his identity, but his presence in the country became known to the Dutch newspapers. It was officially announced in Germany that he was merely travelling to Brussels and had stopped in Holland to visit the picture galleries. Dr. Solf stayed three days at The Hague and paid visits to the Dutch Foreign Secretary and Dutch politicians who are known to be friendly to Germany. Other Germans of note were in Holland at the same time, including it is said Count von Radowicz, of the German Foreign Office. Before Dr. Solf left Berlin he had interviews with the Kaiser and Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg. Those who saw him at The Hague gathered the impression that even in official circles the Germans are war sick and in a hurry to finish the conflict before Christmas.

GREEK CABINET IS VOTED DOWN

Zaimis Ministry Resigns on Being Defeated, 114 to 147, in the House.

A despatch from London says: The Zaimis "neutrality Cabinet" has resigned, defeated by the pro-war faction in the Greek Parliament headed by ex-Premier Venizelos. A vote of confidence was denied 114 to 147. It had been asked by Zaimis as the climax to a tilt between the War Minister, M. Yanakitsas, and Venizelos, the immediate cause, however, being the latter's opposition to the Government's foreign policy.

The issue between Venizelos and the War Minister was first raised at the Chamber's meeting in a controversy over proposed military lands. Venizelos, considering a certain remark made by the War Minister as an insult to the national Assembly, demanded an immediate apology. Premier Zaimis announced that M. Yanakitsas had the full backing of the Government. He then asked for a vote of confidence, which was denied him by a majority of 33 votes.

By handing the resignation of his Cabinet to King Constantine M. Zaimis again places on the King the responsibility of deciding the future policy of his country. In London the first impression was that the defeat of the Government would mean the immediate recall of M. Venizelos and the fulfillment of the original agreement between him and the allied powers to go to the assistance of Serbia.

SERB WOMEN BOMBERS CONSTERNATE THE FOE

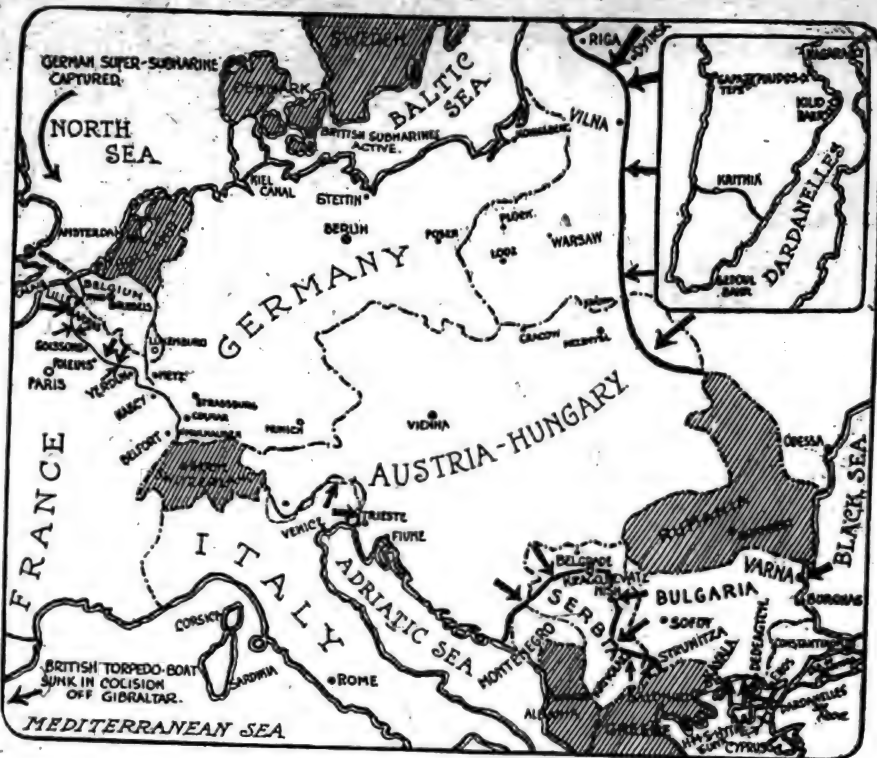

A despatch from London says: "There are nearly 2,000 women in Serbia's army when I left and more women soldiers were being organized," said Dr. Gruitch, a Serbian army doctor now in London. "The women are not in special battalions. Some of them wear the complete uniform of a soldier for the sake of comfort, while others wear skirts with a blue tunic. The younger women go with their brothers or their husbands. The women are of every class of the population, and we cannot prevent them from serving. They inspire the men, with whom they march side by side, and with whom they eat and serve shoulder to shoulder in the trenches."

"These women are not afraid. Nobody in Serbia is afraid, and the women in the ranks do not lose their nerve under fire."

LIFEBOAT BRINGS IN GERMAN SUBMARINE

A despatch from The Hague says: A German submarine in distress was towed into Terschelling, a Dutch island in the North Sea, by a Dutch lifeboat. A Dutch torpedo boat saw the rocket signals sent up by the submarine and escorted her to an anchorage. The undersea boat is being closely guarded.

The German submarine, towed into Terschelling, is the U-8. She had straggled at Noordergrond.

The Week's Developments in the War Area.

Outside of the Balkans there have been no notable developments in the various war areas during the past week. On the Western front the Germans have resumed their attacks in the Champagne district, and every point, and the Western battle-line is absolutely unchanged. On other parts of the Western front there has been little activity, infantry attacks being almost completely suspended, and the fighting restricted solely to local artillery duels.

On the Isonzo front the Italians have won difficult positions from the Austrians, and their offensive continues successfully.

As a result of statements made in the British House of Commons and the French Chamber of Deputies, the situation in the Balkans has been made somewhat more plain. Both Great Britain and France are determined to do their utmost to save Serbia, and the landing of troops continues steadily at Saloniki. Allied troops are also reported to have been landed at Kavala.

On the Southern front in Serbia, the French and British troops have met and defeated the Bulgarians, and driven them across the frontier. Further north, however, the Bulgars have made considerable progress, and are now bombarding Nish, the capture of which is imminent. The Serbs are offering heroic resistance, even the women joining in the fight against the invader.

Austro-German forces on the northern front are making slow progress, and are waging a war of extermination. A Serbian force has been despatched to deal with the Albanians, who are also attacking. If the Serbs, and check the invading armies, before Serbia is entirely overrun.

The new political crisis in Greece complicates the situation in the Balkans, and the actions of both Greece and Rumania are still problematic.

A strong British force is now approaching Bagdad, while a Turkish army is reported on its way to defend that ancient city, and it will be a race between the two columns.

On the Russian front, the enemy has made no progress, while the Russians report several local successes of some importance. The Austro-German troops are being withdrawn from this front to assist in the campaign against Serbia. It is expected that the Russians will have their opportunity against the weakened line of the enemy, and that important results may be looked for on this front in the near future.

German Super-Submarine Caught on First Trip

A despatch from Liverpool says: The Daily Post publishes a report of the capture of one of Germany's latest super-submarines, 250 feet long and carrying, in addition to torpedo tubes, four guns of fairly large calibre. The submarine was launched at Stettin a fortnight ago.

The Post states that within a few hours after leaving her base she was caught "in one of those traps we have so skillfully laid for these craft somewhere in the German ocean."

NO LONGER JEER AT BLOCKADE

Food Crisis in Germany Growing to
by German Press.

A despatch from London says: Although it is not true that Germany is starving, it is certain the food crisis is growing to alarming proportions. The high prices of provisions throughout the empire furnish a problem of the gravest nature. One necessity of life after another is engaging the angry attention of the nation. An entire page of the Frankfurter Zeitung is devoted to the new Imperial food laws. The decree consists of 12 paragraphs. One explains the special potato regulations. Another gives the laws concerning fish and game prices, another the restrictions on the consumption of meat and fat.

The entire German press is arming against the scarcity in the necessities of life. The printing of startlingly frank admissions is permitted. The Frankfurter Zeitung says: "While our troops are fighting like the heroes of the classic ages, want is growing acute at home, where the people are beginning to interpret the miserable existing conditions as the defeat of the empire. We jeered at the blockade, but to-day we laugh no longer. The sinister aspect of things certainly provides no food for laughter. But as our worries increase, so day by day grows our hatred against the enemy who is responsible for this misery. This hatred is so potent that it will nourish and sustain us and inspire us to hold on until finally we hack our way through, even though we have drawn the belt so tight around our bodies that the mere act of breathing becomes a trouble and weariness. Our hatred will enable us to show the world of what tenacity and endurance Germany is capable when once they are sure of their cause."

Maximilian Harden, editor of Die Zukunft, says on the same subject: "Let us frankly admit that the German people are in distress."

FOOD VALUE IN FLOWERS.

Field Squash Blossoms are Delicacy.

Nasturtiums Another.

The food value of flowers is a matter just beginning to interest the scientific world. Violets are said to contain considerable nourishment. They formed the basis of a refreshing drink, and in other forms figured conspicuously in the feasts of the ancient Persians. The modern confectioner crystallizes them in sugar.

The old Turkish confections made of rose leaves are declared delicious by those who have eaten them. A number of cooks have discovered that a handful of rose petals imparts a flavor of unparalleled delicacy to desserts of many kinds.

For those who do not care for sweets, the gayly colored nasturtium offers delight to the palate. It may be used as a filling for sandwiches, mixed judiciously with other materials in salad. Its delicious pungency appeals to the epicure, while physicians say it aids digestion.

A favorite Italian dish now being introduced into the United States consists of fried squash blossoms. When properly prepared this food is both appetizing and nourishing. The yellow blossoms of the common field pumpkin may be cooked in the same way, and to some tastes are even more pleasing.

DOUBLE REPORT FROM GUN.

One of the curious phenomena connected with the sounds of flying bullets is the apparently double report from the shot of a single gun. This is observed with especial frequency by the Austrians fighting in the Alps against the Italians. They were disposed to believe the second report was the echo of the first, but the curious fact remained that the second was louder than the first. Moreover, the German soldiers fighting in Belgium, where the land lies as level as a table, often heard two reports.

The explanation now put forward is that the flying bullet compacts the air in front of it, and that this produces sound waves which, when they first strike the ear, give the effect of an explosion. As the small-calibre bullet of the modern rifle flies considerably faster than sound travels, the main report arrives later, and is naturally louder than the first.

FRENCH TAKE ENEMY POSTS

Important Success Reported South-East of Amiens for the French Troops.

A despatch from Paris says: The sector between the Somme and the Oise south-east of Amiens figures in recent official reports as the scene of a French success. German posts before Andechy, north-west of Roys, were taken by the French troops, while to the south-east, at Beauvraignes, the Germans attempted a sortie from their trenches, but were driven back by the fire of the French artillery. Heavy artillery duels followed in this region.

The Germans attempted a hand grenade attack against the French positions east of the Butte-le-Mesnil, but were easily driven off, and in a continuation of the fighting at La Chapelle, in the Vosges, the French field guns silenced the German mine-throwers.

Heavy fighting in the Champagne and Bois Le Pretre districts was reported in Saturday's official communications. The Germans made a new attempt to retake their old positions at La Courteille, but the attempt "resulted in a complete failure." In the Bois Le Pretre, north-west of Pont-a-Mousson, the trench-to-trench fighting was unusually severe, hand grenades and bombs being used. French mines in the region between the Argonne and the Meuse caused serious damage to certain German detachments in the sector of Malancourt.

INVITED KITCHENER TO FIGHT FOR EMPIRE

A despatch from London says: Field-Marshal Earl Kitchener, the Secretary of War, has received one of Lord Derby's invitations which have been largely circulated to men of military age to join the army. This amazing blunder was disclosed by Lord Derby himself, who, while addressing a meeting of middle-aged recruits, said nobody should be surprised if they received an invitation, as one had been actually sent to the Minister of War.

RUSSIANS TO USE THE DANUBE ROUTE NOW

A despatch from Rome says: The German Minister at Bucharest has formally demanded that two Russian torpedo boats moored in the Danubian port of Turnu shall be dismantled and the crews interned. The Government has refused, and notified the Minister that since the navigation of the Danube was free Roumania's neutrality was not violated. The reply is considered significant as implicitly recognizing Russia's right to send an expeditionary force to Bulgaria along the Danube. Probably troops will be embarked at Reni and landed near Silistra.

BRITISH TRIUMPH IN EAST AFRICA

A despatch from London says: The Colonial Office reports that the British Nigerian forces occupied Bamenda, in the German Kameruns, on October 22. The British captured Banyo, in German East Africa, on October 3. The Germans lost twenty-five native soldiers killed. The British losses were four natives killed and nine wounded.

CANADIAN NURSE ATTENDED THE KING

A despatch from Montreal says: Miss Vivienne Tremaine, the Canadian nurse reported in despatches from London to have attended King George after his accident in France, was born in Montmorency, and received her training at Quebec Military Hospital. Her parents now reside in Westmount. She went to the front with the first Canadian contingent.

FOUR AVIATORS KILLED IN AERIAL COLLISION

A despatch from Paris says: Two military aeroplanes collided while making a landing at Le Bourget. They caught fire and the four aviators manning the machines were burned to death.

USED PRISONERS AS SHIELDS IN ADVANCE ON RUSSIANS

"They at Least in Some Measure Diminish Our Losses" Reads Note Found on German Body

A despatch from Petrograd says: What purport to be extracts from two letters found on the bodies of German soldiers on the field of battle have been published by the Imperial commission of inquiry into the conduct of the war. The first reads: "In this case, when the advance becomes too hard, we take Russian prisoners and drive them before us against their fellow-countrymen. Thus they at least in some measure diminish our losses."

The second reputed quotation follows: "We don't know what to do with prisoners. Henceforth we shall drive every Russian who surrenders before the line of our fortifications to be shot."

The commission announces that the letters will be photographed and translated into the leading languages of the world to be sent broadcast.

GERMANS LEAVE 1,000 DEAD AFTER ATTACK NEAR DVINSK

Teutons Also Fail in Counter-stroke on the Styr
Leaving Two Guns in Russians' Hands

A despatch from London says: German efforts to recover lost ground near Lake Swenton, in the Dvinsk region, have continued with great energy, but with little success, according to the Russian official communication issued in Petrograd. Over a thousand bodies were counted on the field by the Russians after one futile German attack.

Near the Baltic coast also the Russians report progress in the land fighting, and it is stated that a naval squadron is bombarding the German positions west of Riga on the gulf.

In Volhynia the conflict between the Russians and General von Linsingen's mixed Austro-German forces is proceeding with great fury. All-night fighting at one point on the Styr River ended in the driving off of Austrian troops and the capture of two cannons, 250 prisoners and a quantity of ammunition. In East Galicia, on the Stripa, the combat has resolved itself into an artillery duel.

PAIN IN THE BACK

Usually Comes from Muscular Rheumatism.

Do not worry about a pain in the back. The worry will do you more harm than the pain. The cause of most backaches is muscular rheumatism, which is painful enough, but not fatal. Lumbago is a form of muscular rheumatism, so is a stiff neck. Sufferers from any form of rheumatism should keep their general health up to the highest standard by the use of a blood-building tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, while taking good, nourishing food, without too much meat. Proper nutrition and pure blood are the best means of fighting rheumatism. Rheumatism comes from an acid in the blood, build it up, strengthen the system, and drive out the poisonous acid that causes rheumatism. In this way sufferers have found complete recovery as is shown by the following case: Mrs. Samuel Childhouse, Orillia, Ont., says:—"About three years ago I was greatly afflicted with a severe pain in the back, which I thought at first was due to kidney trouble. I tried a number of remedies, but they did not help me any, in fact, the pain was growing worse, and got so bad that I was quite unable to do my housework. I could not even sweep a floor. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I am glad I acted upon the advice, for before I had been taking the Pills long the pain began to subside, and under the continued use disappeared entirely, and I have not since been bothered with it in any way. My husband was also cured of a severe attack of indigestion by this same medicine, so that we both have much reason to be grateful for it."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GIVEN AWAY.

The Irishman's Answer Astonished the Colonel.

There used to be a certain stern old colonel stationed at Aldershot who was a great stickler for all the officers being acquainted with the names and genealogies of the various men of their troops. A well-known jovial captain, who was never yet at a loss for a reply to any question asked him, was once put sublimely through his facings.

"Captain Dash," said his superior officer, surveying a posse of young recruits, "what is this man's name, and where does he come from?"

"His name's Brown, sir, and he is a native of Derbyshire," remarked the calm captain, prepared for any amount of fabrication, but in reality not knowing one single point upon which he was likely to be questioned.

"And this man—what is his name, and where was he born?" was the next inquiry.

"Oh, his name's Smith, and he's a native of Devon," answered the plumping captain, as coolly as though he were telling the truth.

"Of Devon," repeated the colonel. "Dear me!—my own native place. So, my man!"—addressing the grinning recruit—"you are actually from Devon?"

"Faix, yis, yer honor; and troth it's a grand place intirely, so it is!" was the reply.

The colonel fell back, very much astonished, and Captain Dash had to see him later on in private.

TURN OVER TIME

When Nature Hints About the Food.

When there's no relish to food and all that one eats doesn't seem to do any good is the time to make a turn-over in the diet, for that's Nature's way of dropping a hint that the food isn't the kind required.

For a number of years I followed railroad work, much of it being office work of a trying nature. Meal times were our busiest, and eating too much and too quickly of food such as is commonly served in hotels and restaurants, together with the sedentary habits, were not long in giving me dyspepsia and stomach trouble, which reduced my weight from 205 to 100 pounds.

"There was little relish in any food and none of it seemed to do me any good. It seemed the more I ate the poorer I got and was always hungry before another meal, no matter how much I had eaten."

"Then I commenced a trial of Grape-Nuts food, and was surprised how a small saucer of it would carry me along, strong and with satisfied appetite, until the next meal, with no sensations of hunger, weakness or distress as before."

"I have been following this diet now for several months and my improvement has been so great all others in my family have taken up the use of Grape-Nuts with complete satisfaction and much improvement in health."

"Most people eat hurriedly, have lots of worry, thus hindering digestion, and therefore need a food that is predigested and concentrated in nourishment."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Embroidered Boleros Pretty and Smart.

The fall and winter styles are, without question, a credit to their originators. Every woman wants to dress with refinement and style; and to keep up-to-date inexpensively in these days of rapid changes, it is almost necessary to do all one's own dressmaking. This is not difficult when a good pattern is used. For instance, the illustration here shown, Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9089, is a fine example of up-to-date dress and smartness. This dress will be particularly welcome because of the ease and accuracy with which it can be made and adorned. The blue bird pattern, No. 14444, is delightful on it. It makes up charmingly in the new plaids in prunelle shades combined with voile or broadcloth. The pattern consists of a foundation waist opening in front, with full-length or shorter sleeves with circular cuffs. The scalloped sleeveless bolero falls over a deep girdle, while the three-piece skirt is completed by a tunic gathered at the waistline, and may be finished with or without the scalloped hem. Pattern cuts in sizes 32 to 42 inches, bust measure, requiring in size 36 5/8 yards 36-inch plaid with 4 1/2 yards 36-inch voile.

Patterns, 15 cents each, can be purchased at your local Ladies' Home Journal dealer or from The Home Pattern Company, 183 George Street, Toronto, Ontario.

A GENTLE LAXATIVE FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets are a gentle laxative. They are absolutely safe and are so pleasant in action that once the mother has used them for her little ones she will never again resort to that harsh, ill-smelling, bad-tasting castor oil, which baby always fought against taking. Baby will take the Tablets with a smile, and thousands of mothers tell us their little ones will coax for them. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VERY SUCCESSFUL FARMER.

Duke of Marlborough Helping to Solve the Food Problem.

The Duke of Marlborough, who married Consuelo Vanderbilt, of New York, is rapidly gaining the fame of Britain's "master farmer."

On March 17, 1913, the Duke sent an open letter to Winston Churchill, then Home Secretary, condemning radical land measures, and announcing that he was about to put 1,000 acres of his estate, Blenheim Park, at Woodstock, under the plow. He outlined an alluring scheme of increasing the national food supply and cutting down the size of the army of the unemployed. Also he promised he would grant land for workmen's cottages.

The Duke kept his promise. The scheme worked out, and is working out far more successfully than the Government, and probably the Duke himself, had dreamed it would.

A little more than half a year after he had written his letter to Winston Churchill, the Duke ordered 1,000 acres of Blenheim Park to be plowed for the planting of cereals.

This ground produced its second harvest this year. The barley and oats are not quite equal in bulk to the crop of last year, but they bear about the same proportion to those that preceded them that the present harvest in general does to that of 1914, so the deficiency has a seasonal explanation.

The Duke of Marlborough's enterprise in restoring to cultivation a land that had been under grass for many years has aroused interest and approval throughout the British Isles, chiefly because he is pointing the way to modifications in farming that have good chances of helping to solve the problem of the home production of breadstuffs and of increasing the nation's security from its own resources, a matter of vital importance to Britain.

The Duke showed considerable foresight in the working out of his plan. The land he converted into cereal producing farms is light. The turf it carried was of little value, its owner being strongly against disturbing rich pastures or meadows.

The Duke is keeping detailed records, and the books show that there is every justification for expecting better returns from the reclaimed area under the plow than it yielded in its former state.

The Duke has subjected the administration of the Blenheim farms to a thorough evolution along industrial lines, and the results are equally as interesting and instructive as the progress of the farming itself. Together with W. Gavin the Duke had introduced important reforms, resulting in the raising of heavier crops and pronounced improvement in the quality of the permanent pasture, leading to a great increase in the total head of stock carried.

On the lawns all around the palace sheep have been substituted for the mowers, and when in June the grass was bare the scanty feed of the sheep was supplemented with cabbages grown in the flower beds.

BRITAIN'S GREAT RESOURCES.

Can Continue Fighting For a Long Time.

The British were not bankrupted by the Napoleonic wars, although the average income per head was only $75 and the taxes took $15 of it. The average income last year was $265 and the average per capita tax was only $17.50. The population has increased not quite two and a half times in the past hundred years and the national income has increased nine times, says the Philadelphia Ledger. It is evident that the nation has resources enough to continue fighting a long time. It is evident, also, that the British citizen is willing to pay whatever taxes the Government may levy. He is reading the budget estimates with calmness and preparing to pay the new taxes as the price of success. While the Germans are talking of victory the British are preparing to spend their last shilling before they will surrender. Their ability to pay their share of the new loan floated in America is undoubted.

THE BELL-HORSE.

A White Animal Nearly Always Selected to Lead Mule-Train.

A necessary part of every Army mule-train is the bell-horse. He carries no burden save a great responsibility and a clear-sounding bell, and all mules destined to serve his Majesty are trained to follow him. A white animal is nearly always selected, as for some reason or other mules follow this color most faithfully.

Pack-mules become very much attached to the bell-horse of their train, and refuse to move either forwards or backwards if he is not leading. For this reason the death of the bell-horse is a great calamity.

On one occasion, in one of our Indian frontier wars, says London Answers, the whole mule-train came to a standstill owing to the death of the bell-horse. Nor would anything induce the animals to move till one of the officers substituted another white horse in the dead one's place. On seeing, as they thought, the old favorite in his place once more, all the mules moved forward to greet him, and only by driving the fraudulent bell-horse forward quicker than the mules could follow, was the deception kept up.

Joint and Muscle Pains Banished by Nerviline

IT CURES RHEUMATISM.

Thousands of people, chuck full of the joy of living—happy, glad, bright people, that Nerviline has cured of their pains, all tell the same wonderful story of its power to drive out the aches and tortures of rheumatism and kindred ills.

"My goodness, but Nerviline is a miracle-worker," writes Mrs. Charlotte Chipman, mother of a well-known family residing at Mount Pleasant. "Last month I was so crippled up with sciatica and muscular rheumatism as to be almost unable to do a bit of housework. My joints were so stiff and the muscles so frightfully sore that I even cried at times with the pain. For years we have used Nerviline in our family and I just got busy with this wonderful, good old liniment. Lots of rubbing with Nerviline soon relieved my misery and I was in a real short time about my work as usual."

No matter where the ache is, no matter how distressing the pain you can rub it away with Nerviline. For forty years it has been curing lumbago, sciatica, backache, colds, chest trouble and all sorts of winter ills. Keep a large 50c. family size bottle handy and you'll be saved lots of trouble and have smaller doctor bills. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

QUAKER WIT.

What He Advised a Lady to Do Get Warm.

"Somewhere in France" there is at work a group of English Quakers, whose cool courage and tireless devotion in rescuing and tending the wounded on many a battlefield have won them, despite their peace principles, the hearty respect and liking of both "Tommies" and "plou-pious." Among them is one young man whose ancestors have been notable more for wit and spirit than for the virtues oftentimes associated with drab coats and broad hat brims.

It was a member of that family, a century or more ago, that found himself by chance in a carriage with a very fine lady attired in the low-necked, short-sleeved muslin dress then in the height of fashion, adorned by a profusion of jewels and trinkets, and protected only by a lace shawl as light as a cobweb. A chilly wind blew up suddenly, and she exclaimed, shivering, "What shall I do to get warm?"

"I really don't know," said the Quaker sympathetically, "unless there put on another breastpin."

ELECTRIC FANS DID IT.

How Oriental Pasha Was Relieved of Mosquitoes.

A 'round-the-world-electrical engineer tells this story, says G. T. Hadley in World Outlook:

"We ran up to Bagdad to put over a little deal with the Pasha, a former Government official who had been prominent in the days of Abdul Hamid. His palace was infested with mosquitoes, and we had to plan to give him relief."

"He lived in the usual Moorish house with high walls, flat roof with parapets, few windows and open court. The old Pasha looked exactly as if he had just stepped out of a Broadway musical comedy with his shining silk robes, turban and red shoes and upturned toes."

"In the palace garden was a stream with a fall of about 10 feet. It would develop about one-fourth horsepower. We built a water mill, equipped it with a dynamo, wired the palace and started up some gigantic electric fans. These fans cooled the air and also blew through the rooms a narcotic sufficiently powerful to cause the mosquitoes to fall in a coma. All that remained was for the servants to go around and sweep them up in piles to be destroyed."

WOMEN'S NATIONAL ANTHEM.

Dear Editor,—While in London recently I came in touch with a little incident, which I think will interest you.

I attended, one day, at noon, a recruiting meeting in front of the Mansion House. A great crowd of men and women listened to the recruiting sergeants, all of whom had "done their bit" at the front.

A lady, with a magnificent voice, sang patriotic songs, which perhaps were more effective than the speeches of the recruiting sergeants. At the close of the meeting, it was announced that after singing "The King," the lady would sing "The Woman's National Anthem."

Then, in splendid voice, she sang:

"God save our splendid men,
Send them safe home again;
God save our men.
Keep them victorious,
Patient and chivalrous,
They are so dear to us;
God save our men."

As she sang, every man stood, uncovered, and with bowed head, and there were not many dry eyes.

I think it would be a good thing if the women of Canada would learn this as "The British Women's National Anthem," for surely it is the prayer of every loyal British woman.

After the meeting, I went up to the singer, handed her my card, and asked her for the words she had just sung. When she saw that I was from Montreal, she said, "Oh, I sang in Montreal, and I will be glad to send the words to the women of Canada."

She wrote them on the back of the blue envelope which contained my passport.

Very truly yours,
A CANADIAN.

Novel Atomizer Size of Watch.

A recent novelty is a pocket atomizer in the shape of a watch. The head or top has a small orifice, and the spray is produced by pressing on the flexible metal sides. A miniature funnel is provided for the filling, which is done by unscrewing the head. Another atomizer consists of a small cylindrical pump mounted on a cork so as to fit into any bottle and thus avoid handling of the perfume from one bottle to another. A plunger at the top serves to produce the spray from a side orifice. The tube which descends into the liquid has a second or telescoping end so that the tube can be extended down as far as the bottom of the bottle and thus take up all the liquid.

Women's Patriotic League of Cooksville and District

The first Annual Meeting of the Women's Patriotic League of Cooksville and District was held on Tuesday last in the Township Hall, Cooksville. After the regular business of the monthly meeting was completed, Mrs. McClelland, President, read her report as follows:—

"When bringing before you the work of the 'Women's Patriotic League of Cooksville and District' for the past 12 months, I cannot but feel gratified at the amount accomplished. Unlike many similar societies around us, our members are scattered over an area of six square miles. This has prevented our holding weekly sewing meetings, etc., and we have only had our monthly meetings, and this even had to be omitted in August owing to the press of fruit picking on our members. Consequently all our work has been done at home, and is evidence of the earnest co-operation of our women in this time of stress.

Our sincere thanks are due to the numerous friends who so generously came forward with donations of money at the commencement of our work; amongst whom one would like to mention the Toronto Township Council, Cooksville Agricultural Board, Barnhampton Methodist Sunday School, Sunday School and Vestry of St. John's Church, Dixie, Trinity Methodist Church, Ladies' Aid, Miss Sinclair's Class, People of Hamilton, L.O.L. of Cooksville, etc.

"Many donations of material, etc. have also been received most gratefully. Commencing our work we undertook supplies for the 'Div' Cyclist Corps' under Major Kennedy. This finished we turned our energies elsewhere and have sent shipments to the 'Canadian Red Cross Society,' 'Royal Navy,' 'Secours National,' 'Queen Mary Needlework Guild,' and 'Belgian Relief.' A few days ago we forwarded 80 parcels to the 30 men who have gone to the front from this district. Each parcel contained a pair of socks, 2 khaki handkerchiefs, chocolate and chocolate with the Christmas greetings from the League.

"Money grants have been made to the Canadian Red Cross Society, National Guild for Sailors, Belgian Relief and Cyclist Corps, and also to the British Red Cross Society.

"A fully equipped kit bag was made and forwarded to bag over the bed in Cliveden donated by the League.

"Only two cases came before our Social Service Committee, so our expenses on this score have been light.

"Early in the spring copies of the late Lord Robert's message to the children of the Empire explaining why we are at war, were secured, neatly framed, and presented to the schools in our district, seven in all.

"We had several open meetings, when we had the pleasure of listening to interesting and instructive addresses; our visitors for this purpose being Mrs. Plumtre of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Mrs. Beatty of the Secours National, Miss Draper of the Etienne Women's Institute, Lt. Col. MacQueen of the United Empire Loyalists Association, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hamilton and Mr. G. M. Kelly of the Peel War Auxiliary.

"Miss Joan Arnold of the Canadian Field Comforts Commission was unfortunately recalled to England before she could visit us, but kindly sent a copy of her address, which was read at the last meeting.

"It is with sincere regret that I speak of the death of Mrs. J. Stewart, who by her cheery way endeared herself to many. The League thus lost a ready and valued worker.

"Several of our members have suffered through the loss of dear ones, and to them the sympathy of the League has been extended.

"In closing I wish to thank all who have worked so well with me, making my term of office a pleasure, and to hope that the coming year will find us working a little more enthusiastically and earnestly to do our 'bit' in helping others to uphold the traditions of the glorious Empire of which we are so proud to be a part."

"Miss Bain, Sec. Treas., then spoke briefly on her side of the work, as a printed copy (which will appear in next week's issue) had been given each one, showing in full the year's work.

"Mrs. Wm. McClelland was then elected to fill the office of chairman for the election of officers for the coming year, the result of which was the unanimous re-election of all last year's officers. The officers for the year therefore are: Mrs. Wm. McClelland, President; Mrs. MacMillan, Mrs. Bryans and Mrs. Sutton, Vice-Presidents and Miss Bain, Sec. Treas.

"At the close of the elections Mrs. MacMillan, Vice-President, took the chair and, in a few well chosen words, presented Mrs. McClelland with a life membership badge and certificate in the Canadian Red Cross Society as a slight token of the appreciation of her work during the past year by the members of the League. Mr. McClelland spoke on behalf of Mrs. McClelland and thanked the League sincerely.

"It was decided to join in the work of assisting the prisoners of war in Germany, through the Canadian Red Cross Society, a collection being taken up for that purpose and further details left to the discretion of the Executive.

"It was decided to make the annual fee twenty-five cents.

"The next meeting will be held in the 'Stone Church,' Dixie, on the second Monday in December.

"After closing the meeting by singing the National Anthem, tea was served, Mrs. Cunningham being hostess.

"Misses Beardmore and Yates of Port Credit, who had been expected all afternoon, were unavoidably detained, but were in time for a chat during the tea hour.

"The Women's Institute will hold a meeting on Monday, Nov. 16th, in the Oddfellows Hall, upstairs. All ladies interested in patriotic work are invited to attend.

COOKSVILLE

A sad fatality was brought to light here on Saturday afternoon last. Early last spring Dr. R. E. Murray V.S. with the family removed from here to the City leaving their residence here partly furnished. About three weeks ago Dr. Murray returned here alone, occupying the former residence owing to ill health in the City, he said. He was seen in the vicinity up till Saturday, Oct. 8th, after which he was missed and it was supposed he had returned to the city. Upon enquiries being made it was found out that he had not and it was decided to enter the premises. This was done by several of the neighbors who found his dead body on an upstairs bedroom floor, he evidently having got out of bed and suddenly expired. Dr. Sutton, the coroner, was called but decided an inquest unnecessary he being in an invalid condition for years and a sufferer from acute asthma. The remains were taken to Prospect Cemetery, Toronto, where the funeral was held on Monday last. Besides his widow he leaves two married sons and an unmarried daughter at home. He was fifty years of age.

The Annual Anniversary Services and Fowl Supper of the Dixie Presbyterian Church are to be held on Sunday and Monday, Nov. 21st and 22nd. The morning service on Sunday at 11 a.m. will be conducted by Rev. Dr. McGillivray of Bonar Pres. Church, Toronto, and the evening service at 7 p.m. by Rev. J. F. Maxwell of Davenport Pres. Church, Toronto, and a former pastor of the church. The choir will render special selections assisted by outside talent. A special collection will be taken for the building fund. On Monday evening, Nov. 22nd a Fowl Supper will be served in the basement of the church followed by a first-class programme by the following talent: Mr. Alex. Park, Toronto, Scottish Harpist; Miss Emma Thompson, Elcounist; Miss Emma J. Rale, Contralto Soloist; Toronto; Mr. J. Galbraith, Tenor Soloist, Toronto; and Miss G. Kingdon, Soprano Soloist. Rev. J. A. Millar B.A. will occupy the chair. Supper will be served from 6 to 8. Admission—Adults 40c, Children 20c. This has always been a popular event and with the above programme should continue to be.

The adjourned meeting of the Court of Revision was held here on Monday last by His Honor Judge McGibbon and a number of appeals were settled. One division yet remains to be dealt with which will be done on Friday next.

The regular meeting of the Township Council was held here last Saturday with all the members present and considerable business was attended to. There is very little talk of the Municipal Elections which will be held on New Year's Day. As the present Reeve retires a contest for it will likely occur.

Nearly Nine Hundred Dollars for Red Cross

MEADOWVALE, Nov. 8.—At a well attended meeting of the Executive of the Meadowvale and West Palestine branch of Peel County War Auxiliary, the following reports were received from collectors for Red Cross Fund:

Westhalf 2nd line east collected by E. Wilson & E. Grafton $112.00

1st line east, coll. by W. Rutledge and J. Graham 69.50

Centre Road, coll. by Thos. Graham and F. J. Thomson 144.25

1st line west, coll. by O. H. Gardner and Jesse Treason 43.00

2nd line west, coll. by J. D. Steen and H. South 166.51

East half 3rd line west, coll. by T. H. Reeve and R. G. Brown 211.00

Meadowvale, coll. by W. J. Brett and J. B. Pearson 189.75

Total $876.01

Ten life members are already reported and some have promised further subscriptions which will increase the amount. The committee wish to thank those who have contributed, and no pains will be spared to see that, as far as the committee is concerned, the total amount goes where it will do most good.

Young Farmers Meet to Organize Winter Class

A most enthusiastic meeting of young farmers and others was held in the Township Hall, Streetsville, on Tuesday, Nov. 9th, the object being to arrange for a winter class in Streetsville during the months of January and February.

Messrs. J. A. Carroll and J. W. Stark of the District Branch of the Dept. of Agriculture were present. Mr. Stark gave a splendid address entitled "The Education of the Young Farmer." Mr. Carroll outlined the course which would be taken provided at least 20 young farmers decided to join. The syllabus includes stock judging, fruit, poultry, treatment for smut, how to get rid of weeds, farm book-keeping and a host of other hints on farming to the best advantage. Messrs. C. H. Falconer, W. Drinkwater, J. D. Steen, J. E. Bailey, Thos. Rogers, W. Kemp, J. W. Clarke and E. Brown spoke and urged all the young farmers to take advantage of the opportunity to learn something. It was the chance of a lifetime. Nearly 20 have already signified their intention of joining and all young farmers who have not already joined are requested to send their names to J. A. Carroll, District Representative, Brampton, or to W. F. B. Switzer, Streetsville. The class will begin on January 10th and will continue each week day for about 5 or 6 weeks, 9.30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Messrs. J. A. Carroll, J. W. Stark and specialists from the O.A.C., Guelph, will be instructors.

More Razors, Please

Mr. C. E. Darker sent a package of old razors for the soldiers to Toronto this week and received a letter from Mr. T. B. Lee acknowledging receipt of same. Mr. Lee has already sent twenty thousand razors to England and expects to make it 25,000. You may have some old discarded razors lying around and you are requested to bring them in to Darker's Barbershop as he is making another collection for the soldiers. Bring them in at once.

On Monday night, while Mr. P. J. Lamphier was driving along the road opposite Mr. McCaughey's the steering gear of his Ford broke and the car took to the ditch. It did not turn turtle, but it was a pretty narrow escape for the occupants. Mr. Lamphier is a very careful driver, consequently a serious accident was averted. They were taken home in another car. Mr. Clarke was requested to visit the car early next morning and remove certain articles but one of them was not to be found.

On Friday evening, Nov. 13, a Patriotic Concert will be held in the Parish Hall under the auspices of Court Loraine I.O.F. An excellent programme will be rendered by the following well known artists: Mr. Harvey Lloyd, Comedian; Miss Bigwood, Soprano and Miss I. O. F. Pianist. An address will be given by Bro. Geo. A. Mitchell of Toronto. The programme will begin at eight o'clock. Admission: Adults 25c, Children 10c.

Orangemen vs. Chickens!

The annual supper of the Streetsville Orangemen was held in their hall last Friday night and everyone enjoyed the repast. An interesting programme was provided with Mayor Mara of Brampton as chairman. Both members of Parliament for Peel graced the meeting with their presence and delivered addresses, as did also Canon Walsh, J. J. Donaghy and Rev. G. R. Kitching. Musical numbers were given by Misses Morley and Arnold. Altogether it was a very social and enjoyable evening and so be remembered.

Feeding the Soldiers

The grand march of the soldiers from Niagara to Toronto is a thing of the past
—the last contingent arriving in Toronto yesterday. The march lasted two weeks and every day the soldiers were served with lunch along the route. The Clarkson people did their share nobly and when the call came to Streetsville and other places to help in the work they gladly responded. On Saturday three autos conveyed pies and cakes, made by Streetsville ladies, to Clarkson and again on Monday at least 500 pies went, when half a dozen cars and J. E.
Alderson's trailer were pressed into service. The soldiers certainly relished the lunches and showed their appreciation of the kindness of the civilians.
The 81st Battalion passed through on Monday and is a fine looking regiment.
Before departing Col. Belson drew up in front of the church and thanked the people for their kindness. This was followed by three hearty cheers from his men. Other places that sent refreshments were Sheridan, Trafalgar, Erin-dale, Streetsville, Meadowdale and Lorne Park. The soldiers say they were treated generously all along the line, but at Clarkson best of all.

It is said that Streetsville was represented in every battalion that passed through. On Saturday we were pleased to meet Privates Jack and Bert Bailey with the Highlanders and on Monday
Privates Hadden and Smith.
About fifty people from Streetsville went to Clarkson on Monday to see the soldiers and on Tuesday quite a number went to Toronto to witness the parade.

Married

Grace Church, Markham, was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Oct. 21st, when Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kirby, became the bride of Charles son of Mr. and Mrs.
Harry Lilley. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. I. B. Johnson.
The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Eva Kirby, and Mr. Joe Nobbe assisted the groom. The bride was gownned in white Ninon with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The guests partook of a dainty supper at the home of the brides parents. The happy couple left on the 8:30 train for a trip to western towns. The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue velvet trimmed with fur, with hat to match. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents. A number of relatives from Streetsville

Horticultural Society Holds Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Horticultural Society was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 3rd. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Pres.—W. J. Graydon
1st Vice Pres.—Miss E. Lawson
2nd Vice Pres.—Rev. T. O. Carlin
Directors—Dr. Smith, Mr. Keir, W. H.
Graydon, C. Arch, C. E. Darker, W.
Kemp, Miss K. Dracass, J. E. Bailey,
R. H. Greig.
Sec. Treas.—Miss N. Hicks
Auditors—C. H. Falconer, Rev. J. F.
Scott.

The society has just closed a successful year with a membership of 95. As this society has for its object the beautifying of the homes in the village, it should have the hearty support of the residents. Those wishing to be members for the coming year will kindly hand in their names and fees to any of

The ladies who had charge of gathering the pies for the soldiers passing through Clarkson on their way from Niagara to Toronto wish to thank all in Trafalgar, Streetsville, Meadowdale and surrounding country who in any way helped in the good work. We wish every woman who so generously contributed could have seen how their pies were appreciated and heard the oft repeated remark that they were just like mother used to make. Some idea of the generous response may be had when it is known that 125 pies were taken down on Saturday and over 500 on Monday. We wish especially to thank Miss Gill for her great assistance at Central.

Presentation

Last Saturday evening Mrs. W. E.
Watson and her class of girls from the Streetsville Methodist Sunday School drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H.
Wolfe, where they spent a very enjoyable evening. Mrs. Wolfe formerly was teacher of this class and she was quite taken by surprise when they presented her with a cut glass spoon dish as a token of their appreciation of her untiring efforts in their behalf. Mrs.
Wolfe replied very feelingly, thanking the class for their kind remembrance.
Lillian Church read the verse which was as follows:

Mrs. Harry Wolfe, Streetsville, Ont.

Dear Mrs. Wolfe:

We, the members of your Sunday School Class, wish to express to you our love and admiration for your enthusiastic and untiring efforts in the cause of Christ in our midst.

You have ever set a good example of faithfulness and we feel we owe much to your kindly influence in our decision as a united class to take our stand for Christ and the Church.

Always loving and good to us you have won a place in our hearts time con-never efface.

Our wish is for your true happiness and success in life.

We beg of you to accept the accompanying gift as a small token of our love.
Signed on behalf of the class.

MRS. W. E. WATSON,

Nov. 6th, 1915.

The class wish to thank all those who in any way assisted in making the event a success—especially the gentleman

"If I didn't know differently now," she declared, "I would be willing to make solemn oath that this is Aunt Lois's; there is not the least difference between them. And that dreadful ring is really inside it?"

"Bless you, I wouldn't swear to it. I know that I put it there and snapped down the lid—" She looked startled and I stopped.

"Could it have been stolen, do you suppose?" she asked apprehensively.

"I don't think so. In fact, I'm pretty certain that nobody has molested it. I was merely going to say that everything relating to this puzzle has a way of doing the unexpected and the unreasonable—even the impossible—and I shouldn't be at all surprised to see that the ring has transformed itself into something else, or that it has developed a volition of its own and vanished utterly."

"Please don't joke about it," she protested. "I was thinking of what might happen if it fell into some body's hands who was ignorant of its deadly properties, or somebody acquainted with them who might use it without scruple."

"I have thought of the same thing myself," I responded; "that's why—one of the reasons, at least—I try to keep it hidden."

"But, seriously," I pursued, "what I said is not altogether a joke. While I was first making the ring's acquaintance, the engraved character on the jade set was what is technically known, I believe, as an incised design—that is, cut into the stone. When about to place it in the safe that memorable Saturday afternoon, for some unexplained cause I lifted the lid and took a final glimpse at it. I got a jar that made me think I was seeing crooked; the symbol was no longer incised, but stood out in relief."

"Honestly?" she cried, openly incredulous.

"Cross my heart and hope to die," I solemnly assured her, "if I'm not speaking truth. The circumstance partly reveals the ring's secret. The ideograph is movable. The slightest touch upon the set releases some sort of concealed mechanism that projects the ideograph forcibly outward, possibly an eighth of an inch, and its sharp edges gash the skin just enough to let the deadly poison contained in the hollow metal part enter the blood. Whatever ancient secret toxic it might be, we know that it is picking it up by the metal part and extending it toward her so that she could view the set and the symbol.

FOR HEADACHES, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION

Nearly all our minor ailments, and many of the serious ones, too, are traceable to some disorder of the stomach, liver, and bowels. If you wish to avoid the miseries of indigestion, acidity, heartburn, flatulence, headaches, constipation, and a host of other distressing ailments, you must see to it that your stomach, liver and bowels are equal to the work they have to do. It is a simple matter to take 30 drops of Mother Seigel's Syrup daily, after meals, yet thousands of former sufferers have banished indigestion, biliousness, constipation, and all their distressing consequences in just this simple way. Profit by their experience. As a digestive tonic and stomachic remedy, Mother Seigel's Syrup is unsurpassed.

She saw it. In a flash the last atom of my enjoyment vanished. A sudden realization of the ring's hidden venom, of its diabolical secret mechanism for dealing death indiscriminately and impartially, of the appalling possibilities for destruction that lay unseen in the harmless looking bit of green jade, swept over me with demoralizing force.

It was emphatically borne in upon me that the thing, after all, was not to be made light of; that its nature was, in very truth, about as wholesome and inviting as a cobra's.

The girl's first half-timid look changed swiftly to a fixed stare. Her eyes widened; the color ebbed from her cheeks, leaving them as pale as tuberoses.

Next instant she went reeling backward toward the wall, where she stood, the back of one hand before her eyes shutting out further sight of the poisonous object, which seemed to bear some awful meaning to her, while the other hand was extended palm outward, as if she feared it was about to leap at her.

The ring dropped from my nerveless fingers to the blotting-pad, and in a palsy of terror I uprang from my chair.

"Good Heavens!" I shouted. "Did the thing touch you?"

"No, no, no!" she answered in a strangled, excited voice. "I'm not hurt."

To some extent she gradually recovered her poise, while I stood trembling and looking helplessly on. What it all meant I had not the faintest conception of, and so my terror was speechless. It was evident that she was shaken to the very pith and marrow of her being. It seemed impossible for her to tear away her gaze from the ring. Her arms lowered, but shudder after shudder continued to shake her body.

Also she seemed to have forgotten my presence, for after a moment I heard her mutter, as if to herself; as if she were confirming in her own mind the now indisputable existence of some hitherto amazing, stupendous, unbelievable possibility. Strange and mystifying words they were, too, that she uttered.

"The Kiss of the Silent Death! So it's true, then. How awful!—how awful! Now I know what it means."

In the swift reaction from terror, now that I was convinced that she was unharmed, I slumped weakly back into my chair.

"Then for the love of Heaven," I pleaded in a trembling voice, "tell me too."

Seconds passed, and she appeared not to have heard. Then with an obvious effort she wrested her gaze from the ring and looked at me. Her expression was that of one who has seen visions of inferno.

She stood unresponsive until her self-possession was quite restored, then she advanced a step or two closer to me. Without a word she calmly removed her collar, reached back and unfastened some of the upper buttons of her shirtwaist and drew it down in front an inch or two, thus exposing perhaps a hand's breadth of marmoreal loveliness at the base of her rounded throat. No thought of the unconventionality of the act entered either of our heads at that palpitating moment; the occasion was too crowded with portentous possibilities.

"Look," she said tensely, her eyes glowing.

I did, in a blind, uncomprehending way, and next instant was once more staring from my chair.

On the white flesh, like a green tattoo-mark, was an unmistakable imprint of the death seal; the dread sign which, whatever it might mean to those who could read it, had spelt death to all whom it had touched.

Again our eyes met and we looked long into each other's eyes awed to silence. The same dumfounding thought was flooding both our minds, rendering the situation too full for words.

We were thinking of Strang's inquiry about a tattooed design.

CHAPTER XIV.

Notwithstanding Lois's assurance that she had suffered no harm from the ring, I still must have remained panic-stricken but for one thing. The symbol on the satiny white background at the base of her throat was noticeably larger than the symbol on the set, so it could not have been caused by contact with the latter. And when at last I fully realized this fact, I stammered:

"H-how in the name of all that's good did that get there?"

Her calmness and self-possession were now in marked contrast with my flustered state. She looked at me clear-eyed as she buttoned her waist again and refastened her collar.

"How can I tell after this? Birthmark, indeed! Aunt Lois has deliberately deceived me about it. That ring tells me that some monstrous cause made her do so. That's what shocked me so—the stunning conviction that I'm doomed to be allied with crime and evil and bloodshed whether I will or not."

She laughed a hard, bitter laugh. "If that's my destiny, what's the use of fighting against it?" she added. "Why not be a crook right? I could."

"Lois!"

It was the first time I had ever addressed her by her first name. It leaped from me in an outburst of reproach and honest indignation—not at her so much as at the cruel, unjust conditions that had provoked and aggravated her present dark mood. Yet I was hurt too; I felt that I did not deserve this.

She sank into a chair and began to cry softly. Instinctively I knew that I had said enough, so I remained silent and waited.

I did not have to wait long. She was not demonstrative by nature and quickly gained control of her feelings.

"I did not mean that," she said by and by, "and I was inconsiderate of you to give way like that. But I'm so reckless and miserable that I hope you'll forgive me. You will, won't you?"

Her tone was all at once coaxing; she smiled; I would have forgiven her anything.

"My dear," I said, "my heart is only full of compassion for you. Go on and tell me all about it; you will feel better. Then we can meet whatever's to come like good sports. Don't forget that I'm with you."

"I shan't—again." Then she went on:

"The instant I saw the character on the set of course I recognized it; then I was overwhelmed with the hideous associations of crime and murder and sudden death that it conjured up."

"Why, Mr. Ferrie, just think of it!" She laid a hand upon her bosom. "This must be a tattoo-mark; James Strang knows. But how did he learn of it? Who could have put it there, and for what earthly reason? It's the most perplexing thing I ever heard of!"

It was, indeed. And I could not offer her a grain of comfort, or advance even a reasonable theory to relieve in some degree her troubled mind.

"But sight of the ideograph awoke some other association in your mind," I reminded her presently. "I don't know whether you are aware of it, but you voiced the thought. You uttered some strange words—what do they mean?"

"That is true. I'll explain; then you'll know as much about it as I do."

"At the time I showed you the Strang letters I honestly believed this to be a birthmark. Why shouldn't I? My aunt and foster-mother assured me it was; I can't remember when it wasn't there. It is just the irregular, purposeless sort of figure that most birthmarks are. But my mind flew back to something that happened years ago—when I was a very little tot—and in the light of to-day's revelation it seems to contain a special significance that I can not get."

"I woke up one night with a feeling that somebody had kissed my throat. It was not a startling kiss, but gentle, like a mother's might have been. I was not frightened, only thoroughly, drowsily comfortable in my crib. In a dim, half-waking, half-sleeping way, I saw Aunt Lois bending over me, crying. She was kneeling on the floor."

VALUE OF SKIM MILK.

Two and a Half Quarts as Nutritive as a Pound of Beefsteak.

The value of skim milk as a practical and economical food is being urged by the United States Department of Agriculture. Recent tests have demonstrated that skim milk, frequently thrown away as a waste product, contains nearly all the food values of whole milk, despite that it is nine-tenths water. Two and a half quarts of skim milk, costing 10 cents, has about the same nutritive value as a pound of beefsteak costing 20 cents or more.

Whole milk, as every one knows, is an indispensable food for the young, and even in the diet of the adult it is comparatively economical. The only nutrient taken from it in skimming is the butter fat. There is left, therefore, in the skim milk, not only all of the sugar, which amounts to about four and one-half parts in every 100, and all of the mineral substances but also all of the protein.

The last named substance is important because, besides serving as a fuel for the body, as fats, sugars and starches do, it also supplies nitrogenous tissue building material. The proportion of protein in skim milk, as well as of the mineral constituents, which are also valuable for body building, is even greater than in whole milk.

Since the nutritive part of skim milk consists very largely of protein, it is to be classed, as whole milk is, with such food materials as eggs, meat, fish, poultry and cheese (though it is much more delicate than those foods) rather than with such substances as sugar, which serve only as fuel.

Two and a half quarts of skim milk contain almost as much protein and yield about the same amount of energy as a pound of beef. When skim milk sells for 4 cents a quart, or about 2 cents a pound, and round of beef for 20 cents a pound, a dime, or any other sum of money spent for skim milk will provide nearly twice as much nourishment as it will if spent for round steak. Round of beef, of course, is one of the lower priced meats and when compared with the more expensive cuts skim milk makes a still better showing from the standpoint of economy.

The comparison with oysters is very significant; a quart of oysters contains less than twice as much nourishment as a quart of skim milk and yet it often costs several times as much. Both are useful, wholesome foods, and in the oyster one has a special flavor. A combination of the two in oyster stew or creamed oysters is an economical way of using the oysters, since it makes a given quantity "go further."

Almanacs are in existence that were compiled in the fourteenth century, but they are only in manuscript; the first printed almanac was issued about the year 1475.

"Every one in our family is some kind of animal," said Jimmie to the amazed preacher. "Why, you should not say that!" the good man exclaimed. "Well," said Jimmie, "Mother's a dear, the baby is mother's little lamb, I'm the kid, and dad's the goat."

Standardizing Canadian Eggs.

From present indications it would appear that one of the most important developments to date in the improvement of the Canadian egg trade was the action taken by the Canadian Produce Association last winter in adopting definite standards for Canadian eggs.

Hitherto each market and in most markets each dealer had a system of grading peculiar to his own trade. This resulted in endless confusion to the consumer, and great difficulty was experienced at times on the part of the producer in finding a satisfactory market for his product.

Realizing the importance of having definite standards for all live stock products the Live Stock Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has endeavored by means of pamphlets, placards, and other means, to give the standards for eggs as much publicity as possible. The co-operation of exhibition association has also been secured, prominent among which has been that of the Canadian National Exhibition Association, at whose exhibition in Toronto this year, in response to prizes offered, probably the largest collection of eggs ever brought together in one exhibition of the American continent was displayed. Some 7,000 dozen in all were on exhibition. The prize list for eggs was prepared in accordance with the standards, and the judges made their awards according to the accuracy of the interpretation, on the part of the exhibitor, of the definitions of the various grades.

At a number of exhibitions where no extensive classes for eggs have been offered, the Live Stock Branch has made a display of eggs graded in accordance with the standards, and in each instance has supplemented the display with actual demonstrations in a candling booth specially designed for the purpose, of the way in which eggs of the various grades appear when candled.

In order that the consumers and producers generally may become more familiar with the various classes and grades, the following explanation is given:

Three general classes for eggs are provided under the standards, viz:—"Fresh gathered," "Storage," and "Cracked and Dirty." Four grades are provided in the first class, three in the second, and two in the third.

The grades in the "Fresh Gathered" class are "Specials," "Extras," "No. 1's," and "No. 2's." The grade "Specials" is omitted from the "Storage" class, and both specials and extras from the class for "Cracked and Dirty."

"Specials," according to the standards are eggs of uniform size weighing over 24 ounces to the dozen or over 45 pounds net to the 30 dozen case; absolutely clean, strong and sound in shell; air cell small, not over 3/16 of an inch in depth; white of egg firm and clear, and yolk dimly visible; free from blood clots.

"Extras" are eggs of good size, weighing at least 24 ounces to the dozen or 45 pounds net to the 30 dozen case; clean, sound in shell; air cell less than 1/2 inch in depth; white of egg reasonably firm; yolk visible but mobile, not stuck to the shell or seriously out of place.

"No. 1's" are eggs weighing at least 23 ounces to the dozen or 43 pounds net to the 30 dozen case; clean, sound in shell; air cell less than 1/2 inch in depth; white of egg reasonably firm; yolk visible but mobile, not stuck to the shell or seriously out of place.

"No. 2's" are eggs clean; sound in shell; may contain weak watery eggs, and eggs with heavy yolks, and all other eggs sound in shell and fit for food.

Consumers, in order to protect themselves in the matter of purchasing eggs, should acquaint themselves with these standards and the above definitions of the grades. Only by creating a demand for certain grades of eggs will the supply be forthcoming, and the demand can come only with a thorough knowledge on the part of the consumer as to what constitutes the various grades. It has also been frequently suggested that since the adoption of the standards consumers generally, in order to safeguard themselves, would do well to insist that all eggs as offered for sale be labelled in accordance with their proper grade.

Producers, too, would do well to more systematically grade their eggs before marketing, and, knowing definitely what they have in hand, thereby be in a better position to demand a price commensurate with the quality supplied.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

One of the humors of the war—if there can be any in so terrible a conflict—will be found in Mr. Von Wiegand's account in the New York World of the anxiety of the German fleet for a "challenge" from the British. The German officers complain, we are told, at the inaction they are compelled to endure. They are waiting for an attack by their enemies in order to prove their mettle. But the British fleet is tamely content with control of the sea. It has locked the German warships up in port. Only the submarines are footloose, and they have not accomplished what was expected of them. In such circumstances there can be no fight unless one side or the other runs what might be a fatal risk. The British have the advantage in numbers, and the Germans in a strong defensive position. The "dare" of the latter reminds one of nothing so much as a small boy, perched high on the back yard fence, making faces at a big boy outside. It might be magnificent for the British to accept the "dare," but it would not be war.

Meanwhile, working on sound principles of strategy, the British naval commanders have succeeded in driving the German flag from the high seas, in protecting the transport of millions of troops, in guarding Great Britain from invasion. In other words, it has done all that circumstances required it to do. Probably it will not be found remiss if the general engagement which the Germans so ardently desire ever takes place. It has at least not been content with a policy of inactivity. Having cut Germany off from communication from the rest of the world by the North Sea, it has begun to complete the circle by adventuring into the Baltic. The activity of British submarines in those waters is already severely felt.

While the Admiralty would not be at present justified in sending warships through a narrow passage threatening disaster, it is quite possible that the story of a purpose to force this passage with ships of light draft and small tonnage, each carrying one or two heavy guns, is authentic. The plan, whatever it is, will hardly be revealed in advance. But if the Germans want to come out and fight they may soon have the opportunity in the waters which hitherto they have dominated.

AN ANSWER TO THE KAISER.

What the Swiss Would Do in Case of German Invasion.

The bragging of the German Government has caused a good deal of uneasiness among the smaller neutral nations lately, but it is certain that if the Huns were to attempt any more violation of neutral territory they would meet with a very warm reception. A very good story, bearing on this very question, is told of an answer made to the Kaiser by a certain Swiss officer of high rank. Not long before war broke out the Kaiser was present at some drills performed by a portion of the Swiss Army. He was evidently very much impressed by all he saw and especially by the high quality of the shooting. "Your men are certainly wonderful shots," said the chief Hun to an officer standing by him. "They score a bull's eye every time!" "Yes, your Majesty, and we have 100,000 such shots in the Swiss Army," was the reply. Then the Kaiser assumed his usual arrogant and swaggering manner. "But suppose I invaded you with 200,000 soldiers?" he asked half-jokingly, expecting, no doubt, that the officer would pay him some compliment. But the officer was equal to the occasion. "In that case, your Majesty," he answered quietly, "we should each of us fire twice!"

ORIENTALS MAKE MUNITIONS.

French Employing Many in the Work Successfully.

In order to secure the maximum of production in its arsenals and to avoid as much as possible the necessity of calling on men of military age, the French Government recently began the experiment of employing native laborers from Cochinchina, Annam and Tonkin.

Fifty of them were sent to the aeronautic and munition shops at Tarbes, Castres and Toulouse. Results exceeded expectations and a second batch of 600 were sent to France. They will be followed by 4,000 others, and soon the number of native workers will exceed 10,000.

The Important Question.

Surgeon—You'll live two years if you consent to this operation.
Payton—How much longer than two years will I live if I refuse to have it?

Well Shaken, When Taken.

First Autoist—How's the road? Rough?

Second Autoist—Well, I'll say it's no place to trust to cheap dentistry.

"How did you begin life?" "I didn't begin it. It was here when I arrived."

Most of our military terms are French, but nearly all our naval terms are Anglo-Saxon.

WAS MURDER OF MISS CAVELL ANY WORSE THAN BRUTAL SHOOTING OF TORONTO BOY?

There should be no more talk over the execution of Miss Cavell than over similar shootings of men," says Miss Jane Addams of Chicago. Above is shown Miss Edith Cavell, the English nurse brutally shot by the Germans, and Pte. David Moncur of 34 Harriett street, Toronto, who was shot to death while wounded and a prisoner in the hands of the enemy. The man who shot him did so by placing the muzzle of the gun right against the wounded man's body before pulling the trigger.

About the Household

Dainty Dishes.

Steamed Indian Pudding.—One cup corn meal, one-third cup sour milk, one-half cup molasses, one-third cup chopped suet, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, few grains ginger. Mix soda with sour milk, add other ingredients, pour into buttered mold and steam four hours.

Meringue Apples.—Prepare apples as for baking. Cook until tender, but not broken. Fill centers with apple jelly or marmalade and coat each apple with meringue made with whites of eggs and sugar, one tablespoon of sugar to one egg white flavored with lemon. Brown in oven.

Cassell Pudding (English).—Take weight of two eggs in butter, in sugar and in flour. Rub butter and sugar together, add to them grated peel of half a lemon and yolks of eggs beaten light. Stir in flour and, last of all, whipped whites of eggs and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Grease small, deep patty pans and bake pudding in these for about one-half hour; turn out on hot dish and serve with hard sauce.

Johannycake.—One-half cup sugar, one-half cup thick sour cream, one-half cup thick sour milk, one egg, one-half cup flour, one cup corn meal, one teaspoon soda, one pinch salt. Beat egg until light, add sugar and mix. Dissolve soda in sour milk, add to sugar and egg, together with sour cream. Add flour, corn meal and salt, beat thoroughly, pour into well-greased biscuit pan and bake twenty minutes in hot oven.

Rice a la Mode.—One pint cooked rice, six slices bacon or salt pork, three eggs, one tablespoon butter, one-fourth cup milk, one tablespoon chopped onion, salt, pepper and one teaspoon parsley. Beat eggs, add milk and pour into hot saucepan in which butter is melting. Stir constantly, adding onion, salt, pepper and parsley. When creamy add rice and when thoroughly heated again mound in platter, surround with hot fried bacon or salt pork, and serve.

Date Cake.—This cake is economical and quickly put together. One-third cup soft butter, one and one-third cups brown sugar, two eggs, one-half cup milk, one and three-fourths cups pastry flour, once sifted, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon grated nutmeg and one-half pound stoned and shredded dates. Put all in mixing bowl and beat three minutes, using slitted wooden spoon. Turn into buttered and floured cake pan and bake in moderate oven from forty to forty-five minutes. Sprinkle top with confectioner's sugar after removing from oven.

Carrot Soup.—Two cups chopped raw carrots, two slices onion, sprig parsley, one-fourth cup raw rice, four tablespoons butter, one and one-half teaspoons salt, few grains cayenne, two cups water, two cups scalded milk, two tablespoons flour. Cook carrots in water until tender and press through sieve, reserving liquor. Cook rice in milk in double boiler. Cook onion in butter. Add flour and seasonings. Mix carrot mixture with rice and milk and pour on to butter and flour. Bring to boiling point, strain and serve. Garnish with chopped parsley. If soup is too thick thin with cream or milk.

Breads.

Brown Bread.—Two cups of corn meal, one cup of flour, one cup of buttermilk, one of sweet milk, one egg, one teaspoon of soda, one teaspoon of baking powder, one-half cup of sorghum; divide batter into three equal parts and put into greased baking powder cans (pt. sized). Cover with lids and set in a covered bucket or pot to steam for three hours, then remove lids and set in oven to dry for ten or fifteen minutes. This is especially nice for wafers.

Pocketbook Rolls.—One cup of yeast sponge, one cup of sweet milk, one-fourth cup of sugar, one egg, one-half cup of potatoes, flour to make thin batter; beat for five minutes or until smooth and light. Let rise four or five hours, or until air bubbles cover the surface and show that the batter is light. Now add one-half cup of lard and one teaspoon of salt; mix in flour to make dough as stiff as ordinary biscuit dough. Let rise two hours, roll out, cut in biscuits, dip in melted lard or butter, fold together, let rise until ready for oven. Cook quickly and brush tops with cream or butter.

Household Hints.

A quick and easy method of polishing linoleum is to wash it over with milk.

Change the lids of the kitchen range frequently, and you will prevent their warping.

Cold meat minced fine and mixed with mashed potatoes in potato cakes makes a good dish.

A good idea is to have egg spoons made of black horn; the silver ones discolor so badly.

Comfortable living is not a matter of money so much as it is a matter of foresight.

When buying nuts avoid the mixed nuts bait. They are generally made up of the cheaper nuts.

Never store any diseased potatoes in the cellar or anywhere else—they will ruin the good ones.

Wood alcohol will take vaseline stains from wash goods. Soak them a few minutes in the alcohol.

Pack glass or china in hay which is slightly damp. This will prevent the articles from slipping about.

Rice flour or rice which has been boiled is excellent added to the cup of mutton broth served the invalid.

The second and third cuts from the top of the round of beef are not expensive, and they are not tough.

Tea and coffee should be kept in a cool, dark place as far as possible, as this helps to preserve their flavor.

Meat should be taken from the paper as soon as it arrives, and never put in direct contact with the ice.

Sugar is present largely in bananas, grapes, etc., and their food value is derived almost entirely from that.

The juice of a lemon added to a pan of water will freshen wilted vegetables. Let them stand in it for one hour.

It is wise to use either mustard or red pepper in preparing baked beans or lobster dishes, as these condiments used sparingly render the food more digestible.

Delicious tomato sandwiches are made by cutting the tomato very thin and spreading it with mayonnaise. Cut the bread rounds with a cookie cutter, spread and use the slices of tomato for filling.

AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND

Proud of Their Heroic Sons and Brothers.

Australia and New Zealand have made a most honorable and sacrificial offering to this war. A correspondent writes: "I send you these few lines from a far back sheep station among the New Zealand hills. I assure you that the throb of emotion of patriotism reaches to the uppermost parts of the empire. Every man of eligible age on this station is either on the list of those accepted or has been rejected, like myself. Nevertheless, in New Zealand, as elsewhere, there are 'shirkers.' However, we are more proud than any words can say of our heroic sons and brothers, and some cases fathers (extremely few married men have gone from New Zealand). The New Zealand Minister of Defence, in reply to a deputation which waited on him to strongly urge increased contributions of men from New Zealand, stated reasons of a confidential nature, explaining why New Zealand could not send another Main Body. These reasons, which the Press was asked not to publish, quite satisfied this influential deputation. As it is, New Zealand is sending over 3,000 men as reinforcements every two months."

He Has the Fear of the Lord

The Man Who Stands Upon Big Ground Who Alone Can Tackle Matters of Great Moment.

"He brought me forth into a large place."—Ps. xviii., 19.

That is always the end of the Lord's leadership. He brings us out of narrow places, where we have but little standing, and He sets our feet in a large place. He gives us big ground to stand upon. We have been cramped in a small expediency and He leads us into the enlargement of a spacious purpose. Or we have been cribbed in a petty rule and He brings us into the fine air of a splendid principle. Or we have been dwelling in little sentiments, and He leads us forth into a vast and holy love. Or we have lived in party prejudice, and He has brought us into a comprehension of truth.

This is the Way of the Lord.

It is His gracious will that the soul should have a fine starting, and should move in the glorious liberty of the Son of God.

It is easy to tell when a soul has been wonderfully led into a large place, as it is easy to know when a soul is held captive in a tiny cabin. In politics it is the difference between the politician and the statesman. In religion it is the difference between the ecclesiastic and the saint. It is the difference between the poetic and the prosaic, between severely conventional living and a large life of spiritual vision and aspect. Who does not know the difference a man who takes up a thing from small motives and the man who stands upon the big ground in all his enterprises and ambitions? It is the difference described by our Lord—some are from above, and others "from beneath."

No Other Fear Can Breathe.

It is the man who stands upon big ground who alone can tackle matters of tremendous moment. He alone can endure through the dark and cloudy day. The very largeness of his standing protects him from the fears which are bred of unproportioned thoughts. He looks out upon affairs with a true and fine perspective, and he does not confuse the early battle with the long campaign. He does not fear "when heat cometh." He has the calmness which is the offspring of magnanimity. He has the fear of the Lord, and in that large fear no other fear can breathe.

Our God is the God of the large places! It is the wonderful privilege of the believer to sit in Heavenly places with Christ Jesus and to think and to labor in the very mind of Christ.—Rev. J. H. Jowett, D.D.

THE SUNDAY LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON.
NOVEMBER 14.

Lesson VII.—Daniel in the King's Court (World's Temperance Lesson)—Dan. 1. Golden Text: 1 Cor. 16. 13.

I. Daniel's Test (Verses 3-13).

Verses 3. Purposed in his heart—No resolution for good is strong enough if made with the intellect only. It must be buttressed by the heart.

King's Dainties.—Food and wine from the king's table might have been dedicated to the heathen divinities, and partaking of them would be an act of compromise. Or a part of the food might consist of the flesh of animals unclean according to the Jewish ceremonial law (Lev. 11. 4-20).

10. See your faces worse looking!—Showing the effects of insufficient nourishment.

12. Prove thy servants.—An easy way for Daniel to escape defiling himself and at the same time commend himself to the fairness of the sun.

Pulse to cat, and water to drink.—A vegetarian diet. Pulse: peas, beans, lentils. Ezekiel and Daniel, of the ten thousand whom King Zebuchadnezzar carried off to Babylon, were the only two young men to become prominent.

II. The Outcome of the Test

(Verses 13-16, 19, 20)

20. He found them ten times better.—A high tribute, and one not only deserved, but easily obtained.

Magicians and enchanters.—Belief in the occult was so strong that every king of ancient times had his following of sorcerers and wizards. To-day the ruler of state covets men about him with clear minds born of good common sense. Only such can face difficulties and avoid calamity. The occult can play no part in matters of modern statecraft.

WOMEN URGE REFORMS.

War Economy League Would Eschew Sweetmeats.

One of the first reforms proposed by the Women's War Economy League of London is to induce the people to try to get along without sweetmeats.

Other needed economies relate to the $35,000,000 spent annually in motorcars, motorcycles and cycles and $20,000,000 on imported gasoline. Britain spends also $15,000,000 on skins and furs, $7,500,000 on ornamental feathers, $35,000,000 on silks, $25,000,000 on wines and spirits, and nearly $40,000,000 on tobacco.

The league also urges strict economy in coffee, tea and all imported articles of food, drink and wear.

How She Got the Price.

"I suppose you were touched when your wife gave you that $50 easy chair for your den?"

"I was touched before she gave it."

Italian Passenger Steamer en Route to New York Sunk Near Naples and 200 Passengers Perish

A despatch from Rome says: The Italian liner Ancona has been sunk by a large submarine flying the Austrian colors. The Ancona carried 422 passengers and 60 in the crew. Two hundred and seventy survivors, some of them wounded, have been landed at Bizerta.

The vessel was a twin-screw steamship, built at Belfast in 1903, and was owned by the Societa di Navigazione a Vapore Italiana. She was of 9,000 tons gross, and was 432 feet long.

Jimmie's Toothache Is Better Now

Belgium, Oct. 18th, 1918

I suppose you have been wondering why I have been so long in writing so I will begin by making excuses. The last is that I have been very busy and the 2nd is that I was attached to the C.A.S. C. for a couple of weeks and was then sent back to my old battalion and so I was waiting to see when I was going to be settled permanently. The 3rd excuse is that our issue of stationery is very small. It comes about once a week and when I got my allowance today it was one envelope and one field post card. I had some of my own but they got damp and the envelopes got stuck together and are therefore useless. We are issued with two packages of cigarettes each week and two boxes of matches also. As every farm house here is an Establiement (saloon) and country store combined we are able to buy more if we need them. From what I hear people in Canada and in England get the idea that money is useless to us here as there is no place from which to buy anything. I spent seventy five francs in a little more than two weeks and then I did not go out of camp much. At present I am in my dug-out just to the rear of the firing line and shells and bullets fly over our heads nearly all the time. Especially at night time if we go outside bullets sing uncomfortably close. The first few days I was here I was constantly looking every time I would hear one whistle by me and sometimes they came so fast that I was down more of the time than I was up. The other boys had been here some time before I arrived and as familiarity breeds contempt they are quite accustomed to them. I therefore was a source of great amusement to the boys. It will be hard to believe that there is a farm house not a hundred miles away where (we are not allowed to mention distances) we are able to buy milk, beer, wine, candies, eggs, bread, candles, butter, etc. Bread is 70 centimes (7d) a loaf, eggs are 2 for 45 centimes or 4 pence 1 halfpenny, butter 2 1/2 francs a pound or 60c in Canadian money. So it does not take much shopping to spend over two week's wages over here which is fifteen francs or three dollars 'over 'ome'. The women folk at this house go about and do their housework and look after the cows and chickens and the old farmer tills his soil and brings in his crops just the same as if there was no war at all. The windows in the house are pasted over with strips of paper to keep the shocks caused by artillery firing from breaking them—that is, the paper that still remains.

Life in France and Belgium has so far been very good. In England it was very monotonous. Since our arrival here we have been in the trenches for a few days and then in our billets in some town for awhile and then a few days in the support or just to the rear of the firing line. Then to our billets in some other town and then the first line trenches again and so on. When we move we go to a new place and when we go to the trenches we go to a different place on the front. If it is true that a change is as good as a rest we are certainly having plenty of rest. I could write many interesting pages of this doing over here only the censor has a strong dislike for long letters and another reason is that it is not very comfortable to write a letter sitting on a bundle of straw with the note paper on the table—O I mean on my knee—with a stub of a pencil that a pickpocket could not get hold of and only an inch of my candle left. But such is life. It is the trials and tribulations of life that makes the joy and bliss all the more enjoyable. I was surprised to see the number of Streetsville boys who have enlisted. It is a pleasant part of a boy's life to enlist and have a fuss made over him and his photo in the paper and all that at first but believe me he gets well fed up on it before he gets as far as France. Can you imagine a person being bored to death with thanks? It doesn't seem possible but the boys and I have had a strong argument on this tonight and we have come to the conclusion that it is as near possible as damn is to swearing. (I just broke my pencil for the 27th time) I nearly forgot to tell you that we had a nice conversation with the Germans when we were in the trenches. They asked us for something to eat and so we threw them over a few cans of bully beef. They were grossly insulted and threw it back because it came from Chicago. The language that followed from both sides would not be passed by the censor. Well I guess I will ring off as I know what it is to be bored.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Before this war we heard much of decaying nations. We heard the prediction that war would test and reveal their weakness. We heard the philosophy that war was the necessary method by which the fit nations would establish their right to live and lead.

Where are those decaying nations? Where must we now look for that defect of will and courage that marks the rotting fibre of a race? Where find the proof that any nation has lost the right to live its life—that it must surrender its destiny to any other nation's keeping?

Not in France, where the people, steeled to the struggle, fight on with grim courage that fills the world with admiration. Not in France, which during the last few days has given such evidences of vigor, courage and resolve. Not in France, new-watered with the blood of sons and foes alike.

Not in Great Britain, which continues to exhibit, both in the western area and in the near East, proofs that the fibre of the race is as strong as ever. Not in Germany, which continues to surprise with the results of her matchless discipline and far-sighted preparation. Not in Belgium, which has become the world's newest synonym for dauntless courage in undeserved misfortune.

Not in Italy, where the united nation moves heroically to its tasks and vindicates on the cloud-capped summits of great mountains the courage and purpose of the race. Not in Austria, which is giving the world an exhibition of unity quite unexpected by the prophet of decay. Not in Russia, that patient Colossus, whose steadfastness in the face of all discouragements has something almost awe-inspiring.

Not in Serbia, that little giant of the Balkans, never more national, more courageous, more deserving of praise than now. Not in Turkey, that "Sick Man of Europe," where the efforts of the allies for months have been met by a resolution which would compel the admiration of even an ungenerous foe.

Not anywhere—neither on the land nor the sea nor in the regions of the upper air—has any nation been found wanting. There has not been a trace of fear—not a "streak of yellow" anywhere.

This, then, the war, at least, has proved: The nations upon the continent of Europe, judged by the most tremendous test that can come upon a people, have a right to live—to work out their destinies—to be themselves. They have been weighed in the awful balance of war and have not been found wanting.

RUSSIANS NEARING PERSIAN CAPITAL

Germans, Austrians and Turks Are Now Preparing to Leave the City.

A despatch from Petrograd says: According to the latest advices received in Teheran, Persia, according to a despatch from that city, a Russian force is within 45 miles of Teheran, and the indications are that the Germans, Austrians and Turks in the city are preparing to leave, removal of the archives of the German and Austrian Legations to the American Legation, for instance, being in progress.

At a secret session of Parliament, the despatch states, a majority of the deputies expressed the hope that an amicable arrangement of the difficulties between Russia and Persia would be reached. The Cabinet Ministers had been in session for 24 hours, it is added, trying to formulate conditions acceptable to Russia and Great Britain.

Much excitement is reported in the city, according to the despatch, over the energetic action of the Entente allies, and it is reported that the Shah will retire to Isfahan in the event that the Persian proposals are not acceptable.

ASKS FOR ARMISTICE FOR BURIAL OF THE DEAD.

A despatch from London says: An appeal for truces to allow the burial of the dead and acquittal relatives of the fallen with their names is being made to the rulers of the warring powers by the International Red Cross.

"The most elementary feeling of charity, the most imperative appeal of pity," it says, "demand all useful measures to acquaint families with the fate of the fallen."

The appeal asks that positive instructions be sent to military commanders with a view to the mitigation of needless aggravation of the sufferings of war.

To give a delicious flavor to corn mush, drop in a few chopped dates just before removing from the fire. Children love it.

To wash anything that is greasy, use hot soda water. The alkali turns the grease into soap, which will do its own cleaning.

About the Household

Tested Recipes.

Cut stale bread into thin pieces. Put two pieces together with grated cheese between them; dip into a mixture of egg, well beaten and thinned with a little milk and fry, and you will call it good.

Owl Cakes.—Choose dates of good size. With icing mark eyes and beaks of owls on them. Cut and shape top of dates into ears. Have ready freshly baked and frosted molasses spice cakes. Press dates into these, use citron to form branches on which owl sits and with chocolate icing outline feet.

Hobgoblin Cups.—Use cups made of oranges with pulp removed in which to serve the sherbet, first marking faces with different expressions on outside of skins with chocolate icing. Set on plate surrounded with paper pumpkin leaves. To make cider sherbet, sweeten cider to taste and add a little lemon juice. When frozen to a mush add one quart cream to every quart of cider used and finish freezing.

Lemon Syrup.—Grate the rind of six lemons into the juice of 12 and let it stand over night. Make a thick syrup, using 12 cups of white sugar. When it is quite cool strain the lemon juice into it, squeezing some of the oil from the grated rind. Bottle and set away for use. A tablespoonful in a glass of water makes a delicious drink for a hot day.

"Make Over" Meat Pie.—Chop cold meat very fine. To each cupful add one saltspoonful of salt and one and one-half saltspoonfuls of pepper, a pinch of Summer savory and one-half cupful of stock. Put into a baking dish and cover with a crust of mashed potatoes. Brush over the top with milk and bake in an oven to a golden brown.

Sandwich biscuits require four cupfuls of flour, four tablespoonfuls of baking powder, a teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of meat drippings, half a cup of milk and water to complete the wetting to the ordinary biscuit consistency. Roll the dough thin, like pie crust; cut, spread half the rounds with butter, add a filling of seasoned, finely ground, cooked ham; then lay on the covers and bake.

This is a nice way to cook cabbage: Chop one head of cabbage fine, clean it thoroughly and boil in salted water for 20 minutes. When cooked spread it out to dry. Make half a pint of sauce with butter, milk and flour. Spread a layer of cabbage in the casserole, then a layer of sauce and sprinkle over it some grated cheese. Continue these layers, finishing off the top of the dish with several tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs. Bake for 20 minutes and serve in the casserole.

Children are very fond of molasses pie. To make this you will need 1 lb. of flour, 1/4 lb. of breadcrumbs, 1/4 lb. of molasses, 6 oza. of dripping, juice of one lemon, and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Make a paste of the flour, dripping, baking powder, a little water, then line a greased pie-dish with part of it; warm the molasses in a basin and work in the breadcrumbs gradually; lastly add the lemon juice. Then spread a layer of this mixture in the paste, now put another layer of paste, then more molasses, repeating till the dish is full, but finish up with paste. Bake in a good oven for three quarters of an hour.

Mixed Meat Loaf.—Two pounds lean veal, one-half pound pork tenderloin, one-half pound sweetbreads, one-half pound lean ham, three eggs, one cup white breadcrumbs, three tablespoonfuls cream, one tablespoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon onion juice and one cup of canned mushrooms, cut in pieces. Put all of the meat through the food chopper twice, then add all of the other ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pack in a bread pan, cover with buttered paper and bake in a brisk oven for one hour. Uncover and cook one-half hour longer. Serve cold, sliced thin.

Household Hints.

Buttermilk with a tablespoonful of freshly grated horseradish will remove freckles.

Some coffee needs boiling and some does not—one must experiment to find out.

When pans are scorched, use a stiff wire whisk to get the burned food off the bottom.

If you use cleaning powder for saucapans be sure to wash out the pan afterward with cold water.

The good housekeeper should go over her supplies every day. By this means she can avoid food spoiling.

Figs are nice soaked in lemon juice, stuffed with marshmallow or nuts, and rolled in powdered sugar.

Putting a coat of varnish on the linoleum yearly will make it last for years, and look bright and new.

A little salt added when cooking sour fruits greatly reduces the quantity of sugar required for sweetening.

It is best to give linens a long soaking before washing. If this method is followed stains will wash out easily.

If the piano keys are washed with a soft flannel dipped in alcohol they will retain their color and not grow yellow as they do when washed with water.

To preserve rubber heels, scrape all grit and mud out of them when cleaning the boots. Grit and small stones wear out the rubber as it revolves on the screw, making it fall off long before the heel is really worn out.

When a child has the slightest tendency to crooked legs he should have a very special treatment. His bones are too soft, and he needs more lime and iron. He should be taken off his feet at once, and have salt water bathing and massage.

Here is an excellent way to kill moths in carpets which never fails. Wring a coarse crash towel out of water and spread it smoothly on the carpet; iron it dry with a good hot iron, repeating the operation on all parts of the carpet infested with the moths. There is no need to press hard, and neither the pile nor the color of the carpet will be injured, and the moths will be destroyed by the heat and steam.

It is appalling to see the amount of succulent juices which many cooks send swirling down the sink. The water in which vegetables are cooked should always be saved. Onion water, for instance, gives the necessary flavor to a tomato or vegetable soup. No matter how carefully we boil our foods, more or less of the flavor and mineral salts are lost. Cabbage and cauliflower waters make a good foundation for a cream or vegetable soup without meat. Only potato water and the first water in which old beans are cooked are not desirable. The last water in which beans are boiled, before they are baked, may be seasoned with tomato and served as a bean bouillon. When you boil rice use plenty of water and save it, then use it to add nutriment to a vegetable soup, or boil it down and make blanc mange of it.

NURSES DROWNED TO SAVE THE FIGHTING MEN

A despatch from London says: A correspondent of the Morning Post sends a story told by the captain of a French cruiser which well illustrates the important part being played by many noble women in the war. The captain says his vessel was instrumental in saving a number of lives when a British transport was torpedoed some time ago in the Aegean Sea. On board were thirty-six nursing Sisters, of whom a number were drowned. When the French boats came on the scene the nurses called out with one accord: "Fighting men first." Such an instance of devotion to the flag purely deserves to live in British history.

THE SUNDAY LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON.
NOVEMBER 21.

Lesson VIII.—Jonah a Missionary to Nineveh, Jonah 3. 1 to 4. 11.
G. T.—Matt. 28: 19, 20.

I. Jonah Goes to Nineveh (Verses 1-4).

Verses 2. Preach unto it—Jonah was not a novice at preaching. He was chaplain to Jeroboam the second (2 Kings 14. 25).

3. Three days' journey.—That is, twelve hours of the day.

II. The Ninevites Repent (Verses 5-10).

5. Believed God.—Not only because they were religious, but because Jonah mightily stirred them.

They proclaimed a fast.—This was not official, but a spontaneous response to the religious fervor created by Jonah's preaching.

6. The tidings reached the king.—Just as the preaching of John the Baptist and of Jesus came to the ears of the Herods.

Laid his robe from him.—A king with his robe on at a time of religious upheaval is about as incongruous as a woman in party dress at a revival meeting. The Spirit has a subduing effect, and pomp and display disappear.

7. Neither man nor beast.—Showing the intensity of the revival. Even the brute creation was to be affected. Compare Rom. 8. 22.

10. God repented of the evil.—A broken and contrite heart God will not despise. He cannot visit anger on the repentant. (See Psa. 34. 18).

Not Necessarily.

"Do you believe in marrying for love?" asked the sentimental girl whose face was her principal misfortune.

"Not necessarily," replied the gray-haired parson. "As a rule, I usually marry for money."

The best way to warm up a joint of meat is to wrap it in thickly greased paper and keep it covered while in the oven. By having it covered thus the steam will prevent the meat from becoming hard and dry, and the joint will get hot through in less time.

At 16 a girl declares she will marry only for love, and at 26 she proceeds to fall in love with a rich man.

When boiling cabbage put a small head of celery into the saucepan. This will greatly improve the flavor.

Be Not Therefore Anxious

Map Out the Work of the Day in Advance and Then Adhere to the Plan in Its Detail.

"Be not therefore anxious for the morrow, for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself."—Matthew vi., 34.

Anxiety, not forethought, is the forbidden thing. Anxiety is another word for worry, and the old Teutonic word wurgen, or worry, carries with it the picture of a wolf catching a sheep by the throat. Worry is well named. It strangles happiness and it strangles efficiency. It is a condition of chronic fear, with all the evil effects of fear upon both mind and body.

Worry, even in its chronic forms, is curable. The first step toward eradicating it must be taken on the physical side. The body must be trained to obey the will unhesitatingly, because worry is a sign of indecision, and indecision can be controlled.

"What Thou Doest Do Quickly," said Jesus. There is no better remedy for irresolution. Think things over, count the cost, make decisions with all the wisdom and foresight available, but, having come to a decision, abide by it. Let hand and foot accord instantly and perfectly with the mandates of the will.

The next step taken must be mental. Where worry comes, as it often does, from absorption in a narrow range of interests, the interests should be enlarged. A field cannot be planted with the same crops year after year without becoming impoverished. A mind cannot be filled with the same thoughts without becoming jaded. Specialists in any line of work should cultivate hobbies as a matter of self-protection. Their reading may well be directed along lines quite foreign to their ordinary occupations.

The Final Cure for Worry is religious faith. The normal man is religious by instinct, but often drifts into irreligious ways, and something within him is stifled. Much of the anxiety that is attributed to external causes has an internal cause. It is the protest of a violated moral nature meant for higher uses and degraded by a merely physical existence. "Is not the life more than meat?" In prayer, in worship, in all the practices of faith, the profoundest and most wholesome instincts in a man's whole nature find release and expansion. When these are given their freedom they act as wings, and upon them the spirit of a man mounts out of gloom and anxiety to the sunnier spaces that are new within his reach.—Rev. Howard C. Robbins.

HEALTH

Nervousness.

Women who suffer from nervousness can generally attribute the cause to overindulgence of some sort, if only of liquid beverages consumed with food. Tea taken in excess is not the least dangerous of these. It exerts an astringent action and by the presence in it of an organic substance, theine, it exercises a special influence over the nervous system, which, to say the least, is temporarily injurious.

The symptoms which indicate the injurious action of tea are sufficiently characteristic. They are intensely severe, headaches, constipation, flatulency, untidiness and feebleness of muscular power, and not infrequently low spirits amounting to hypochondriacal despondency.

Women who have two or three cups of tea with each meal find themselves in a semi-hysterical condition. Tea, taken before going to bed, interferes with the process of sleep. It prevents or disturbs sleep by dreams and muscular startings, and is a common cause of that painful symptom known as nightmare.

Coffee, though less injurious than tea, is even in slight excess a source of derangement of nervous action. Its effect is to relax the minute vascular network and increase glandular secretions. For this reason it acts on most persons as a diuretic, while on some it acts as a purgative.

Coffee, like tea, induces dyspepsia and perhaps with even more activity than tea. It keeps the brain awake (as the caffeine in it acts as a great stimulant) when that wearied organ ought, according to nature, to be asleep.

Coffee is not as dangerous as tea, as it is not an astringent and does not, like tea, suppress the secretions of the kidneys and does not lead to mental depression or nervous irritability. Moderation in eating and especially in drinking should be exercised. Even water can cause great nervous discomfort if taken to excess.

One cup of coffee taken in the morning, with or without sugar and cream, will never do harm to anyone. It is not the coffee that harms the nerves. It is what is eaten with it. A breakfast of fruit, coffee and eggs is too rich for any women who do not immediately go out into the air, and who do not do a great deal of exercising. One dish of fruit, one cup of coffee and one piece of toast is a sumptuous breakfast for any woman who is not active. Coffee taken at noon is too heating, and one demi tasse is quite enough to be taken after dinner. It is always the overdoing that harms.

Tea when taken as a refreshing beverage is really very beneficial. One cup of tea for breakfast is sufficient. One for luncheon, hot or cold, will never cause distress, but when tea is taken for luncheon it should never be taken in the afternoon. The mistake is made in taking it too often. Two cups each day is sufficient.

Moderation is a steady word to think of and to act upon. It spells "Sanity."

If a man does wrong he thinks he's doing right to keep it a secret.

Many a man fails to arrive because he started with cold feet.

At 16 a girl declares she will marry only for love, and at 26 she proceeds to fall in love with a rich man.

DISEASES OF THE NERVES

Are Due to Poor Blood and Only Curable Through the Blood.

There is an excellent reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured the most severe cases of neuralgia, sciatica and other complaints of the nerves. This group also included nervousness and excitability. Each of these complaints exists because the nerves are not getting a proper nourishment from the blood. The reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure nervous disorders is because they make the rich, red blood upon which the nerves depend for proper tone. It is thus seen that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure nervous disorders because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood, and while they are doing this they strengthen and fortify the whole system against disease. Among the many who have found relief from pain through this great medicine is Miss Ethel Smith, residing near Burford, Ont., who says: "Some years ago I was seized with a great pain in my right leg, between the hip and knee. It became so bad that I got no rest, day or night, and often cried with the pain. The doctor said the trouble was rheumatism of the sciatic nerve. Liniments were used until they actually took the skin off, and still the pain grew worse and worse. Then all the other nerves in the limb seemed to be affected, and it kept jumping and twitching until it would be held to keep it still. Then the doctor put the limb in a paper machine case, but it was not long until the trouble began in my other limb, and it had to be treated in the same way. I lay in that condition for three years with my whole nervous system so badly shattered that it would make me scream if any one walked across the floor. Then my throat became partially paralyzed and I could scarcely speak. During this time I had been attended by three different doctors, who did all in their power, but each said I would never be able to walk again. Then my father decided to get me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had used them long I felt them helping me. This so encouraged us that the use of the pills was continued and in a few months I was able to walk a mile each day to get the mail. I used in all eighteen or twenty boxes of the Pills and they did what three years of doctoring had not been able to do. I am as well as ever I was in my life, and have had no return of the trouble. My family and friends think my cure was a miracle, and we give all the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A DELICATE PROCESS.

How High Explosives Are Made From Cotton.

Almost all the high explosives have cotton as their base. It is true that very good sporting powder can be made from wood pulp, but, as the editor of Nature remarks, "the artilleryman would be in great difficulty if he were provided with such a propellant, because in order to obtain any sort of regularity the nitration of the wood pulp has to be kept at a low point, and the ballistics, on which the artilleryman depends, would be quite thrown out."

High explosives are cellulose highly nitrated—that is, highly charged with nitrogen. This process consists of immersing cotton waste (that has been repeatedly teased, picked and dried) in a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, in the proportion of 71 per cent. sulphuric acid, 21 per cent. nitric acid and 8 per cent. water. After the acids have acted for the required time they are removed; the cotton is washed repeatedly and boiled several times in water. It is then pulped, partly dried and pressed into molds.

The manufacturer does his best to regulate his output so that it shall contain approximately eleven molecules of nitrate to the quadruple molecule of cellulose, as shown in the formula, or a content of nitrogen that ranges between 12.93 and 13.05 per cent.

The process is delicate and complex, for the proportions of acids and water must be exact and all must be chemically pure; besides this the cellulose must be of uniform grade, which is a most difficult thing to obtain.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

Constipation and indigestion; colic; worms, colds and simple fevers, and all the other minor ills of little ones can be promptly cured by Baby's Own Tablets through their action in regulating the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. H. H. Mills, Haldimand, Que., writes: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets of great service in relieving my little one of constipation and stomach trouble." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When some people talk it's a waste of time to yawn.

APPLE PLANTING.

Circular Issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

With the return to favor of the apple which is again a high-priced fruit, planting will undoubtedly be resumed. One grower wants to set out about twenty acres in the central part of the Province. What varieties shall he plant?

Up to date the following have been recommended from which to select for the districts bordering Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron, and the Georgian Bay, viz., Astrachan, Duchess Gravenstein, Wealthy, Alexander, McIntosh, Fameuse, Blenheim, King, Hubbardston, Greening, Cranberry, Baldwin, Spy and Stark. Of these varieties, the Astrachan is only of value close to large local markets, where it has paid well. Gravenstein should be of value for Ontario markets, but on account of the large quantities sent out by Nova Scotia at low prices to both the West and for export, it is also limited in value. This still leaves a choice selection for summer and fall use, varieties that can be shipped to local or western markets or exported with good results. Duchess have been in particularly good demand for the western trade, and Ontario has not been able to date to furnish even her home markets from orchards now in bearing. The same condition applies also to the three dessert varieties, Wealthy, Fameuse and McIntosh, the two latter always selling at fancy figures. Alexander and its seedling, Wolf River, sell entirely on their outward appearance, showing large size and handsome color.

In winter varieties we are not so fortunate. The King is an ideal apple, but unprofitable, as the tree is a shy bearer. The old reliable Greening, one of the best bearers we have and a money-maker in the past, is becoming more difficult to sell in a lot in competition with red varieties. The tree is vigorous, hardy, and very productive. The old orchards still remain with us, and it is doubtful if we should continue to plant, knowing that every year will see more of this apple on our markets from the orchards set out in the past ten years. The Baldwin, our mainstay in the red fruit, is now being looked upon with disfavor in a great many sections because the tree is proving less hardy than we thought, even in the most favorable parts of the province. There remains of our list, then, Spy and Hubbardston among the quality apples, Cranberry and Stark among the good keepers and shippers. We need badly a variety combining all these qualities that will take the place of the Baldwin for future plantings. The Hubbardston is good, but the season for its use is short. The spy is the apple that Ontario has built its reputation upon, and all plantings should include a goodly percentage of this variety. Its presence in the car is demanded for all local and western shipments in excess at least of twenty-five per cent, and in most cases the Spy sells the other varieties. A straight car of Spies always has and always will command top prices on the market, but this can be offset by the use of fillers such as Wagner, Wealthy, Duchess, etc. The very fact that an orchard contains a fair percentage of trees of this variety adds wonderfully to the value of a property.

Throw Away Your Eye-Glasses!

A Free Prescription

You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that there is a remedy for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says: "After trying I was almost blind; after reading I could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto. Fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Bon-Opto tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice right from the start, clear up perceptibly and quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now, before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind people have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time. The Valmas Drug Co. of Toronto, will fill the above prescription by mail, if your druggist cannot.

Sounds of Nature.

The inhabitants of a frog close at hand awakened two little girls who were spending their first night in the country.

First came the high, piping voice of a little "peeper." "What's that?" whispered Winnie. "I think it's a bird," ventured Susan.

Just then a basso profundo frog sung one of his lowest tones.

"What's that?" came another startled whisper.

"I ain't quite sure," came the answer, "but I think it is either a cow or an automobile."

Dangerous Throat Troubles Prevented by Nerviline

IT ENDS MISERY OF COLDS QUICKLY.

Don't wait till night. Get after your cold now—this very minute, before it grows dangerous you should apply old-time "Nerviline."

Rub your chest and throat, rub them thoroughly with Nerviline. Relief will be immediate.

Nerviline will save you from lying awake to-night, coughing, choking and suffering from congestion in the chest and acute pain in the throat.

Nerviline will break up that dull neuralgic headache—will kill the cold and chill at its very beginning—will save you from perhaps a serious illness.

To take away hoarseness, to break up a grippy cold, to cure a sore throat or bad cold in the chest, you can use nothing so speedy and effective as Nerviline. For forty years it has been the most largely used family remedy in the Dominion. Time has proved its merit, so can you by keeping handy on the shelf the large 50c. family size bottle; small trial size 25c., sold by any dealer anywhere.

FROM ENGLAND TO FRANCE.

No Gun Yet Invented That Will Fire a Shell That Distance.

"Queen Elizabeth's Pocket Pistol," a big weapon for its time, bore the legend.

"Feed me well and keep me clean, I'll send a ball to Calais Green."

This statement was rather an exaggeration, says Tit-Bits, for no gun has yet been invented that will fire a shell from England to France.

No matter how well it were fed or how clean it were kept, the old-fashioned cannon would not have sent a ball more than a tenth of the way toward Calais, despite the fact that it stood three hundred feet high upon the cliffs of Dover, and was twenty feet long.

Even one of the famous seventeen-inch siege guns of the Germans would be unable to accomplish the feat. A military expert says that for a shell to reach England from France, it would have to be thrown twelve miles into the air. Although the famous German seventeen-inch weapons could send a shell over Mont Blanc, they could not hope to hurl a "Jack Johnson" more than three-quarters of the way from Calais to Dover.

How the Germans Get Gold.

Giving his impressions of a sojourn in Berlin, M. Maurice Strauss says the streets are no longer safe at night-time, and crimes and outrages are on the increase. M. Strauss was assured that in making arrests the order was given to single out people who seem to be in easy circumstances. At the police station these people are searched, and if gold is found in their possession they are reprimanded for their lack of patriotism, and are told that if they agree to exchange their gold for bank notes or War Loan scrip they will be released, and nothing more will be heard of the charge on which they were arrested.

DR. JACKSON'S ROMAN MEAL IS A FOOD, NOT A FRAUD.

Many so-called cereal foods are frauds. To prove it, try to live entirely upon them for a few days. Many live entirely upon Roman Meal. A recent letter from California says: Dear Dr. Jackson: A friend of mine has lived upon Roman Meal for thirteen months. His case had been pronounced hopeless. He is now in perfect health. No fraud here. Roman Meal is scientifically balanced by an expert dietitian. It's the perfect food, and positively relieves constipation. Ask your doctor. Make it in porridge, pancakes, gems. At grocers', 10 and 25 cents.

Next-Door Neighbors.

For six years a bitter feud existed between the Browns and Robinsons, next-door neighbors. The trouble had originated through the depredations of Brown's cat, and had grown so fixed an affair that neither party ever dreamt of "making up." One day, however, Brown sent his servant with a peace-making note for Mr. Robinson, which read—"Mr. Brown sends his compliments to Mr. Robinson, and begs to state that his old cat died this morning." Mr. Robinson's reply was bitter. "Mr. Robinson is sorry to hear of Mr. Brown's trouble, but he had not heard that Mrs. Brown was ill."

Candle Puts Itself Out.

It has been found that candles can be fitted with attachments to extinguish the light at a set time. To determine the length of time it is necessary to mark a candle of the size used and time how long a certain length of it will burn. Then it is sufficient to suspend a small metal dome or cap, to which a string is attached, directly over the flame, and run the opposite end of the string over nails or through screw eyes, so that it can be tied around the candle such a distance from the flame end that the part between the flame and the string will be consumed in the time desired for the light to burn. When this point is reached the string slips off the candle and the cap drops on the flame.

Prohibition Favors Tea-Drinking.

Well-informed members of the tea trade say that the figures for the year show an astonishingly large increase of tea drinking throughout the world. Prohibition is largely to account for this, and, when a great country like Russia prohibits the sale of strong drink and the people turn to tea, it means an immense drain on the resources of the gardens whence comes the world's supply. In the last few months the cost of tea has risen 12 or 14 cents a pound.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

It Will Be Different.

"Young man," inquired her father sternly, "will you give her a home like the one she has been used to?" "No," replied the truthful suitor, "for there will be no grumpy father to come home and make everyone miserable by kicking over trifles and swearing at matters in general. There will be no mother to scold her from morning till night for wasting time, merely because she wants to be neat. There will be no big brother to abuse her for not doing half of his work, and no little brother to make enough noise to drive her crazy when her younger sister insists on reading some trashy novel while she does all the work. She will not have with me a home like she has been used to, not if I can help it!"

Military Wedding Cakes.

The very latest war fashion is the military wedding cake. So largely has this become a feature of weddings associated with British military and naval men that the wholesale manufacturers are specializing in toy ornaments of a warlike character to decorate the cakes. These are mostly ornamental cannons, guns and rifles, with battleships for naval men, and very well executed models of aeroplanes for bridegrooms connected with the Flying Corps.

Sending Power Under the Sea.

The first instance in Europe of the use of a submarine cable for the transmission of high voltage electric power current will be in connection with the project for supplying practically all of Denmark with cheap electricity for both light and power, generated by water power in Sweden. When completed power sufficient to provide for an area of 500 square miles will be brought across three high-pressure cables laid under "the sound" at the entrance of the Baltic Sea. The electricity is to be generated with power from the Swedish River Lagan supplemented with the use of low-grade coal.

Work? No. It's taken off what little hair I used to have, and I am as bald as the pavement now."

"That's quite right, sir. No false pretense about that. I said it would restore your head to its original condition, and you know, sir, most of us are born bald."

Keep Food for Army Hot.

One difficulty of the Italian commissariat is to get food from the valleys to the camps in the mountains. The difficulty has, however, been solved and twice a day hot food is carried on the backs of mules in "cooking cases" designed by an Italian. The food is contained in a huge pan of aluminum with a circular opening, which can be closed hermetically by screws. The pan is enclosed in a case lined with cotton and cork and the food keeps hot for more than ten hours.

GREAT CHEMIST PRAISES ZAM-BUK

Mothers Who Use This Famous Balm Have Backing of Science

Mothers who use Zam-Buk, because they have proved it to be a splendid healer, will be interested to hear the result of a test of Zam-Buk by Mr. W. L. Lancelotti, Scott, the great English chemist. He says: "I have made an exhaustive analytical examination of Zam-Buk and find its active constituents are of exclusive vegetable origin. It contains none of the impure and irritating mineral drugs and animal fats present in ordinary ointments. The antiseptic and bactericidal (germ-destroying) powers of this preparation are proved by my tests to exceed those of carbolic acid, yet Zam-Buk neither cauterizes nor inflames even a very sensitive skin, but ends skin disorders. "I have no hesitation in certifying the purity of Zam-Buk and its value for skin injuries and disorders." Mothers who have not yet tried Zam-Buk should profit by the above. Zam-Buk is unequalled for eczema, cuts, burns, ulcers, running sores, piles, cold sores, abscesses, chapped hands, etc. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, 2 boxes $1.25.

Agricultural Short Course Cooking Course for Girls

The meeting in the Town Hall last week was so encouraging that we feel sure a course in Agriculture will be conducted in the village in January and February. All that is necessary is that more boys enroll—there should be at least twice the number who "enlisted" the other night. "Double up" boys, "double up." Those who intend taking the course and others interested are asked to kindly keep on boosting. Let every one get a new fellow and have his name put on the list to receive a Calendar and literature. If you were not at the meeting talk it over with someone who was, or write for particulars to J. A. Carroll, Department of Agriculture, Brampton.

COOKING AND SEWING

Women and girls who would like to take lessons and practice, under a competent instructor, in Cooking, Sewing or Home Nursing, are invited to communicate with Mrs. Ross, Pres. Streetsville W. I. regarding courses which will probably be put on this winter.

A glance at the list of contents of the November issue of Rod and Gun in Canada indicates that this number is of general interest to the outdoor lover and sportsman, while a reading of the number justifies the first impression. "Big Alex and the Portage of Death" is a Hudson Bay story by R. J. Fraser of pathetic interest, concerning a veritable "portage of death" which was negotiated by an unfortunate band of Indians, the victims of a factor's cruelty. "Martin and the Mortgage" is another of H. C. Haddon's stories and has to do with the capture of a deer of black fox puppets. "How Saunders Caught the Game Hog" is a story of deer hunting by camera versus hunting by gun, written and illustrated by F. V. Williams. There are other stories that make a like appeal to the readers of a sportsman's magazine as well as the usual special departments devoted to guns and ammunition, fish, etc. W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont. are the publishers.

Brampton

Barnehart and Zeigler, liquor dealers of Berlin, appeared before Police Magistrate Crawford last Thursday charged with selling liquor in Brampton, contrary to the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act. They were defended by Jas. H. Iverson, K.C. It was alleged that two or three blind piggers had been ordering liquor from Barnehart and Zeigler by telephone, paying the money after the goods were delivered in Brampton. This was held to be a violation of the Act. After hearing the argument it was agreed by counsel to refer the matter to Mr. Saunders, chief license inspector of Ontario, for a ruling.

Mrs. Anthony Black died last week at her home in Toronto Township at the age of 84 years. She had been a resident of this county for about 70 years. Two sons and one daughter survive her.

Mr. Robt. Cheyne died at the Queen's Hotel last Thursday after an illness of a week, beginning with a bad cold, complicated by bad action of the heart. Mr. Cheyne was seventy-five years of age and was born in Ohio. For many years he was connected with the old Golden Lion store of R. B. Walker & Son, Toronto, where he had charge of the clothing department. Mr. Cheyne also conducted a farm at Elmbank and was a great breeder of heavy horses. Mrs. Cheyne predeceased him some fourteen years. He is survived by two sons, "Bob," the famous lacrosse player, now in the Vancouver B.C. Regatta Office and Lancelot of the same city. There are three daughters, Miss Cheyne, a nurse in New York, Mrs. Ramsey, of Los Angeles and Mrs. Harry Gibbs, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Roth Coyne of Toronto, a sister, is the only survivor of his father's family. Mr. Cheyne had lived in Brampton for the past six years, making his home at the Queen's. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. Luther Cheyne, Queen St. East, to Brampton Cemetery.

Lieut. Bleakley on Leave

Lieut. William Fiers Bleakley, a member of the 4th Battalion, living at 45 Palmerston Gardens, returned to the city on Tuesday. Lieut. Bleakley was formerly a resident of Port Credit and a private in the 86th Regiment.

Patriotic Concert At Postville

The Girls' Club realized $160 for the Red Cross—Candies bring $50 a box

One of the most useful organizations brought into existence by the needs of the war is the Girls' Club of Postville. This institution, under the efficient leadership of Mrs. W. Dent, gave a patriotic concert last Friday evening, from which $160 was realized. Solos were given by Miss Forster and Miss Bentley. An exhibition of Spanish dances was given by Miss Smith in national costume. A drama given by the young people was well received. The chief feature of the evening was a debate—Resolved, that Canada should adopt universal military training. Affirmative taken by W. H. Hawkes and John Cowan, and Negative by W. A. Weldon Hammer B.A., Oakville, and Wilson Robinson, Barrister, Toronto. The debate was a spirited and interesting one. The referee, Mr. R. F. Sanders, principal of Oakville Public School, gave the decision in favor of the negative. At the conclusion of the programme chairman J. D. McGregor auctioned off several boxes of homemade candy. The first box was sold to Mr. H. S. Wilson for $80, the sale amounting to over $90.

Packing Parcels for the Soldiers at the Front

The public is urged to exercise every care in packing parcels for the troops, as careful packing is absolutely essential to ensure delivery of the parcels in good order.

Parcels sent abroad require a higher standard of packing than is necessary in the Canadian Parcel Post, and this applies with even greater force to parcels for the troops. Those which are inadequately packed run great risk of damage or loss of contents.

Thin cardboard boxes, such as shoe boxes, and thin wooden boxes, should not be used; nor does a single sheet of ordinary brown paper afford sufficient protection. The following forms of packing are recommended:

- (1) Strong double cardboard boxes, preferably those made of corrugated cardboard, and having lids which completely enclose the sides of the boxes.
- (2) Strong wooden boxes.
- (3) Several folds of stout packing paper.
- (4) Additional security is afforded by an outer covering of lines, calico or canvas, which should be securely sewn.

The address of the parcel should be written in ink on the cover, preferably in two places.

The address of the sender of the parcel should also be stated in order that it may be returned if undeliverable. The contents of the parcel should be stated in writing on the cover.

In the case of parcels sent to the Mediterranean Front, they should be very strongly packed. They should be as nearly round as possible, and well padded with shavings, crumpled paper, or similar protective material. The outer covering should consist of strong lines, calico or canvas, and should be securely sewn up. The use of wooden or metal boxes with square corners is undesirable, as parcels so packed are liable to injure other parcels in transit. No perishable articles should be sent, and anything likely to become soft or sticky, such as chocolates, should be enclosed in tins. Parcels merely wrapped in paper or packed in thin cardboard boxes, such as shoe boxes, cannot be accepted.

RUN NIGHT AND DAY

U. S. Steel Mills Unable to Keep Ahead of Orders

So great has been the sudden and general revival in the iron and steel trade of the United States, it is said by authorities, that with virtually every blast furnace and steel mill in the country working night and day to capacity, the demand for iron, steel and steel products cannot be satisfied, and it is today almost impossible to buy, for immediate delivery, any iron, scrap or ingots, in suitable quantities at any industrial plant in the country.

The revival began about the first of last July, has been coming on rapidly with a deluge of orders since the middle of August and may not yet have reached its high mark. Within three months the price of pig iron, long regarded as the barometer of trade, has increased approximately 35 per cent., and that of steel and steel products—except steel rails—has gone up about fifteen per cent.

"At the present time the demand for pig iron and for the various lines of steel is far in excess of the producing capacity of the furnaces and mills of the United States," reads a statement issued by Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation. "The manufacturers are unable to make deliveries entirely satisfactory to the purchasers with respect to a large majority of the different kinds of finished steel. There is nothing to indicate that there will be a decrease in the demand for any of these products for some time as mills are from two to four months behind with orders. Prices continue to increase and apparently will go higher, so that fair and reasonable profits may be expected."

"Of course, these very satisfactory conditions are more or less affected by the war business, so called, yet it is undoubtedly true that there is a better feeling throughout the iron and steel trade than has been experienced for some years past."

Experts who have followed the rising fortunes of iron and steel within the past twelve months, assert that the volume of business, both domestic and foreign, at present is more than double what it was a year ago, and that there are today 175,000 men employed at iron and steel plants throughout the United States who were not on the payrolls a year ago.

Soldiers Want Honey

Mr. Wm. Conre received the following letter from Major J. L. Kennedy, now in Flanders, which will prove interesting to many of our readers. "Can I arrange through you to buy 50 pounds of honey in 5 lb. tins and have it sent to me for my men. You could, I believe, ship it through the Canadian War Contingent Association, Toronto. Address each tin and also the box to Major T. L. Kennedy, Divisional Cyclist Corps, Second Canadian, France. We are well and contented and the grub is good but factory jam gets monotonous day in and day out and honey from home would make a pleasant change. Send me the bill. Remember me to the boys. Personally I am having a good time but some of the boys are getting it rough. There has been a lot of mud and rain. The Canadians make extra good soldiers and you get so proud of being a Canadian. One of our best things are the Army Canteens run by Chaplains. You get everything at manufacturer's prices, very cheap. While things look bad no one is blue. We are going to win eventually."

Of 198 at Ypres

Pte. William Jennings, 15th Battalion of London, who has been invalided home with shrapnel wounds in the stomach and groin, was one of those who fought back to back at St. Julien, and out of his regiment of 198, but 68 got through alive.

"And of this 68, I met over 30 in an English hospital," said Pte. Jennings. "I got mine at Festubert, but the real fighting was at Ypres. There we were with the Germans on every side of us. I am a gunner and our guns were turned both ways. We fired in front of us and to the rear. The Germans seemed to be pouring in on every side."

Pte. Jennings was very much impressed at the manner in which the wounded were received at Quebec. "There was nothing they couldn't do for us. We were showered with attentions. In England, too, the people met us and we were treated royally."

Pte. Jennings has not decided what he will do in the future, but he will stay in London until he feels fully recovered from the effects of his wounds.

Special Meeting of Township Council

At a special meeting of the Toronto Township Council, held in Brampton on Tuesday, a conference was held with the solicitors for the Canadian Northern Railway to urge the fulfillment of the contract made with the Township ten years ago when the railway agreed in return for a right-of-way for a power line that it would keep the middle road in repair from the centre road to Stave's road. The council claimed that although the agreement had been in force ten years the company had not carried out its share of the contract and that some action was necessary.

It was finally decided to give the railway until May 31st of next year in which to carry out the agreement, but as an evidence of good faith the railway must make a start immediately. This was agreed to. The road, which is situated a mile north of Port Credit, a concession south of Dundas Street and parallel with both, will be an important road for traffic when built up.

This highway was given over to the railway ten years ago. It now contains the towers for the railway's power line and the wires of four other power companies and is so filled up with poles that the roadway is practically useless.

An amended by-law in connection with the raising of $1,000 for Hydro-Electric purposes was passed at the direction of the township solicitors. Deputy Reeve McCaugherty was appointed delegate to attend the Hydro-Electric Radial convention at Hamilton this week when plans for proposed government line from Toronto to Hamilton will be discussed.

The Green Seal

By CHARLES EDMONDS WALK

Author of "The Silver Blade," "The Paternoster Ruby," "The Time Lock," etc.

"I was not wide awake enough to wonder at such an unusual occurrence. A lighted lamp stood on the dresser, and, I remember, it was the presence of the lamp that convinced me next morning I hadn't been dreaming. Almost right away I drifted back to sleep; but not before I heard Aunt Lois whisper in a distressed tone: 'The Kiss of the Silent Death—God protect this poor, helpless, innocent baby!'"

"That episode remains the most vivid of my early childhood. What could she have meant by those strange words? Did she refer to the mark? I never forgot them."

"Aunt Lois, you must understand, is naturally nervous and excitable, and as young as I was I made allowances for her disposition, without knowing why I did so. Children, you know, seem to understand such things intuitively. But as I grew older—I mean mature enough to speculate upon it—I used often to wonder what she meant by 'The Kiss of the Silent Death.' So one day I asked her."

"She fell silent and sat for a while meditating. I did not interrupt, but I was thinking that Mrs. Fox must hold the key to the riddle, and if my tact and diplomacy could do it, it was up to me to persuade her to unobscure herself. Lois looked toward me again and took up the thread of her narrative."

"Poor, dear Aunt Lois. When I told her I had caught her crying over me in the middle of the night her confusion and distress of mind scared me so that I commenced howling at the top of my voice. She caught me up in her arms, declaring that she had meant only to mother me; that in the same way she often had tiptoed in to where I slept to see that everything was all right with me, and that I must run along and play and think no more about it."

"Her betrayal of her heart-hunger on that occasion made me for the first time realize keenly that I had no mother but her—that she had no child but me. I never got any fuller explanation, and after that, my curiosity, childlike, dwindled and finally died away."

"So it came about that after a while the details got to seem like a dream, and when I thought of the episode at all it was as such. But you must see, as I do now, how impossible such a dream would be for a child who had never heard of death."

"I understand better now. She was looking at my mark—an indelible badge of infamy—of murder—of God knows what!" She clutched at her bosom as if she would pluck the stain from her. "I can almost feel the horrible thing burning into my flesh! No wonder it filled her with pity and compassion!"

"From whatever angle one might view it, it was in all conscience a monstrous thing that anybody could have been so inhuman as thus to brand and disfigure a helpless, innocent child with a mark of such abominable associations. It was much as if she rested under the stigma of a crime of which she was not only blameless but ignorant. And yet, had it not been put there, her very existence would have been snuffed out years and years before. This I was to learn later."

"The Kiss of the Silent Death"—verily, the touch of the accursed ring was patly described in this euphemistic phrase."

I had just reached a decision that I must see and talk with Aunt Lois and try to convince her that it was now her duty to tell what she knew; that the mystery hanging over her niece and foster child had assumed a phase that threatened her with nameless injury unless the handicap of silence were removed so that friends who were ready to help her might be armed with knowledge, when a sudden clamor of the telephone made Lois and me jump. Such was our nervous tension at the moment."

I grabbed up the instrument and clapped the receiver to my ear, and immediately recognized Struber's voice."

"That you, Mr. Ferris?" he asked. "This is Struber. Say, if you can let Miss Fox off she'd better come home right away. Don't scare her; her aunt's all right; but something was pulled off before I got here and the old lady's gone bug. I got here and I became aware that Miss Fox, white-lipped, tense with anxiety, was bending over me. She too had heard."

"Ask him," she hoarsely demanded, "what has happened?"

"Look here, Struber—Miss Fox heard you. You must make it more convincing that nothing serious has happened to her aunt."

"He broke in quickly. 'Take my word for it, Mr. Ferris, Mrs. Fox is all right. She's simply been scared stiff, and her own kin can do more for her than a flock of dippy neighbors. I don't want to say too much over the phone.'"

"I hung up and turned to the anxious girl. 'We can believe him,' said I with conviction. 'Goodness only knows what it is, but no harm has come to your aunt. I'll go with you.'"

This proposal seeming to be agreeable, I telephoned for a taxi, and by the time Miss Fox had donned hat, coat and gloves, and we had descended to the ground floor, it was waiting for us."

She gave the chauffeur the street and number, and I promised him he would lose nothing by forgetting speed ordinances. We turned into First Street and had proceeded perhaps half a block when Miss Fox looked back. My mind at the moment was to full to attach any importance to the act, and I thought no more of it until a minute or two had elapsed, during which she cast two more uneasy glances backward—as we mounted the viaduct across the Santa Fe tracks, and again as we climbed the acclivity along whose crest ran Boyle and Pleasant Avenues."

The last time she mechanically clutched my arm."

"Look!" she exclaimed under her breath. "It is they!"

"They?" I dully echoed, rousing myself from my preoccupation.

"Who?"

Her reply was another excited command.

"Look—quick!"

I turned barely in time to glimpse a long, speedy looking machine. It was about midway in the straight level expanse of street stretching behind us, from the base of the hill to the viaduct, and hitting it up at a lively clip. They didn't mean to lose us, it was manifest, in the maze of winding streets of which we might now take advantage if we were so minded. But I had no intention of trying to elude them."

For there was no mistaking the car or its two muffled, bog-goggled, unrecognizable occupants."

It was the gray automobile."

CHAPTER XV.

Precisely at what point the gray automobile abandoned its pursuit of us I did not observe; doubtless after its occupants, whoever they were, had satisfied themselves as to our destination. It was more than likely, too, that the low shadowy car proceeded to an advantageous position nearby, from which our departure might be noted and the chase once more resumed. I could not say. I was too much taken up with the cottage Miss Fox indicated as being her aunt's home."

Houses that people live in, to some extent at least, have a personality of their own, and they and their immediate surroundings reflect the characters of their tenants."

I saw a small cottage—a very small cottage, I might say, for it could not have owned more than five or six rooms—fairly smothered beneath a welter of gold of ophir roses whose myriad blossoms shone like newly minted money. The thick, tangled growth had clambered clear across the roof and back to the ground again on the farther side. All along the street the sidewalk was shaded by fine old pepper trees, and where you turned into the walk leading up to the cottage two uncommonly lofty Lombardy poplars stood sentinel-like, forming a noble gateway. There was a well-kept lawn bordered by every conceivable variety of rose, most of which were in bloom. There were, too, beds of other flowers and some agreeably arranged shrubbery—loquats, guavas, oleanders, privet and the like."

But I was most forcibly impressed, first, by the homelike air that hung about the place, and next, by its detachment, as if it had withdrawn from the rest of the world to pursue a placid, untroubled existence independent of the quiet neighborhood environment."

Was it an atmosphere of seclusion? Perhaps not. But the thought came to me."

It seemed impossible that any jarring note from the outside alien world could intrude here to shatter the serenity; yet, if Struber were to be believed, this was exactly what had happened."

Our machine stopped, and I was given a fresh demonstration of the detective's adaptability to his calling, which this time was his facility in effacing himself from observation. I did not see him at all until he detached himself from the trunk of one of the poplars against which manifestly he had been leaning, and approached to open the tonneau door."

Before my companion had time to voice her anxiety, he announced: "The old lady's all right now. She's alone." And at that moment I became aware of a covert surveillance from every house along the street. Truly, curiosity must have been rampant."

Miss Fox hastened up the narrow gravel walk and disappeared in the house. I lingered to hear the particulars from Struber."

That worthy also watched the graceful form until the screen door closed and hid it. There was a queer expression on his narrow features, and his crooked beak wrinkled with excess of inward emotion when he turned again to me. Pushing the fingers of one hand up along the back of his head and tilting his derby forward, he ruffled his hair in perplexity."

"Don't ast me," he forestalled my first question. "Nobody knows what's happened—only as I've doped it out. Wait till Miss Fox has had time to talk to her aunt, then we'll know whether I'm right or not. She's quiet enough now. I persuaded the neighbors to go home. Fussy lot, believe me. Nothing ever happened on this street before."

"What have you 'doped' but?" I was impatient to know. "And why should Mrs. Fox have been 'scared stiff,' as you expressed it? What scared her?"

"Dunno what scared her. It might a-been worse than that if I hadn't come just when I did. You see, the inside door was open; just the screen was shut. I knocked a couple o' times and didn't raise anybody. Then I walked in—in a hurry. I smelt chloroform!"

"Chloroform!" I ejaculated in amazement. "Yep, chloroform. I had a hunch I'd better not waste any more time knocking. And I wasn't any too soon, either. Found the old lady on the dining-room floor with a towel over her face. Towel was soaked with the stuff. I got rid of the towel; nobody but me got wise to the chloroform."

I could only stare in wonder and wait for him to continue. "I was just going to hunt a doctor when she come to and see me. Then she went from one fit to another, so I rustled the neighbors and phoned you to get the young lady home."

It all seemed such an incredible proceeding that I could only slowly realize Struber's words. In this eminently respectable and quiet residence neighborhood the occurrence of violence of any description was inconceivable. The time was broad day, the immediate setting the most modest and quiet of all the houses, the particular victim of all others the one least easy to reconcile with the apparent outrage."

"Was it robbery?—burglary?" I asked.

"Well, you might call it both," Struber slowly admitted. "Somebody wanted something of the old lady's mighty bad to take such a chance. What's she got that's worth the risk? I've mixed with all sorts of crooks in my time, but never crossed ropes with one that'd a-pulled off a stunt like this unless he knew it'd put him on Easy Street the rest of his life. I'm waiting to find out what they was after, and whether or not they copped it."

We moved together up to the porch, where Miss Fox almost immediately joined us. Her aunt was lying down, easy now except for a nausea that was the natural after effect of the drug. In a low voice she suggested that we go over to a couple of lawn seats. She was deeply troubled."

"Mr. Struber, do you know what happened?" she asked as soon as she sat down in the bench facing the one Struber and I chose."

"Only what I've guessed, Miss Fox," he replied. "I was hoping your aunt could tell us about it."

The girl shook her head decisively. "She can't tell much. She was busy in the kitchen when she was attracted by a slight noise at the front of the house. At first she paid no attention to it, but when it was repeated she came to the front door to investigate. All she saw was what she took to be a Chinese laundry man's wagon standing at the curb. It wasn't right in front of the house, but down a way, toward Mrs. Falkner's, next door."

"But you know the Chinese habit of walking right into one's house without knocking. She thought of this and turned to look into the front room; then she was seized from behind. Before she could scream or struggle, she says, a cloth was pressed over her face, she was dragged back away from the door, and knew nothing more until she came to and saw a strange man stooping over her. She never saw her assailant at all."

"That was me saw," Struber explained. "The cloth was a towel and she was soaked with chloroform."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the girl. Struber pursued: "I made a quick search of the house before the neighbors got here, but it didn't look torn up any. Of course I couldn't tell if anything was missing. Then your aunt didn't see anybody?"

Miss Fox again shook her head. "No, nobody at all, except you. She was not given an opportunity. But I have discovered what they were after—what they took."

We waited expectantly. "The little ivory box," she added soberly, her eyes on Struber; "the one you came here to see."

The Farm

A Few Pointers for Dairymen.

A poor milker never gets the best results from a cow. A nervous animal resents the bungling touch of a rough or inexperienced hand."

Why not encourage the little peculiarities of the well-bred dairy cow. She is simply a big milking machine and if her whims will produce more milk let her have them."

If we are going to select a bull we would select the one with the worst temper, all other things being equal. Because temper and vigor show male characteristics which should not be ignored."

A gentle sleepy bull that can be managed without a nose ring does not as a rule produce the best calves."

It is downright cruelty to keep a bull in a small enclosure in the summer, a victim to heat and flies—but many men who claim to be good dairymen, do this very thing."

How could we expect a cow to keep in good health and give pure milk when she is confined in foul and ill-ventilated quarters, winter or summer."

A pair of horse-clippers can be bought for $1.50 and the use of these once a month on the cow's flanks and udder will make it an easy matter to keep them clean."

How many cows on the average farm give milk containing more than twenty per cent. of butter-fat? Perhaps not more than one out of every 100."

The separator should never be allowed in the barn or near it."

A half dozen window sash, glazed, will make a dust-proof box in which the dairy vessels can be sunned and kept absolutely clean."

Any enterprising farmer living near a town of 5,000 or more can sell every pound of his butter at full retail prices or little above, the year round."

For several years we have bought farm butter from the same farmer, at two cents above retail market price, every month in the year and glad to get it."

Never attempt to keep summer butter for early fall prices, because it will not keep."

All milk should be aerated as soon as taken from the cow. This can be done by passing it through the separator, but it is not as good as a device which divides the milk into many fine streams and then allows it to flow over a wide surface in thin sheets with plenty of ice to keep the surface cool."

If nothing better can be had, milk may be aerated by placing the cans in a trough of cold water and dipping the milk with a long-handled dipper and pouring it back into the can until it is thoroughly cool."

Never cover milk while warm, in the cans, as it will produce a musty odor."

The milker who will thump a cow for squirming under the attack of flies, ought to be hoisted out of the barn on the toe of the dairymen's boots."

Need not expect cows to keep up the milk flow during the tail-end of summer, unless you have plenty of soiling crops to feed. Dead grass does not produce milk."

The Value of Cow Peas.

They can be grown as far north as Dent corn can be grown and on land so poor that clover would not catch at all. They are called "the poor man's clover," because you can get such quick results. A crop of cow peas can be grown in three months, and it will be fully equal to a two years' crop of clover. You can sow the peas any time from May to August and can get a good big crop following an early crop taken off in June. Plowed under after the first frost, they will leave the ground in elegant shape for a crop next year. The seed costs about $2.50 per bushel and should be drilled in at the rate of one half bushel per acre."

Ration for Chick.

A simple grain mixture is corn, wheat, and oats, a little more corn as the weather gets colder and less during the summer days. A little buckwheat and sunflower seed added to this mixture during fall and winter months is beneficial. Green foods, such as alfalfa, cabbage, sprouted oats or mangles should be fed freely. Fresh green cut bone or feed scraps and charcoal should also be supplied at all seasons of the year."

Inventors' Fortunes.

It is not always the greatest invention that brings the largest financial reward. Roller skates are said to have brought their inventor $3,000,000, while nearly half a million was realized by the man who first devised boot laces. The inventor of the safety pin, who took the idea from a reproduction of a Pompeian cameo, made $10,000,000. On the other hand, Charles Bourseul, who discovered and described the principle of the telephone in 1855, died poor; Michaux, the inventor of the bicycle, ended his days in the utmost penury, and Frederic Sauvage, who is credited with the invention of the screw propeller, was imprisoned and died bankrupt and insane."

GERMANY'S IGNOBLE BACK-DOWN.

By Chas. M. Bice, Denver, Col.

After much "crimination and re-crimination" between the governments of the U. S. and that of Germany, the Kaiser has at last yielded to the American demand respecting submarine depredations."

Some people call this a diplomatic victory for the Yankee nation; but others are equally insistent that Germany has yielded only because "the waters were made too hot" for her by the activity of the British naval force. Whatever may be the real cause of Germany's acceding to America's demand, the result is equally glorious and reassuring. Regret, disavowal and indemnity are all conceded by Germany, with the assurance that the Teuton will hereafter be good. We are assured that the Kaiser's order to his submarines has been made so drastically stringent that the recurrence of incidents similar to the Arabic and Lusitania cases is considered out of the question."

At the outset of the negotiations Germany asserted her right in unmistakable terms to continue her original submarine policy, and stated in its first note that "the German Government is unable to acknowledge any obligation to grant indemnity in the matter, even if the commander of the submarine should have been mistaken as to the aggressive intentions of the Arabic." But, in the note a month or so later, we were informed by Count Bernstorff, that Germany is willing to negotiate concerning the amount of the indemnity to be paid for the disaster, and this is expressly stated, whether the submarine commander was convinced or not, that the Arabic intended to ram the submarine; and Germany has gracefully yielded to the testimony of the British officers to the contrary. The Imperial government, in the same note, assured America that "the attack of the submarine was undertaken against the instructions issued to the commander," and that "the Government disavows the act and has notified the commander, Schneider, accordingly."

We have some recollection of a "war zone" decree, and the liberal dimensions thereof, as set by the German naval officials, but all this is now a mere reminiscence, it seems, and we are to hear no more about it."

This is a signal and surprising victory for the whole world, for it fixes the limits of submarine activity for all time, and demonstrates how illy founded were Mr. Bryan's direful apprehensions that found expression in his resignation as a cabinet officer. What a chance for immortal glory his evil genius induced him to throw away!

This is not merely an American victory. In principle the U. S. has been defending the rights of all neutrals, and all will rejoice over the success of American diplomacy."

The result will make it easier to broaden and strengthen the code of international rights when the present war is ended. Force has bowed to rectitude, and morality has dominated power once more. President Wilson's statesmanship, inflexible will and lofty courage have again triumphed, and though harassed at home by the impatient, and heckled by Teutonic sympathizers, he deserves and will receive the adoration of a grateful people."

Certain papers in this country that stand for America's preparedness, however, are disposed to belittle the achievement, and claim, if there is a triumph, it is naval rather than diplomatic, for, say they, "Germany has abandoned her submarine warfare against merchant shipping and the rights of neutrals because the British fleet has made the submarine question a dead issue."

What about the Lusitania? demand these papers. That question is still unsettled."

But Germany's answer in the case of the Arabic, and the concessions therein made, and principles enunciated, should easily apply to the Lusitania when the time comes to settle that dispute. It is enough to know that the weapon she relied upon has been struck from her hand, and that ends it."

The President got nearly everything he demanded, bit by bit, and the American public kept its head and backed the President. The war-toters and peace-at-any-price fawners, and the angry hyphenated citizens have had their day in court. The public has had enough of them. Whether the President "muddled through" in the diplomatic controversy, as some claim, or not, we have escaped the danger of being dragged into an ignominious war."

Never judge a woman by the company she is compelled to entertain.

ITALY AND GERMANY AT WAR OWING TO ANCONA SINKING

Italian Government Accepts Act as Declaration and Will Seize German Ships in Her Harbors

A despatch from Rome says: The Italian War Office has definitely announced that the submarine which sank the Ancona was German, and not Austrian. The Italian Government holds that the attack was tantamount to a declaration of war. The Government has therefore seized all German merchantmen interned when war was declared with Austria and will fit them out for service.

The official statement follows: "The Ancona did not attempt to escape, but stopped within 33 yards after the firing of the first shot. The liner was torpedoed while boats were being lowered, and a hundred passengers were still on board.

"The submarine being German, Germany has opened hostilities against Italy without a declaration of war."

Believed the Majority Went Down With the Submarine Liner.

A despatch from London says: The Italian liner Ancona, sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean, had on board 83 first cabin passengers, 60 second cabin and 339 steerage, the majority women and children, intending to make their homes in America. The owners of the Ancona at Naples have received advices that 320 of those aboard the Ancona have been landed at ports in Tunis. Of 161 brought by a mine-sweeper and torpedo boat to Bizerta four died. Forty-one members of the crew and four passengers have also been landed at Tunis.

The survivors include Cecile Grell, 143, Italians, 16 Greeks and one Russian. It is asserted that 24 of the Ancona's passengers were naturalized Americans.

Berlin was quick to send out word to the effect that the Ancona's destruction was not a German submarine. The first despatch from the German capital was one transmitting a message by the Overseas News Agency, a bureau enjoying the special attention and censorship of the German Government and generally regarded as the official mouthpiece for overseas news service. This statement said:

"Information from a reliable source is to the effect that the steamship Ancona was sunk by an Austro-Hungarian submarine. She attempted to escape and thus compelled the submarine to use her guns."

There is no report from any source, however, indicating that the vessel was warned previous to the attack.

Rome and Milan despatches allege that when the submarine gave chase, the Ancona increased her speed, but the submarine slowly caught up to her and began firing, repeatedly hitting the stern of the vessel.

Scenes of panic occurred aboard the Ancona, when eventually the captain gave up his attempt to escape, whereupon, after further shelling, the submarine fired a torpedo.

The Ancona listed and began to sink. There was no time to lower all the boats. Many of the passengers, who were rescued, jumped overboard with life belts.

A wireless call for help brought the French steamer Pledan (Plaidan) and several launches to the rescue. They made many rescues.

It is thought possible that the same submarine sank the Marseilles steamer France, which had disembarked a thousand French troops at Mudros, Lemnos Island.

The new trans-Atlantic liner, Giuseppe Verdi left Naples a few hours after the Ancona and has arrived safely at Gibraltar.

A Tunis despatch to the Giornale d'Italia gives a dramatic, though brief, account of the attack.

"A submarine approached the Ancona," says this account, "and as soon as the steamer saw it, an attempt was made to escape at full speed. The Ancona was overtaken and stopped. Then the submarine fired on the Ancona, sinking her amid the desperate cries of the passengers."

"The lifeboats were next attacked, the submarine likewise firing on them. A woman, a man and two children were killed; their bodies are at Bizerta."

This is the first war in which submarines have been used.

RIGA AND DVINSK BEYOND REACH

Germans Have Abandoned Hope of Progressing Further for the Present.

A despatch from London says: Operations on the eastern front have assumed a new importance. In the north the Germans apparently have abandoned any hope of reaching Riga and Dvinsk, and are being driven back from the Dvina, which was their objective. The Russians in the Riga region are attempting an outflanking movement, and their recent successes have brought them within striking distance of the Takum-Mitau railway, which connects the German fighting front with the fortress of Windau. The Germans are also falling back before Dvinsk as the result of the Russian offensive near Lake Swenton, while in the south Gen. Ivanoff has continued to harass the invaders by repeated thrusts, which during the past five weeks, according to Petrograd officials, have brought him over 125,000 prisoners. In the most recent of these thrusts, near Rudka, the bag totalled 6,000, many of whom were Germans.

The retirement of the German troops under Field Marshal von Hindenburg, which had been attempting to reach Riga, was not due to rain, as was claimed in the Berlin official report, but was the direct result of the Russian offensive. A Petrograd official report states: "In the region of Schlok our troops have advanced to the west of Raggatz, fighting all the time. After eleven days of almost uninterrupted fighting in the marsh region our troops captured Kammern and Anting. The Germans, who suffered heavy losses, were thrown back to the west."

TROOPS POURING INTO BALKANS

Continued Landing of Allies Has Alarmed Bulgaria and Turkey.

A despatch from London says: The continued landing of British and French troops at Salonica is causing some uneasiness to Bulgaria and Turkey, and the Ministers of those two powers have again protested to the Greek Government, which has taken formal notice of their protest.

The determination of the Entente allies in their Balkan campaign is shown by the large force they are sending to the Balkans, and news has been received from Rome that Italy also has decided to intervene in this region "in a manner worthy of her greatness," and to give sufficient support to the British and French to assure a complete triumph. This is said to have had some influence on Greece and Roumania. Roumania, however, is waiting for the developments of the Russian plan.

The life-or-death battle of the main Serbian army with the Teutonic invaders is now in progress.

The theory that this army is in wild flight toward the Montenegrin frontier, to escape from the iron ring gradually being closed around them, has been exploded by the receipt of two official Serbian War Office reports, which show that the chief defending force of the little kingdom is in touch with the Teutons in Central Serbia, with fierce fighting being in progress south and east of Kraljevo.

BRITISH TRANSPORT ESCAPES AFTER FIGHT WITH U-BOAT

About 100 of Those on Board Killed or Wounded by Gunfire—A Number of Others Missing

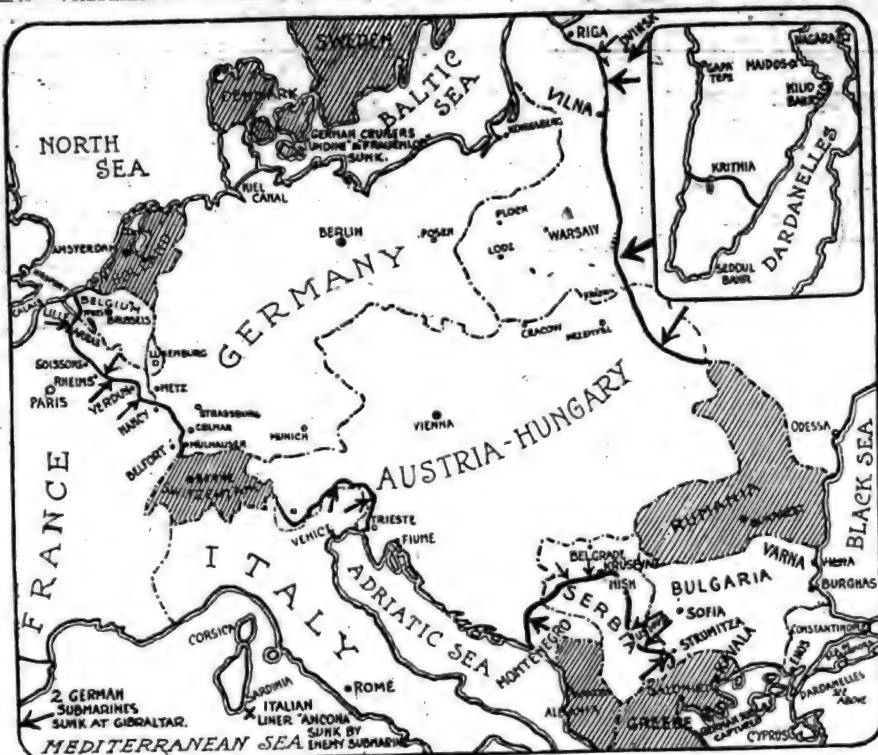

A despatch from London says: Twenty-three men were killed and fifty wounded in an attack by gunfire on the British transport Mercian in the Mediterranean. The Mercian escaped and reached port. Announcement of the attack on the Mercian was made by the British War Office as follows:

"The outward bound transport Mercian was attacked by gunfire from an enemy submarine in the Mediterranean. She reached harbor safely with casualties of 23 killed, 50 missing and 50 wounded, who were landed and are in a hospital."

The Mercian is a vessel of 6,505 tons gross and 400 feet long. She was built in 1908 and is owned in Liverpool.

Although some of the German U-boats, the number is not known, succeeded in getting through the Straits, two more which attempted to follow them were sunk by a British cruiser off Gibraltar, according to a despatch received from Algiers, received at Madrid.

The Week's Developments in the War.

Except in the Balkans, which best opinion repeatedly says is at most a "side-show," both the initiative and the offensive have rested during the week with the Entente Allies. There have been actions near Lille, near Arras, east of Rheims and between Verdun and Nancy on the Western front begun by the French. The Germans attacked in the Champagne without success, but the French determined the nature of the fighting and always had the upper hand. Italian troops were successful both in offensive and defensive actions. Near Riga and Dvinsk and in other sectors far to the south on the 1,000-mile Eastern front, the Czar's troops were "nibbling" with some success; at all events showing the enemy that to reduce his force there for the benefit of the Balkan front was a mistaken policy. In the Serbian campaign the Teutons and Bulgarians were successful, but not continuously so, in the north. They also occupied Nish and reoccupied Vele. But French and British troops were winning ground as rapidly as their strength and transport would allow. In the Baltic British submarines were "top-dog." In the Mediterranean the civilized world had one more objective lesson in the Hun campaign of murder on the high seas with the sinking of the Italian liner "Ancona," scores of women and children being drowned. Unofficial reports told of two German submarines which had accounted for several small Allied ships, near Gibraltar, themselves being sunk. Shaded portions of the map illustrate the diminutive section of Central Europe which remains neutral.

SWITZERLAND'S ARMY TO BE DEMOBILIZED

A despatch from Basel, Switzerland, says: A considerable portion of the Swiss army will be sent home from the frontiers, as it appears that the Government is convinced no danger on a large scale of territorial violations by the belligerents now exists. The expense of maintaining upwards of 200,000 men under arms has been a trying burden. However, ample forces will be retained at strategic points. These will be capable of delivering a hard blow while a general mobilization, if such should become necessary, is in progress.

TWO BELGIAN WOMEN REPRIEVED BY KAISER

A despatch from Amsterdam says: A despatch to the Tijd from Belgium confirms the report that Emperor William has commuted to penal servitude for life the death sentence pronounced by a German court martial against the Countess Johanna De Belleville, Mlle. Louise Thullier, a school teacher, and Louis Severin, a chemist. These three persons were mentioned in the official proclamation announcing the execution of Miss Edith Cavell, a British nurse, as having been sentenced to death by the German authorities in Belgium.

CHANGE

Quit Tea and Coffee and Got Well.

A woman's tea and coffee experience is interesting: "For two weeks at a time I have taken no food but skim milk, for solid food would ferment and cause such distress that I could hardly breathe at times, also excruciating pain and heart palpitation and all the time I was so nervous and restless."

"From childhood up I had been a tea and coffee drinker, and for the past 20 years I had been trying different physicians, but could get only temporary relief. Then I read an article telling how some one had been helped by leaving off tea and coffee and drinking Postum, and it seemed so pleasant just to read about good health I decided to try Postum."

"I made the change to Postum, and there is such a difference in me that I don't feel like the same person. We all found Postum delicious and like it better than coffee. My health now is wonderfully good."

"As soon as I made the shift to Postum I got better, and now my troubles are gone. I am fleshy, my food assimilates, the pressure in the chest and palpitation are all gone, my bowels are regular, have no more stomach trouble, and my headaches are gone. Remember, I did not use medicines at all—just left off tea and coffee and used Postum steadily." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Postum comes in two forms: Postum Cereal—the original form—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder—dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost about the same per cup. "There's a Reason" for Postum.—sold by Grocers.

COMPULSION AFTER NOV. 30 IF YOUNG MEN FAIL TO RECRUIT

Lord Derby, With Authority of Prime Minister, Serves Notice on Medically Fit of Great Britain

A despatch from London says: A strong intimation of compulsion at an early date is contained in a statement by the Earl of Derby, Director of Recruiting. This statement is made, Lord Derby declares, with the authority of the Prime Minister. It says: "If young men medically fit and not indispensable in any business of national importance or any business conducted for the general good of the community do not come forward voluntarily before November 30, the Government will, after that date, take the necessary steps to redeem the pledge made on November 2."

On the date referred to Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons that if young men did not come forward voluntarily and enlist "other and compulsory means would be taken before married men were called upon to fill their engagement to serve."

Lord Derby adds: "Whether a man is indispensable or not to his business will be decided, not by the man or his employer, but by competent authorities and tribunals which are being set up to consider such cases."

Both Anglo-French and Serb Forces Win Important Battles.

Paris.—The Serbian Legation here made public the following official communication: "Although Vele is not yet in the hands of the French and British troops, the Bulgarian are hard pressed, and the fall of the town is imminent. The Bulgarians in the region of Vele have suffered enormous losses, and have requested an armistice to bury their dead."

A despatch from London says: While the Serbian army in the north is putting up an heroic resistance against the Austro-Hungarian invaders, holding, as they have held ever since the fall of Nish, the main part of the line based on the mountain slopes to the south of the western Morava River, the smaller body of Serbs in the south, operating north-west of the left flank of the Anglo-French line, are reported to have inflicted a severe check on the Bulgarians at the Katchanik Pass. So stubborn has been the resistance of the Serbians that the Bulgarians have had to call for assistance from the Austro-German artillery in their effort to drive the defenders out of Katchanik Pass. Thus far they have been unsuccessful.

Reports from Salonica and Athens report the Bulgarians as having met with a severe defeat at this point. According to these reports, the Serbians have cleared the enemy from the pass, and the situation is developing in a striking way in favor of the Serbians. Meanwhile the reports state, without giving particulars, that the Anglo-French line to the southeast is very active. Other despatches have told of additional Franco-British troops joining the allied line in Southern Serbia daily, and it may be presumed that the allied offensive in this quarter will develop gradually as the number of men available increases.

A Salonica despatch says: "The Anglo-French forces have occupied Hill No. 380 between Radovo and Strumitsa, dominating the left side

GERMANS WORN BY PRIVATIONS

They Now Surrender Readily in Whole Companies and Battalions.

A despatch from London says: The latest news from the eastern front indicates that von Hindenburg's campaign in the Riga-Dvinsk region is apparently ended, and that the counter-movement of the Russian armies under Gen. Ruzsky is gaining momentum. The Russians, continuing their attacks between Olai and the west of Lake Babit, are reported by Petrograd to be forcing the Germans into the woods and marshes, which greatly hamper the movements of the Teutons. In an effort to overcome these difficulties the Germans are exerting every energy to complete the railroads which they are building in Courland.

Gen. Ruzsky, who is conducting an aggressive campaign against the Austro-Germans in Russia, in an interview published in the Bourse Gazette, spoke confidently of conditions at the front. He said:

"Without indulging in prophecy, which would be imprudent, I may say that we are now guaranteed against unpleasant surprises on the part of the enemy. The time for surprises is past. But it would be irresponsible frivolity to describe the enemy as exhausted or in the death throes. On the contrary, he is strong, but not so strong that we need fear surprises either here or on the western front."

"By not advancing the enemy is really retreating. The Germans now surrender readily, in whole companies and battalions, and this, in my opinion, is an ominous sign. Their men are worn out by privations, cold and the spectre of winter, and, instead of their former self-confidence, show depression."

Gen. Ruzsky said he considered the Balkan campaign merely an episode of secondary importance.

"It is not there," he declared, "that the fate of nations will be decided."

BOMBS DROPPED ON VERONA KILL AND MAIM 80 CIVILIANS

Majority of Victims Were Attending the Market, One Shell Killing Nineteen

A despatch from Rome says: Thirty persons are dead in Verona as a result of three Austrian aeroplanes dropping bombs on the city. Thirty other persons were seriously and nineteen slightly injured.

The bombs of the aircraft found most of their victims in the principal square of the city, where citizens and peasants from the outlying districts were attending the market. Nineteen persons were killed by one bomb.

The aeroplanes visited various parts of the city, but none of the missiles dropped by them fell near any of the military buildings.

U.S. Neutrality Question Not "Settled" Yet

Seldom, if ever, has Streetsville and the surrounding country been favoured with so rare a literary treat as was listened to on Monday night in the Presbyterian Church, when Messrs. Hawkes and Robinson of Oakville as affirmative and Messrs. Brown and Davidson of Meadowdale as negative, ably debated the vital and very fitting subject, now in the limelight of criticism, not only in the public mind and daily press of this country, but also in that of the United States, "Resolved, that in the present war the United States is justified in remaining neutral."

The intense enthusiasm and patriotism of these stirring times, coupled with a beautiful evening, brought out a large and intelligent audience that comfortably filled the spacious edifice and who listened with rapt attention while the speakers in their turn led their listeners along through the intricate and complicated points involved, not only in neutral laws, but also in the violation of them.

That the subject of the debate was an excellent one for bringing out all the qualities of delivery and the tactics of evasiveness, craft, cunning, etc., often resorted to in debating, was plainly evident.

Cleverly was the matter handled, as the audience was shown the part the United States was playing as a neutral power and the part she would play as an ally and the possible results and the position she would hold after the war.

While the speakers all showed ability and qualities individually their own Professor Brown, in his masterly and dramatic effect, was plainly the speaker of the evening, and he fairly brought down the house as he flagrantly laid bare the weaknesses of his opponent's argument, and the contemptuous and humiliating position United States was placing herself in by having violated her solemn pledge with Belgium, and by remaining neutral in the face of continued outrage by Germany, thereby backing up Germany in her notorious assertion that "a treaty is only a scrap of paper" in order that she might fill her own coffers by supplying Germany across the back yard. The college bred President who is thus humiliating his country by his policy of watchful waiting, the Professor would relegate to the Senate at Ottawa with its august assembly of sleeping members.

But the climax of excitement was reached when, in the 5 minute reply of the 1st affirmative speaker, he was justly retorted by the leader of the negative and told to tell the truth.

This brought the debate to a close, and the audience, visibly with the negative speakers, awaited the decision of the referees. It was a long, weary and tiresome wait.

Three educated and learned men, holding prominent positions, who should have decided the matter in three minutes, took fully half an hour.

After the scholarly argument, explanation and proving by the negative speaker that United States had violated her solemn pledge and was not on any ground justified in remaining neutral, the unanimous decision of these referees was to the affirmative.

The audience seemed disappointed, possibly because among the referees was a Rev. gentleman, whom all would have thought in this hour, when churches through their pulpits are encouraging recruiting, would certainly not have agreed that the United States, whose own freedom of today depended on the glorious defence of little Belgium, whom she solemnly swore to stand by, and on the British fleet that came to her aid, was justified in remaining neutral.

The decision was highly disappointing, and to some it might seem detrimental to recruiting. Had the debate been held in its proper place, a public hall, where there would have been a liberty which debaters shrink from taking in a church, and had the decision in this case been left to the audience, the effect would have been much greater, and the majority satisfied.

Mr. J. D. McGregor, who with becoming grace filled the chair, is to be commended for having, through the aid of the young ladies of his bible class, given this rare treat to Streetsville and community on this fitting occasion, and for so noble a cause.

Nothing is so elevating as a debate of this nature and in no other way can an evening be so profitably spent, especially when it is our privilege to listen to a debater of such ability, honesty and integrity as Professor Brown.

Meadowdale, his native village, should be appreciating and using his talents more by giving him sole control of a good debating society.

Our Parliament, go where you will, are filled with lawyers, doctors, editors, etc., with scarcely ten per cent. of the members farmers.

Our Senate, which a few years ago had a goodly number of honorable, able and many farmers in its ranks, has today only a few, if any, left.

This absence of the farmer from the ranks of a body in which he ought to be a controlling factor, is simply owing to the lack of platform training and debating, which the politicians of today must have if he is to keep pace with the spirit of the age in which he lives.

Equip the average farmer's son with a good platform education and you have an honest, rugged type of parliamentarian, which the world is in need of.

ERINDALE

Big Red Cross Meeting and Entertainment Friday Evening

The Erindale Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society are holding a big meeting and entertainment in the Church Hall on Friday Nov. 26th 1915, at eight o'clock. Mr. C. S. Macdonald will speak on Red Cross work and Capt. Widdowson, a returned soldier will give an interesting address on the war. Other attractions on the program will be Mrs. Charles Falconer of Streetsville, Soprano Soloist; Mr. Chas. Savage of Toronto, Cornet Soloist; Mr. W. Shook of Clarkson, Baritone Soloist; and others. Certificates will be distributed to all who have become members of the Society. Mr. J. L. Ross will be Chairman. The admission is free.

Quarters Wanted

At the beginning of the war a committee was formed in Toronto, with representatives from every large organization of women. Their immediate work is gathering funds to send a Christmas gift to our boys in the fighting lines—consisting of a wallet of stationery with an inscription on the front "Christmas Greetings to our Brave Soldiers from their Canadian Homes." Mrs. Albert Gooderham, the President, is now, in England arranging for the purchase. A lady has offered her services to confer with the Canadian War Auxiliary in England, to see that the gift reaches every man by Christmas. The committee is asking for one hundred thousand quarters for the women of Canada—will you send your quarter? (all money from Peel County to be sent to Mrs. E. G. Graham, Brampton.) Every Institute member, as well as every other woman, is asked to contribute.

The Worst is Yet to Come

Appropos of the baking entries at the Streetsville School Fair:

I've seen things move some in my time,
Since I was but a lad;
I've seen some things go on and climb,
And some go to the bad.

I've seen the automobiles come,
And motorcycles too,
And aeroplanes around me hum,
And hydroplanes a few.

I've seen the prohibition wave
Sweep o'er this fair domain,
And seen our boys go forth so brave
To win or to be slain.

But someone now has put me wise,
It almost turns my head;
A BOY (mind you) has took first prize
For BAKING cake and bread.

Presentation

Mr. Jas. Dunn, employed with Mr. J. E. Bailey, was taken by surprise Tuesday morning, when a number of his Erindale friends met at the Rectory and presented him with a wrist watch and the following address:—

Mr. James Dunn,
Streetsville, Ontario,
Dear Mr. Dunn:

We learn, and with much regret, that you are about to leave us for the front to respond to the great cause of King and Country. More than words can express we admire your loyalty.

At the same time we sincerely regret that we shall miss the kind, cheerful and willing service you have done us week by week as you came to us on your round of duty.

As a slight token of our sincere regard for "Jim Dunn" we ask you to kindly accept from us this wrist watch. May it mean to us and to you Mizpah. God speed you Jim, and all our splendid men, and need you all safe home again.

On behalf of your many friends,
H. V. Thompson.
Erindale, Nov. 22nd, 1915.

Jim enlisted with the 48th Highlanders and his Erindale friends took this opportunity of showing their appreciation of his service during his rounds on the meat wagon and of his patriotic spirit in wanting to do his "bit" in the great war.

Methodist Bazaar

Last Friday the Ladies' Aid held their annual bazaar in the basement of the Methodist church. The weather was not very favorable but the ladies are pleased with the result of their work, having realized over $76 from the sale of aprons, home made baking, etc.

In the evening a short programme was provided with Rev. G. R. Kitching as chairman. There were selections by a Quartette, solos by Mrs. O. R. Church, readings by Mrs. Lindsey, a solo by Mr. B. Root, an address by Mr. Edmondson and a chorus by a number of young men.

Refreshments were served, pie, cakes and ice cream, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by all.

A Tale of the Chicken Business

Once upon a time a man went into the chicken business and didn't go bankrupt. Anybody is liable to bankruptcy—sometimes a titanic trust becomes solvent, just as often as a rag peddler makes an assignment. When we recollect, there are records of men and women in every business under the sun who fail. Happiness is always in evidence throughout the scheme. Before the bubble bursts they entertain pleasurable anticipations of noisier dividends; after the crash they are happy that there is no more to lose. Luck is a mighty uncertain helper and when every kind of person makes good and goes under on every enterprise known to man, the real explanation of this makes a fellow curious.

Students of the scriptures must surely wonder why a serpent was used in the Garden of Eden to beguile man when a flock of chickens would have been much more effective. Prof. Graham of the O.A.C. says men generally go into the undertaking business a few months after getting stocked up with chickens. Geo. McCall of Chatham was the exception to the rule. A son of a wealthy American manufacturer, he was a graduate in Arts from Toronto University but his health was broken down during the final examinations. His father's business met a similar fate shortly afterwards so the young man then living at their Canadian home had to start earning money. He bought chickens.

One hundred mongrel hens at an auction sale in the country was his first purchase. Of Poultry Husbandry he was as ignorant as an arctic bear; at first he was second to none, and he had nerve enough to keep a record of the feed. At the end of the first year he came out just even—the cheque from the produce company was of the same dimension as his bill at the feed store. Yet he was more than even because his dozens of mistakes had taught him hundreds of lessons. "No man can net a profit if he has scrub stock to work with"—was his conclusion after twelve months. Pure bred hens cost money and it would need a fortune to buy 100 of those so the farmer's flock was kept another year and a few pure bred hens were bought as well.

Figures certainly do tell tales. The second year, thanks to the experience so dearly obtained, the mongrels did lay enough eggs to a little better than pay for what the feed cost but the bred to lay hens more than doubled the money. At the end of the second fiscal year one item on the books showed the sale of one hundred old hens at 7 cents a pound and the owner observed—"Bred to lay means money."

Colony houses scattered all over his mother's beautiful lawn may have been poor landscape gardening but free range and plenty of green feed grew sturdy chicks and by fall each hen cleared one dollar from eggs alone with the broilers extra. A small farm was bought half a mile out of town where cheap modern buildings were constructed to house the increase in poultry.

Marketing is half the game in any productive concern and it is the last dollar or the last cent per pound or per dozen that decides the profit. McCall happened to know a club in the city that had a high class trade so he arranged to supply them with fancy broilers and strictly new laid eggs. The surplus went to a well known packing house. At the same time he realized that a man should know the science of his business so he studied and followed the bulletins from the Agricultural Colleges and he bought good male birds. During the hatching season the demand for eggs for setting exceeded the supply even at a dollar fifty a dozen. In the fourth year with everything lined up in this way, the labor income from all the chickens was $2,700.00.

That sounds like a fairy tale but this is a story of what one man did accomplish. The secret of the whole thing is stick-to-itiveness, book keeping, good markets and knowing the scientific side of the work at the same time. It would pay just as well to know when and how and why to do the ordinary things about the farm; a course in agriculture would accomplish this.

Union is Rejected By Victoria Church

After a splendid discussion, covering every phase of the question, Victoria Presbyterians in West Toronto rejected the proposal for church union by the overwhelming vote of 98 to 14. The vote was taken following a full discussion touching the several phases of the question. The opposition to union is greater than at a former vote, taken 3 or 4 years ago, and is as follows: Elders—opposed 14, in favor 4; adherents—opposed 55, in favor 11; members—opposed 299, in favor 129.

An Open Letter to The Women of Canada

Concerning the Need for Fighting Men

A year ago the thunderbolt of war fell upon us out of a clear sky! After the first moment of surprise and confusion had passed, we asked, "How can we help?"

During the year that has passed, that question has found many answers. The trained nurse quickly proved her value. Other women were called upon to organize and direct Red Cross and St. John Ambulance work or Patriotic Societies, while all gave time or money or personal service in preparing supplies.

To comparatively few came the need for the supreme sacrifice—the sending forth of husband, son or brother to the fight. The first appeal for volunteers was limited and did not appear very urgent. All honor to those who heard and obeyed the earliest call of Empire and whose women sent them forth with pride to fight in the front rank of the Canadian forces.

Today the situation has changed. We have learnt, after a year of war, that our task is harder, our danger more real, than we thought a year ago. We have "given" gladly; now we are called to "give up," and service must fulfil itself in sacrifice. Most urgent of all today is the call to give up ungrudgingly our husbands, sons and brothers. We are called to create in our homes such an atmosphere of self-devotion that our men and our boys may feel their resolution to offer themselves in their country's service is simply what we expect of them.

This does not mean that women should be constantly urging their men to enlist, for it is doubtful if the patriotic persistence of a wife or mother would produce anything but a reluctant and resentful recruit. The men of Canada have not shown themselves less patriotic than their women; but it is for us, the women of Canada, to ask ourselves whether our self sacrifice is falling short of the supreme test.

Are we making it hard or easy for our men to obey their country's call for service?

Why is the call so urgent now? The answer is simple: it is because our existence as an empire is at stake. We went into the war to keep our solemn pledges to our Allies; and this reason still holds good.

But there are now other reasons which did not exist a year ago. Belgium with her ravaged land and exiled people cries aloud for justice. What do Canadian women say to the appeals of her outraged women and mutilated children? They have suffered for us: what are we willing to suffer for them?

The women of France and Russia and the United Kingdom have long ago heard the appeal to give up their men, and have responded nobly. What will Canadian women do?

Beyond the keeping of our pledged word, the woes of Belgium, and the example of our Allies, there comes to us today the knowledge that we are called on to fight our own battle; not to send help to Belgium or France or even England, but to fight for our own national existence.

We are told by the men who know that we cannot win this war without more men.

If we hold back our men we are courting defeat: and defeat means, not a vague misfortune to the Empire at large, but the very practical result of a Canada governed by Germans.

Do we want to know what that would mean? Then let us look at Belgium, and learn how the yoke of a conqueror galls the neck of a freedom-loving people. Defeat would mean for us a period of bitterest shame and discontent, and then—another war. Can we risk it? We are risking it if we do not make the path of service easy for our men.

But the most compelling call for sacrifice rings out from the graves of those who on the fields of Flanders, at Langemark, and Ypres, and Festubert, have blazed the trail to glory with their life blood.

Can we make their self-surrender of no avail by holding back the men who would take up and complete their splendid task?

There is a saving which is losing: is it worth saving our men from death if we lose their respect? There is a loss which is gain; even though we learn to face "Desperate times of the whole great world's anguish, forced through the channels of a single heart."

We are called to scale the gleaming peaks of self sacrifice, in the company of our brave sisters of the Allied nations. What will the women of Canada do? NATIONAL SERVICE COMMITTEE.

ELLIOTT—on Thursday, Nov. 18th 1915, to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Elliott of Streetsville, a son. Both doing well.

PORTER—On Nov. 12th, 1915, at Hamet Hospital (in private ward) Eric, Penn., to Mr. and Mrs. Mordant Porter (nee Alice M. Rios) a daughter.

THE BIG DEBATE

Oakville and Meadowdale Orators Meet in Mortal Combat

Oakville Declared Victorious

From East, West, North and South
All roads led to Streetsville
Presbyterian Church
Monday Night.

When the Chairman Mr. J. D. McGregor opened the meeting the spacious Church was crowded to the doors with the largest crowd that ever listened to a debate in Streetsville.

Mrs. Frank Reid and Mr. W. H. Hawkes gave several high class solos that were much appreciated. Short speeches were made by Mr. Weidenhammer, principal of Oakville High School, J. N. McGregor, Oakville; W. Coussé, and Rev. J. F. Scott.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved, that the United States was justified in Remaining Neutral in the Present War."

W. H. Hawkes, contractor, Oakville, and Wilson Robinson, barrister Toronto, made eloquent speeches on the affirmative side while Prof. F. J. Brown and Lorne Davidson, Meadowdale, did splendid work for the negative.

For two hours the audience listened spell bound, each speaker giving a wealth of argument that was a real intellectual treat.

The referees, Rev. W. J. Booth, Hornby, Dr. Chambers, Streetsville, and R. F. Sanderson, Principal of Oakville Public School, had considerable difficulty in arriving at a decision but finally decided in favor of the affirmative.

The collection at the door amounted to over $40, and will be given to the Red Cross Fund.

The debate was held under the auspices of the Adult Bible Class and they will endeavor to give a treat of this kind every month during the winter. Watch for the December debate, which will be something extra.

Peel Battalion is Active

The 127th Battalion of Peel County, commanded by Lieut. Col. F. J. Hamilton of the 86th Regiment, Fort Credit, is being rapidly organized at the 36th headquarters, 1432 Dundas street. The staff are busy on preliminary matters, organizing, getting in stores and uniforms. About one hundred men have been recruited and are billeted at West Toronto and Brampton. Active recruiting will be started next week. Arrangements have been made to secure the county Peel County War Auxiliary Committee have arranged a number of meetings throughout the county to assist Lieut. Col. Hamilton and his staff in raising the battalion. When mobilized the battalion will be quartered in old St. Helen's Catholic School at Langdowne avenue and Dundas street, which is being fixed up to accommodate the unit.

ALL ELIGIBLE UNMARRIED MEN WILL BE ENROLLED IN BRITAIN

If They Do Not Volunteer by January 1st They Will be Brought in by Compulsion

A despatch from London says: If eligible single men do not volunteer they will be brought in by compulsion. Lord Derby states this in a letter to Premier Asquith, in reply to which the Premier says the statement "correctly expresses the intentions of the Government." This pledge removes all doubt of the uncertainty of the last few days, and absolutely commits the Government to conscription unless all the eligible men, that is, exclusive of the munition workers and others engaged in work necessary for the country, have not enlisted by December 31.

STUDIED HATE IN PRISON CAMP

British Soldiers Confined at Wittenberg, Germany, Suffer Keenly.

A despatch from London says: The British press bureau has published the reports of James W. Gerard, the American Ambassador to Germany, and members of the Embassy Staff in Berlin, relative to the condition of British prisoners of war in the camp at Wittenberg, Prussia.

Lithgow Osborne reported that his whole impression of the camp authorities was utterly unlike that which he had received in every other camp he visited. Instead of regarding their charges as honorable prisoners of war, he stated, they apparently regarded them as criminals whom a regime of fear alone sufficed to keep in obedience.

"All evidence of kindly human feeling between the authorities and the prisoners was lacking," said Mr. Osborne, "and in no other camp have I found signs of fear on the part of the prisoners that what they might say to me would result in suffering for them afterwards."

The following extracts are taken from Ambassador Gerard's report: "I regret to state that after a careful examination of the camp and long conversations with the prisoners my impression is even more unfavorable than I had been led to expect."

"Upon my arrival at the camp I was not received by the general who acts as commandant, but by a major."

"There are over 4,000 prisoners in the camp, of whom 278 are British. Among these I found only sixteen overcoats. The men, on the whole, are insufficiently clothed."

"The men told me that one of the British military officers in the camp recently was struck by a German non-commissioned officer and this proved to be true."

"Many prisoners complain that dogs were brought in by German soldiers at night, and that in certain cases prisoners had their clothes torn by these dogs. I asked the authorities whether they considered dogs necessary for the preservation of order, saying that at no other camps had I seen dogs used for this purpose, and they informed me that they considered it absolutely necessary, that dogs were needed to protect the German soldiers on duty. I was shown half a dozen of these dogs, which were of the usual police type."

"Two prisoners informed me that the conditions in the camp had unquestionably improved greatly in the last few months; that last year when an epidemic of spotted typhus existed the camp conditions had been indescribably bad."

"They said that they then implored the German authorities to put the British soldiers in barracks by themselves, as this was the only way to prevent an outbreak of the epidemic, which had been brought to the camp by Russians. This request was refused on the ground that the British should learn to know their allies better. Largely because of this 50 British military prisoners and 9 civilians died of the disease."

BRITISH HOSPITAL SHIP SUNK BY A FLOATING MINE IN CHANNEL

300 Were Saved Out of a Total of 385—Vessel Recently Conveyed King Across

A despatch from London says: The hospital ship Anglia, with about 300 wounded men aboard, in addition to the crew, nurses and attendants, bound from France for Dover, struck a mine in mid-Channel and sank in a very short time. About 86 men, most of them seriously wounded, and, therefore, in their cots, lost their lives.

The collier Lusitania, which was nearby at the time of the accident, immediately went to the assistance of the Anglia, and her boats had just been lowered when she also struck a mine and foundered. All her crew were saved.

A patrol vessel succeeded in rescuing 300 of the Anglia's passengers and crew, including some nurses. A number of bodies were recovered.

The mine is supposed to have broken from its moorings in the recent storm. An official communication says:

"King George was shocked to hear that the Anglia, which so recently conveyed him across the Channel, had been sunk. His Majesty is grieved at the loss incurred, but trusts that the survivors have not unduly suffered from their terrible exposure."

A despatch from London says: The Serbian Legation at Rome reports an important Serbian victory at Leskovats, in the Nish district, after a battle lasting several days. The Bulgarian losses, the Legation adds, were enormous.

A Daily News despatch from Athens says: Bulgarian troops have ceased their attack from Philip towards Monastir because they fear Serbian troops at Katchanik will advance and encircle them.

Despatches from Bucharest to the Italian press say that British forces have arrived at the Serbian city of Monastir, and are being reinforced. Road conditions delayed the advance of the Bulgarians against Monastir.

Whether the Serb-British force can hold out long is doubtful, but an optimistic note is sounded in a Reuters Agency despatch from Athens. According to the correspondent, persons arriving from the front describe the situation as less sombre than reported. He adds:

"The Serbians are retreating in perfect order, and have lost no prisoners. The guns captured by the Bulgarians are old pieces of little value, and a thousand pieces of artillery remain in the possession of the Serbs, whose morale is still good. The ultimate issue depends upon the timely arrival of the allies' forces."

The German army commanded by Gen. von Koeves, which was reported recently as having advanced from Raska, on the Ivan, where the river crosses the southern boundary of Old Serbia, to Banja, north-east of Novi-Bazar, has taken the latter town, according to the German official statement.

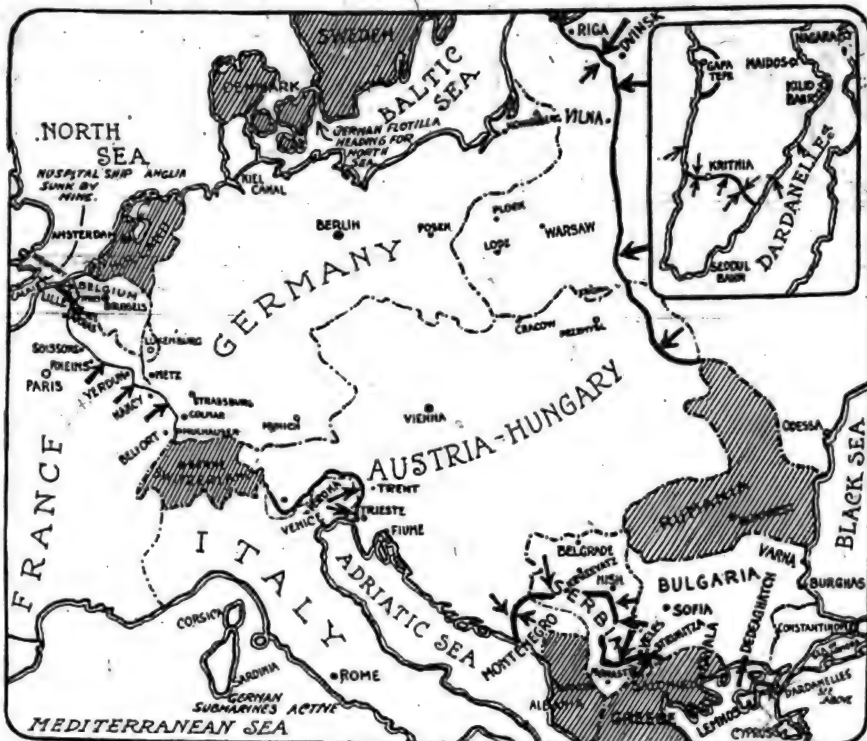

Meanwhile the Serbian army which was operating in the north-western corner of the old sanjak of Novi-Bazar has effected a junction with the Montenegrins, and apparently has withdrawn with the Montenegrins across the Lim to Montenegrin soil. An official Montenegrin statement announces that the Montenegrin and Serbian forces are holding against heavy attacks on the Lim, and that the Montenegrins in the sanjak have been compelled to retire to their principal positions of defence, presumably in their own mountains on the left bank of the river.

AUSTRIAN AEROPLANES AGAIN ATTACK VERONA

A despatch from Paris says: According to a Havas report from Rome the City of Verona has again been attacked by hostile aircraft. While 28 were killed and 30 seriously injured by a recent aerial bombardment, the only casualty was slight injury to a little girl. No great damage was done to streets or buildings.

PRINCE EITEL OFFICER CAPTURED BY BRITISH

A despatch from London says: Lieut. Henri Koch, one of the officers of the interned German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, who violated his parole and left Norfolk in the middle of October, has been taken off a Danish steamer in the North Sea by the British naval authorities. Lieut. Koch, who was sailing as a seaman, joined the steamer at Baltimore, giving his nationality as Dutch.

The Week's Development in the War.

The week's fighting apparently has been very desperate on four frontiers, but news over the principal cable has been a succession of unofficial despatches, one contradicting another. It is obvious that Von Hindenburg is somewhat of a fallen idol; his desperate drives for Riga and Dvinsk have been made with his customary disregard of human life. The Russian counter-drives in other sectors of the eastern front have been in keeping with their plan of campaign, to wear down the enemy and keep him from detaching men for other fronts. In Flanders and France there has been little outside of artillery and bomb fighting. The Italians, recently offered a separate peace, have been wiping out that insult from Austria by strenuous work. In Gallipoli we have resumed the offensive, the British 52nd Division occupying Turkish trenches on both sides of the Krithia Nullah.

It was principally in Serbia that the most desperate, and at the same time the most vaguely reported fighting of the week. The French and British have shown increased strength, but the resistance of the Serbs is about done.

GERMAN LOSSES ARE APPALLING

The Official List Shows Casualties In October Alone Numbered
200,000.

A despatch from London says: The appalling extent of the German losses is revealed by a perusal of the official casualty list issued daily by the Government for the information of families, although newspapers are prohibited from reproducing it.

The outstanding facts in these lists are the enormous gaps in certain regiments, and the frequency with which entire battalions are wiped out, the remarkable small proportion of officers lost and the great number of volunteers killed.

The latest lists available cover the losses for October. For Prussia, Wuertemberg, Bavaria and Saxony there are over 200,000 names, 651 pages, and 1,953 columns. It will be recalled that at the beginning of November the Prussian losses alone were estimated at slightly over two million.

The list for October 23rd alone gives 10,000 casualties. The Prussian list includes nine regiments of the Guard, eighty regiments of Grenadiers and Fusiliers of the regular infantry, 31 regiments of reserves, and 21 of the Landwehr, and many from the field artillery.

The second battalion of a Guards regiment lost 437 and only three officers. An example of the terrific losses of certain regiments is furnished by the 84th Prussian Infantry, whose third battalion lost 532 out of a full complement of 1,000. A battalion of the Prussian 157th Infantry lost the following numbers in four companies of 250 each: 1st, 176; 2nd, 188; 3rd, 171; 4th, 158.

In a similar manner companies of the 224th Reserve Infantry lost men as follows: 203, 205, 126, 194, 111, 195, 167, 162, 164, 182, 216. The full complement of each company is 250.

The 7th Reserve Infantry lost 1,077 men out of 3,000. These losses were probably suffered at Loos and Tannenberg. The Landwehr generally kept behind the firing line; yet they show heavy losses caused by illness. In the 4th companies of the 224th reserve, 819 men and five officers were lost. The 133rd Saxon Infantry lost 507 men and seven officers.

ATTEMPT TO BURN STRINGS OF CARS

A despatch from New York says: The authorities are investigating three separate fires which were started in two strings of freight cars in the Erie Railroad yards at Weehawken, N.J., about 100 feet away from a corral containing 500 horses waiting shipment to Europe. Watchmen saw three men flee from the yards and fired several revolver shots, but the fugitives escaped. The firemen who extinguished the flames discovered that waste from the journals of the cars had been soaked in oil, placed in the corners of empty cars and ignited. The damage was slight.

Prize money, abolished at the beginning of the present war, was a notorious perquisite in the "good old days." Sometimes as much as $50,000 was divided among the sailors.

GERMAN BATTLESHIP SUNK, ALL BUT 33 ON BOARD SAVED

Dreadnought Struck a Mine in the Baltic—Was One of the Newest Design

A despatch to the London Daily Mail from Rotterdam says: "One of Germany's newest Dreadnoughts struck a mine in the Baltic Sea and went to the bottom. All the members of the crew were saved except 33, who were drowned."

BRITISH TAKE TURK TRENCHES

Well-prepared Attack in the Dardanelles Was an Unqualified Success.

A despatch from London says: Simultaneously with the arrival of Lord Kitchener at the Dardanelles comes an official report of the resumption of the offensive on Gallipoli by the allies, nearly 300 yards of the enemy's trenches being captured.

The text of the statement follows: "In the Dardanelles the 52nd division carried out a very successful attack on the Turkish trenches on the 15th instant, for which careful preparation had been in progress for a considerable time."

"Three mines were exploded successfully under the enemy's trenches in the neighborhood of the Krithia Nullah, and the infantry pushing forward immediately afterward captured about 160 yards of trenches on the east of the nullah and 120 yards on its west. The captured trenches were at once consolidated and bombing parties pushed on up to the communication trenches and erected barricades."

"Simultaneously with the assault our artillery opened on the enemy's reserve support trenches, two 14-inch monitors and H.M.S. Edgar (cruiser) co-operating, and maintained their fire until the position was reported consolidated."

"The enemy's batteries replied heavily, but very erratically, and did little damage. The Turks in the neighboring trenches, who fired heavily, were caught by machine gun and rifle fire and bombs, and suffered considerably, their fire becoming very wild."

"A counter-attack was made, but it was easily repulsed. Our casualties were under 50 killed and wounded. Over 70 dead were seen in the captured position, and a wounded prisoner reports that over 30 were buried by the explosion of one mine."

NEW INDICTMENTS FOR PASSPORT FRAUDS

A despatch from Washington says: Further investigations of the activities of Austrian Consul-General von Nuber and his associates will be made by the Department of Justice as a result of a conference in New York between A. Bruce Bielaski, Chief of the Bureau of Investigations, and Dr. Joseph Gorkar, former Austrian Consul. A department statement announcing this also said that information had been obtained which probably would lead to further indictments for passport frauds.

MUNITION PLANT WRECKED BY SPY

Two Magazines at Nobel Works of the Canadian Explosives Blown to Atoms.

A despatch from Owen Sound says: The whole town was in a ferment of excitement owing to two terrific explosions which rocked the town-like fierce earthquakes at about 7.30 Monday evening. At once it was known that the explosions occurred at the Nobel plant of the Canadian Explosives, Limited, situated 7 miles from here. For a time the greatest apprehension was felt by the people owing to the large number of men from here employed at Nobel.

Telegraph and telephone communications remained intact, and the latest and most authentic news from the works is to the effect that two or more magazines were blown up, probably designedly. The buildings were literally blown to atoms.

The magazines are located from a mile and a quarter to a mile and a half from the works proper, and as no men were at work in the magazines after dark the only loss of life, if any, may be one or two night watchmen.

Major Storey, in charge of the overseas contingent in training here, sent 180 soldiers to Nobel, and threw a cordon around the entire works to keep them from further entry.

On receiving word of the explosion at Toronto-Exhibition headquarters a general alarm was sounded, and immediately all troops in the camp fell in on their alarm posts with rifles and bayonets, while preparations to serve them with ball ammunition at a moment's notice was made. At the same time an emergency call to the Soldiers' Club sent all the men from this point back to camp in haste, and all officers on leave were communicated with by telephone, ordering them to report back at camp immediately. In anticipation of a call being made to send troops by special train to the scene of the explosion, double companies of the 74th and 75th battalions were ordered to secure their equipments, and were lined up to be ready to entrain as soon as a special train could be secured.

GERMAN LINES GROWING THIN

Reports from the Russian Fighting Fronts Show the Wastage of Enemy.

A despatch from Petrograd says: "We have mastered the situation, and the action will develop according to our initiative," is the report sent by Gen. Ruzsky, the Russian commander who leads the army on the Dvinsk front against Field Marshal von Hindenburg. "The enemy is demoralized, and its backbone broken," Gen. Ruzsky adds.

These words apparently are confirmed by the German casualty lists published recently, which show that the enemy has lost 85,000 men in the last few weeks on the Russian front.

Russian military observers are finding frequent indications that the German lines on this front are growing increasingly thin. These are furnished by reports from the fighting lines, notably from the sector north-east of Riga. As an instance, it is stated that in capturing the passage between two marshes, the Russians found the sole defenders of the positions to be two Germans with machine guns.

GIFTS FOR SOLDIERS ADMITTED DUTY FREE

Col. Hodgkiss, the Canadian Red Cross Commissioner in London, in a cable to the Dominion headquarters states that the treasury have given directions that all gift parcels of dutiable goods sent to members of the Canadian contingents on duty in Great Britain are to be admitted duty free. The contents of the parcels should be declared. Further, no duty is charged by the French Government on any goods sent to the British forces in France.

GERMANS IN SPAIN; MADRID IS WARNED

A despatch from Paris says: Great Britain has requested the Spanish Government to keep a strict watch along its coast line, especially that of Morocco, to prevent violations of neutrality by German agents who are believed to be supplying submarines with fuel and food at night, says the Journal's Madrid correspondent.

Russia to Suspend All Enemy Enterprises

A despatch from Petrograd says: The Council of Ministers has decided to suspend all the remaining commercial and industrial enterprises in Russia belonging to subjects of enemy countries. These number over one thousand and employ thirty thousand persons.

French Warships Capture Austrian Submarines

A despatch from Rome says: French warships have captured two German submarines flying Austrian flags off the African coast. One was captured off Tunisia, the other off Cyrenaica.

HOW TO CURE RHEUMATISM

The Disease is in the Blood and Must Be Treated Through the Blood.

There are almost as many ways of treating rheumatism as there are doctors. Most of these treatments are directed at the symptoms and are considered successful if they relieve the pain and the stiffness. But the pain and the stiffness return particularly if the patient has been exposed to dampness. This shows that the poison was not driven from the system by the treatment employed. Rheumatism can be relieved in a number of ways, but there is only one way to cure it, and that is through the blood, expelling the poisonous acid that causes the aches and pains and stiffness. To renew and enrich the blood there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which go right to the root of the trouble and cure rheumatism to stay cured. The following is an example of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can do in cases of this kind. Mr. Henry Smith, St. Jerome, Que., says:—"For upwards of a year I was a victim of rheumatism in a most painful form. The trouble was located in my legs, and for a long time was so bad that I could not walk. The suffering which I endured can only be imagined by those who have been similarly afflicted. Doctors' treatment did not help me, and then I began trying other remedies, but with no better results. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had begun to lose faith in medicine, I finally decided to give the pills a trial. I am very grateful now that I did so, for after taking eight boxes of the pills the trouble completely disappeared, I was free from pain and could walk as well as ever I did in my life. I have since taken the pills occasionally as a precautionary measure, and I cannot speak too highly in their favor. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

FINDS FOUR KINDS OF BOMBS.

Magazine Describes the Hair Brush and Others.

There are no other articles on the subject of the war that can compare with those to be found month by month in Blackwood's Magazine. Even the censor has been unable to take the life and spirit out of them, and perhaps because they see the light so long after the events they describe have occurred they contain valuable and interesting information not to be found elsewhere.

A writer in the current number gives an interesting account of the various bombs that are being used in the trenches. He says:—"The hair brush is very like the ordinary hair brush except that the bristles are replaced by a solid block of high explosive. The policeman's truncheon has gay streamers of tape tied to its tail to insure that it falls to the ground nose downward. Both these bombs explode on impact, and it is inadvisable to knock them against anything, say the back of the trench, when throwing them."

"The cricket ball works by a time fuse. The removal of a certain pin releases a spring which lights an internal fuse timed to explode the bomb in five seconds. You take the bomb in your right hand, remove the pin and cast the thing madly from you. The jam tin variety appeals more particularly to the sportsman, as the element of chance enters largely into its successful use. It is timed to explode about ten seconds after the lighting of the fuse."

WISE WORDS

A Physician on Food.

A Western physician has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health especially by hygienic and dietetic laws."

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying, that, in my own experience and also from personal observation, I have found no food to equal Grape-Nuts and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence."

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach especially at breakfast to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work."

"In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream; and I think it is necessary not to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food."

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is voluntary on my part without any request for it."

WHAT DRIVES MAN TO DRINK.

The Literary Digest, September 18, 1915, has an article, the first sentence of which reads, "The impulse to drunkenness is disease." After pointing out that men drink for various reasons, it says—that those who "drink to get drunk are abnormal; they are diseased." This fact has been brought out distinctly in the psychopathic laboratory of the Chicago Municipal Court. Judge Olson of the Court says, "We have yet to find the first case of the kind where there is not a tendency to epilepsy, dementia praecox, manic depressive insanity, or feeble mindedness." All this means that the man who frequently gets drunk is of unsound mind and should be so treated. In Kansas they send chronic drunkards to an asylum for the insane. In Ohio they have an institution to which the habitual drunkard may be sent by the judge on application by the friends until he is considered cured. I knew a clever young man who went to an asylum and begged the Superintendent to take him in for a year till he would have a chance to break off. There are many such pitiful cases for which there is no provision made, in spite of the revenue from the traffic that causes it.

It is a serious reflection on our civilization that there is no provision made for this class, most of them the victims of the license system. We see such men going down for years, wasting their substance in drink, beggaring their families and becoming a nuisance and often a menace to society, and little or nothing is done to help them. They sometimes try desperately to break off, but what hope in the presence of the open barroom and the treating custom? The physician is not allowed to send them to any institution unless he is very rich. There is neither hope nor help for him till he becomes insane or commits a crime. But what caused this diseased condition? "The curse causeless shall not come." Statistics generally point to a drinking father or grandfather. He was probably ignorant of the fact that his drinking would injure his children and grandchildren.

Then, for God's sake help us to spread this truth far and wide that the sins of drinking parents are visited on the children and grandchildren. H. ARNOTT, M.B., M.C.P.S.

How to Save Your Eyes

Try This Free Prescription

Do your eyes give you trouble? Do you already wear eyeglasses or spectacles? You might easily dispense with them. You may be one of those "windy" eyes that are not really diseased, but are only tired. The eyes are neglected more than any other organ of the entire body. After you finish your day's work you sit down and rest your muscles, but how about your eyes? Do you rest them? You know you do not. You read or do something else that keeps your eyes busy; you work your eyes until you go to bed. That is why so many have strained eyes, and finally other eye troubles that threaten permanent blindness. Eyeglasses are free prescription; they never cure. This eye trouble, which has benefited the eyes of so many, may work equal wonders for you. Use it a short time. Would it by magic? Try this prescription. Go to the nearest wide-awake drug store and get a bottle of Don-Opto tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one tablet and allow it to thoroughly dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. Just note how quickly your eyes clear up and how soon the inflammation will disappear. Don't be afraid to use it; it is absolutely harmless. Many who are now blind might have saved their eyes had they started to care for them in time. This is a simple treatment, but marvellously effective in hundreds of cases. Now that you have been warned don't delay a day, but do what you can to save your eyes, and you are likely to thank us as long as you live for publishing this prescription. The Valmet Drug Co. of Toronto will fill the above prescription by mail, if your druggist cannot.

RED CROSS MIRACLES.

If you are inclined to believe that the age of miracles is past and wish visible evidence of Red Cross thaumaturgy, you have only to look at our returned soldiers who are now coming home in steadily increasing numbers. Nearly every returned soldier is a Red Cross miracle, for in the majority of cases a soldier is invalided home only when he is physically incapacitated for further service. You may think that some of them are sadly crippled and mutilated, but if you could compare their condition to-day with their condition when they were first placed in the hands of surgeon and nurse, you would be able to estimate what the Red Cross has done in the way of patching up and healing shattered bodies.

In Canada, however, you can not see the greatest miracles of the Red Cross and Army Service Corps—the men who have been made sound and whole and as good as new again, and are once more back in the trenches, making one life do double service. Indeed, it is not a miracle that one man having only one life to give should be able to give that life twice and even three times over—thanks to the Red Cross.

Think what the Red Cross has saved in that most precious of all commodities—human life—and be certain when next you put your name on a Red Cross subscription list that you have made a very profitable investment—to say nothing of performing a humane and patriotic act.

Pig-Iron is produced in greater quantity by the United States than by any other country; Germany and Luxembourg rank second for supply, and the United Kingdom third.

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Thousands of mothers throughout Canada have written of their thankfulness for what Baby's Own Tablets have done for their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Frank Wright, Clifford, Ont., who says:—"I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets, as they were of great help to me when my little boy was troubled with constipation and sour stomach." The Tablets cure indigestion; colds and simple fevers; colic; expel worms and promote healthy sleep. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DRAPED ONE-PIECE DRESSES IMMENSELY POPULAR.

From the large number of one-piece dresses which are being worn at parties and other social occasions, as well as in the home, it is apparent that milady's wardrobe will not be complete this winter without one or more of these garments. The winning feature of the one-piece model are that every taste from the extreme to the austere may be satisfied and the ease with which these dresses may be made.

For example, observe the smart, pleasing effect of the Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9191, illustrated herewith. The dress consists of a foundation waist with kimono sleeves and a removable chemise. Here also is shown the natty effect obtained by the sleeveless overblouse in handkerchief effect and a bib-girdle, forming postillions at the back. The skirt is a five-gore gathered model, and may be made with or without the cascade overskirt. Cuts in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 requires 6 1/2 yards of 36-inch material with 2 1/2 yards 30-inch contrasting material, and 3/4 yards 27-inch silk.

Patterns, 15 cents each, may be secured at your own Ladies' Home Journal Pattern dealer, or from The Home Pattern Company, 183 George Street, Toronto, Ontario.

The Kaiser and Providence.

The Kaiser's idea of Providence is just like old Washington White's. The nigger had a fine roast capon for dinner one Sunday. As he carved it he said with a grateful, humble air, "Let us thank Providence for this here meal, dear friends. This here capon belonged to Judge Sharp, my next-door neighbor, and night after night I prayed that the bird might come flyin' over into my yard. But it never came, never, never came. Then I prayed, dear friends, that I might go over into its yard and fetch it, and the very first time of askin' dear friends, Providence granted my request."

By Hook Or By Crook.

Often one hears people say that they will do a certain thing "by hook or by crook." This expression dates back to feudal days, and refers to the old forest laws, which gave permission to poor people to gather wood on condition that they neither cut nor sawed timber. Those branches which they could break, or such sticks as could be carried away were theirs, but this was all they were entitled to. To pull down dead branches, or remove sticks from the underbrush, certain books and crooked poles were brought into use. Those in time came to be called hooks and crooks. By their use the peasants managed to procure all the wood needed. Hence the expression "by hook or by crook."

WANTED LETTER; GOT 3,000.

Appeal of "Lonely Soldier" Brings a Surfeit.

The story of the "lonely soldier" at the front, published in a London newspaper, describing how he shrank away "shamefaced and empty handed" when the postal lorries rumbled in and eager hands shot up for letters and parcels from dear ones at home, has had an amusing sequel. Within three days there arrived ninety huge parcels for the lonely one, six bags of smaller parcels, and 3,000 letters!

Again, a Manchester paper printed a letter from a corporal in the Second South Lancashires, saying he was probably unique as a man who had not received a single communication from the home land since the war began. That corporal's next letter to the paper was very brief: "I've received 320 letters and papers, and I'm steadily working through the replies."

A FAMOUS DOCTOR WRITES

"Dear Dr. Jackson: I can truly say your Roman Meal is a veritable godsend to humanity. It has proved all but miraculous in my hands. I prescribe it freely for indigestion, neurasthenia, anaemia, and all undernourished conditions, and especially for constipation. In this latter condition it has not failed me in a single case." Roman Meal is made into delicious porridge, pancakes, puddings, and bread. Ask your doctor about it. At all grocers', 10 and 25 cents.

Indian Prince in France.

Early in the war when the expeditionary forces were being mobilized and equipped, Sir Pertrab Singh, a seventy-year-old veteran Indian Prince, who had seen active service in the past, organized and equipped at his own expense almost an army corps of his subjects and offered both himself and his men to his Majesty King George. The moral effect of this action and the acceptance of the volunteers by the King of England has tended to cement the feeling of loyalty existing between the Indian colonies and England. Sir Pertrab Singh has distinguished himself with his command with the British forces in France.

Reason for Industry.

"You have turned very industrious lately, Tim," said one Tipperary man to another.

"That I have, bedad," replied the other. "I was up before the magistrate last week for assaulting Cassidy, and the magistrate said that if I came back on the same charge he would fine me $10."

"Did he?" said the first speaker.

WAR LOAN

Dominion of Canada

Issue of $50,000,000 5 p.c. BONDS Maturing 1st Dec., 1925

REPAYABLE AT PAR AT

OTTAWA, HALIFAX, ST. JOHN, CHARLOTTETOWN, MONTREAL, TORONTO, WINNIPEG, REGINA, CALGARY, VICTORIA.

Interest Payable Half-yearly—1st June, 1st December

ISSUE PRICE 97 1-2

A FULL HALF-YEAR'S INTEREST WILL BE PAID ON 1st JUNE, 1916.

THE PROCEEDS OF THE LOAN WILL BE USED FOR WAR PURPOSES ONLY

In the event of future issues (other than issues made abroad) being made by the Government, for the purpose of carrying on the war, bonds of this issue will be accepted at the issue price, 97½, plus accrued interest, as the equivalent of cash for the purpose of subscriptions to such issues.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE offers herewith on behalf of the Government the above named Bonds for subscription at 97½ payable as follows,—

10 per cent. on application,
7½ " " 3rd January, 1916,
20 " " 1st February, 1916,
20 " " 1st March, 1916,
20 " " 1st April, 1916,
20 " " 1st May, 1916.

The instalments may be paid in full on and after the 3rd day of January, 1916, under discount at the rate of four per cent. per annum. All payments are to be made to a chartered bank for the credit of the Minister of Finance. Failure to pay any instalment when due will render previous payments liable to forfeiture and the allotment to cancellation.

Applications, accompanied by a deposit of ten per cent. of the amount subscribed, must be forwarded through the medium of a chartered bank. The bank will issue a provisional receipt.

This loan is authorized under Act of the Parliament of Canada and both principal and interest will be a charge upon the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Forms of application may be obtained from any branch of any chartered bank in Canada, and at the office of any Assistant Receiver General in Canada.

Subscriptions must be for even hundreds of dollars.

In case of partial allotments the surplus deposit will be applied towards payment of the amount due on the January instalment.

Scrip certificates payable to the bearer will be issued, after allotment, in exchange for the provisional receipts.

When the scrip certificates have been paid in full and payment endorsed thereon by the bank receiving the money, they may be exchanged for bonds with coupons attached, payable to bearer or registered as to principal, or for fully registered bonds without coupons.

Delivery of scrip certificates and of bonds will be made through the chartered banks.

The interest on the fully registered bonds will be paid by cheque, which will be remitted by post. Interest on bonds with coupons will be paid on surrender of coupons. Both cheques and coupons will be payable free of exchange at any branch of any chartered bank in Canada.

Holders of fully registered bonds without coupons will have the right to convert into bonds with coupons, payable to bearer or registered, without payment of any fee, and holders of bonds with coupons will have the right to convert, without fee, into fully registered bonds without coupons at any time on application in writing to the Minister of Finance.

The issue will be exempt from taxes—including any income tax—imposed in pursuance of legislation enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

The bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $100., $500. and $1,000. Fully registered bonds without coupons will be issued in denominations of $1,000., $5,000. or any authorized multiple of $5,000.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of the issue on the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges.

The loan will be repaid at maturity at par at the office of the Minister of Finance and Receiver General at Ottawa, or at the office of the Assistant Receiver General at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary or Victoria.

The books of the loan will be kept at the Department of Finance, Ottawa.

Recognized bond and stock brokers will be allowed a commission of one-quarter of one per cent. on allotments made in respect of applications which bear their stamp.

Subscription Lists will close on or before 30th November, 1915

Finance Department, Ottawa, 22nd November, 1915.

On Monday morning the barn belonging to Mr. David Turner, Base Line, Trafalgar, was destroyed by fire. All his season's crop—off 200 acres—and a number of implements were also burned. The cause of the fire is not known. This was one of the finest barns in the section, 50x80, and finished up in the most modern style. Mr. Turner's loss will be $8,000, partly covered by insurance—$8,900—in the Halloo Mutual.

Areoplanes vs. Submarines

A debate was held in the basement of the Methodist Church last Saturday evening under the auspices of the "World While" bible class. The subject of the debate was "Resolved, that areoplanes have done more to aid in the present war than submarines." The affirmative side was upheld by Irwin Thomas and Clifford Forster while Arthur Gould and Richard Maxwell spoke on the negative. Each one took his part remarkably well for beginners, but the judges considered that the affirmative had the better of the argument and decided in their favor. Holding debates is good practice for the boys and they expect to have a good time at their monthly social gatherings this winter. Miss Nellie Hicks is the teacher of this class, recently organized. After the debate the class adjourned to the home of Mrs. Thomas, where Mrs. Kitching's class were being entertained, and surprised the company when they marched in. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable time was spent.

This is What we Call Hospitality

The following is an extract from a letter received by Mrs. Ed. Goodison from Mrs. Cockill, The Hawthornes, Tiversedge, Yorkshires, England. It will be remembered that Mr. Cockill was the manager of the Barberton woolen mills at one time and there are a number in Streetsville who will remember the many good times enjoyed at their home here. They evidently have a warm spot for Streetsville yet as this letter shows:

"Knowing how it feels to be a stranger in a strange land, I want you to tell any of the Streetsville boys who have on their mind that if at any time over here they may have a few days leave we will make them welcome at our home. Also if any of them have the misfortune to be sent to a hospital, either at Leeds, Bradford, Huddersfield, Halifax or Doncaster, (all of which are within a few miles of us) and would let us know, we would go and see them and do anything we can for them."

Onslaught on Wilson

New York, Nov. 19—Ories of "Shoot the President!" were an accompaniment to one of the most remarkable attacks upon a chief executive of the United States. It was made last night by John Brihan Walker before more than six thousand people in Cooper Union.

Mr. Wilson was described as the man accountable for the greatest slaughter in the history of nations, a monumental failure as the head of the Government, and a misfortune to the country and its people. And when these sentiments had been greeted with the most enthusiastic applause, cries of "Shoot the President!" followed, without the rebuke of a single hiss.

Cookville

The Mission Band of Cookville Meth. Church will give a Concert in the Town Hall on Friday evening, Dec. 3rd, at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. S. Humphreys, chair man. Admission 10 cents.

The new barbershop and poolroom of Harris Bros. is almost completed and will be even better than the one that was destroyed by fire. It was rebuilt in record time by the contractor, Mr. R. Midghall, Dixie, and any person wanting work done well and quickly should give Mr. Midghall a chance. He is up to date carpenter and thoroughly understands his business.

High School Notes

The Annual Commencement Exercises will be held on Friday evening, Dec. 3rd. The programme committee is very busy securing programme and a splendid evening's entertainment is promised.

The graduates of this year established an unsurpassed record for the school and everyone will be interested in seeing them receive their diplomas. The medals won on field day will also be awarded. Do not remain at home this year because you were crowded last year and unable to secure a seat. The teachers and students are working on a scheme to prevent a recurrence of this state of affairs and think they have almost solved the problem. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Admission free.

The Honor Roll of former pupils of S.H.S. enlisted for active service has now 12 names and possibly more have enlisted of whom we have not heard. We should be glad to hear of any who have enlisted so as to include their names.

COOKSVILLE

The death took place on Sunday morning last at his residence in Summerville of Mr. John Crab. He had been a patient sufferer for some months from internal complaint and his death was not unexpected. He had been engaged in the blacksmith business in Summerville for the past 30 years and was widely known as an upright conscientious man whose loss to the community will be severely felt. He was a faithful and energetic member of Dixie Presbyterian Church from its early formation, having been one of its first elders and also being the superintendent of the Sabbath School for the past 15 years. He was highly esteemed for his long and earnest labors and his loss will be deeply regretted by his fellow members. He was a staunch temperance advocate with the interest of which he was always loyally identified. He will leave behind to mourn his departure a loving wife, 4 daughters and two sons who have the sincere sympathy of the whole community. He was in his 57th year. The funeral took place Tuesday to Dixie Presbyterian Church where services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Miller, assisted by Rev. Geo. M. Dunn a coworker with the deceased in early days, Rev. Mr. Duncan, former pastor, and Mr. Russell McGillivray, B.A., recently in charge of the congregation. The remains were interred in the Dixie cemetery a large assemblage being present at the funeral.

The anniversary services at the Dixie Presbyterian church on Sunday last were well attended especially the evening service when the church was well filled. Rev. Dr. McGillivray in the morning and Rev. J. F. Maxwell in the evening both delivering inspiring addresses which were heard with appreciation and the appeal made for liberal contributions to the special collection was generously responded to. Monday evening the fowl supper was held and attended by the usual large crowd who did justice to the ample provisions. The program following was an excellent one and elicited the commendation of all. Mr. Alex. Park, the Scottish humorist, was a pleasing feature and Miss Emma Thompson's recitations delighted every body. The solo by Miss Rule, Miss Kingdom and Miss Hutchinson delighted all. Mr. Galbraith's patriotic selections was a very popular feature and the whole entertainment was a great success the proceeds being about $100.

Erindale

The patriotic concert held in the church hall last Friday evening under the auspices of Court Lorraine I. O. F. was a decided success in spite of the inclement weather which prevented a great many from attending. Bro. H. Darch, Sec. Soc., was the chairman for the evening and a splendid programme was given by Miss Dillon Pianist, Miss Crane Soprano and Harvey Lloyd Comedian. A brilliant address was given by Bro. Geo. A. Mitchell, Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger. Mr. Mitchell spoke on fraternity and it made one think, as Bro. Lloyd sang a little later on, "That There's Something in the Order After all." During the evening Bro. Mitchell presented Bro. Jas. R. Hayes with a pair of gold cuff links in appreciation of his work. For it is to him that Court Lorraine owes its origin. Bro. Hayes made a suitable reply.

At the conclusion of the concert a banquet was given to the talent and visiting brethren by the members of Court Lorraine and the ladies of the Court certainly deserve credit for the dainty supper served. Speeches were made by Bros Mitchell, Darch and A. E. Tolman of Cookville, whose assistance to this Court is so much appreciated. Following is the address which was read to Bro. Geo. A. Mitchell by Bro. E. G. Little, Chief Ranger of Court Lorraine:

Mr. Geo. A. Mitchell, Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger and Superintendent of Field Work of the Independent Order of Foresters.
Dear Sir and Brother:—
It is with no small degree of pleasure and pride that we assemble here tonight under the auspices of an institution over which you have so much control and under whose guidance is making such marvellous progress.
We desire to thank you most heartily for your distinguished presence here, and for what you have done for us in the past.
May it be our lot often to meet with you, and to meet with one another, especially on occasions of this kind, when hand in hand our motto is to further the great work to alleviate the needs, and protect the honor, and advance the welfare of our fellowman.
And in the name of Liberty, Benevolence and Concord we extend to you a most hearty greeting.
Signed on behalf of the members of Court Lorraine, Bro. E. G. Little.

The choir of St. Peter's Church, Erindale, were entertained last Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Adamson at the "Homestead." A most enjoyable time was spent in music and games.

Lieut. Alex. T. Thomson, son of John Thomson, Port Credit, now in the trenches, has been promoted to the rank of Captain.

Henry Ford, the automobile magnate, will take a "Peace" delegation to Europe in December with the purpose of trying to stop the war before Christmas 1915. He has a big contract ahead of him, but what a blessing it would be to humanity were he successful.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Official denials from Germany that the recent orders regarding the food supply signify an actual scarcity are not altogether convincing. It may be merely the part of wisdom to restrict consumption rather severely. But such a course is certain to arouse discontent, and a Government would hardly venture upon it were it not imperative. If, as is said, the means of subsistence for the civilian population are just as abundant as they have been for the last fourteen months, why should such rigid rules be promulgated? The excuse for the Zepelin raids on England has been that an attempt to starve Germany was being made by the blockade of the German ports; a "hunger war" the Germans call it. Since the cutting off of the enemy's supplies has always been regarded as a legitimate feature of warfare, the extremity of the bitterness against the blockader suggests that in this case the work has been done successfully. If the British submarines have really gained that control of the Baltic which is credited to them, so that intercourse with Sweden is seriously interrupted, there might easily be something approaching famine among large classes of the German people. The reference to the potato crop is not reassuring.

There is, moreover, direct evidence that the situation is more alarming than the German Government would have the world believe. Why the newspapers are allowed under a strict censorship to reveal the facts so frankly is something of a mystery. But when the Frankfurter Zeitung says that "the sinister aspect of things certainly provides no food for laughter," and explains the growing hatred of England by this fact; when Maximilian Harden, of the Zukunft, admits that the German people are in distress, all the explanations of mere providence for future needs have a hollow sound. "Can we hold out?" asks the Neue Zeitung, of Strassburg. Such a question must strike a chill to a nation which has been told again and again that defeat is impossible. Of what avail is it to hold the western front, to take Poland and press far into Russia, to endeavor to force a road to Constantinople, if the ring of enemies can keep all supplies out of Germany itself? It is futile to boast of military victories, to talk of Molokai versus Mahan, while the great storehouses of the neutral nations are barred by the sea power of the enemy.

Since the efforts of Germany to win by a rapid stroke came to nothing, it has been plain that the war was likely to be one of endurance. It was, therefore, a sound strategy to make every German advance costly in men and at the same time to sweep German commerce from the seas. It has been said that an army marches on its belly. There are no indications so far of any failure of supplies, either food or ammunition, for the German army. But it cannot be fed while the people starve. Such a policy, if a Government were inhumane enough to pursue it, would mean revolution. Unless, therefore, the cries of distress that now come from Germany are insincere, which is hardly a reasonable supposition, the country is now in a perilous condition—one that must have a great, perhaps a determining influence upon the military situation in the near future.

A TERROR TO SLACKERS.

The New Commander-in-Chief in the Dardanelles.

All the official dry-as-dust details of the life of Sir C. C. Monro, the new commander-in-chief in the Dardanelles, have been published. Here are some more intimate details from an officers' mess somewhere in France. In appearance he is a rather thick-set man with a short, bristly moustache and steely eyes, full of character. Every word he utters and every gesture he makes is instinct with a restrained pugnacity and doggedness. On parade he is typically British, and no general can inspire more confidence with less personal effort. You can see a regiment stiffen under his very glance. A terror, but a just terror.

He is a terror to slackers—officers included. Punctilious in military etiquette himself, he exacts a similar standard from others. One of his most cherished convictions is that the first-rate fighter keeps himself as spruce under war conditions as possible, and no one will ever forget his rebuke to certain new troops: "Regiments that have been months in the trenches and seen hard fighting maintain their soldier-like bearing and smart appearance, while you men yet untried are going about in a slovenly, unsoldier-like fashion and neglecting military courtesies," he said. He added, "This will cease." And it did.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER IS SUNK BY A MINE

A despatch from London says: Reports have reached here that the Norwegian steamship Ulrikken struck a mine and was sunk near Galloper Light.

Twenty members of the crew of the Ulrikken have landed on the east coast. They say their vessel was sunk in the North Sea and that four of the crew were killed.

Survivors assert that a Greek steamer also met with disaster.

RUSSIAN WARSHIPS IN BALTIC SUNK SMALL GERMAN CRUISER

Only Twenty Out of a Crew of 200 on Enemy Vessel Were Saved

A despatch from Petrograd says: In the Baltic near Libau Russian torpedo boats have sunk a German cruiser of 3,000 tons. The cruiser had an armament of 4-inch and 3½-inch guns. The Russian deadly artillery fire made the action a short one. Only 20 out of a crew of 200 were saved. A despatch from Copenhagen says:

that the new German Dreadnought reported sunk by a mine in the Baltic was the Markgraf, a warship of 25,575 tons, which was placed in commission after the war began. Some believe that the very recently increased activity of British submarines in the Baltic, and not a mine, may have been responsible for the German disaster.

ALLIES ACCEPT GREEK PLEDGE

Assurances of King Constantine Are Considered Sufficient and Sincere.

A despatch from London says: According to authentic information assurances which were given by King Constantine and his Ministry that the Serbo-allied forces would never run any danger from Greece are considered sufficient and sincere. Also it is apparent that the Greek Government will not hesitate to transfer its forces to East Macedonia and Epirus, thus doing away with every suspicion.

Instead of declaring a general blockade of the Greek ports, the allies have, according to a statement issued by the British Foreign Office, withdrawn, or threatened to withdraw, the special privileges which Greek commerce has enjoyed since the outbreak of the war.

The intentions of the Entente with respect to Greece are reported to have been entirely misinterpreted by the press and Government of Greece. It is stated that there never was an intention to declare a blockade of Greece, but what the Entente allies had in view was the cancellation of special privileges enjoyed by Greek shipping, such as permission to load in British, French and other belligerent ports goods which were not allowed to be exported except under special licenses, but licenses for which heretofore had been granted Greek ships.

HAVE NEW AEROPLANE GUN.

French Invention Weighs Only 15 Pounds.

The Military Inventions Commission has bought from a French engineer the patent of a mitrailleuse for aeroplane use which weighs fifteen pounds and can be operated by an aeroplane pilot without endangering the balance of the aeroplane. Tests were made at one of the aviation centres near Paris, and one of the factories manufacturing mitrailleuses for the French Government will hereafter devote its capacity exclusively to the new model.

The model formerly used on aeroplanes weighed fifty-five pounds and could not be easily operated by the pilot. The redoubtable Pegoud was in fact one of the few pilots who did successfully manage both his aeroplane and his mitrailleuse. The new gun does not differ materially from the old one as regards range and accuracy, but it requires a superior system of bracing to make up for the increased shock of the kick, due to the smaller weight of the gun itself.

CHURCHILL HAS LEFT FOR THE FIRING LINE

A despatch from London says: Winston Spencer Churchill, former First Lord of the Admiralty and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, in the uniform of his regiment, has left for the front. His wife bade him farewell at the railway station, where he passed unrecognized on the platform as he waited to enter a special car.

GERMAN DESTROYER STEAMED AWAY

Pursued British Steamer Into Swedish Waters Where Her Designs Were Frustrated.

A despatch from Copenhagen says: The British steamer Thelma's departure from Trelleborg, Sweden, where she had been lying since the beginning of the war, was marked by an exciting naval adventure, in which the vessel escaped capture by a German destroyer through assistance rendered by the Swedish torpedo boat Pollux.

When south of Landakrona, 16 miles north-east of Copenhagen, the Thelma was pursued by the German destroyer W192 into Swedish territorial waters. While the Germans were in the act of boarding the steamer, the Pollux forced them to return to their boat, and, running between the two vessels, informed the Germans that every means would be employed to prevent the Thelma from being taken.

After an interval of silence in which both warships cleared for action, the German destroyer steamed away.

GERMANS LOSE DVINA TRENCHES

Russians Capture First Line Positions North of Lake Sventen.

A despatch from London says: The Austro-Germans, according to Russian reports, attempted an offensive in Galicia, and actually moved some advance guards across the Stripa, but the offensive broke down under the accurate fire of the Russian artillery.

The official statement from Petrograd announced that in the Dvina district, north of Lake Sventen, the Russians captured a German first line trench.

South-west of Dvinsk the enemy was badly cut up when he assumed the offensive, and finally was forced to retreat to his former position. Austrian forces fled when heavily attacked by the Russians. This encounter took place on the middle Str. Many were bayoneted and two officers and 177 men were captured.

The Most Popular Deities

The First is the Golden Calf; the Second is Force; the Third is Intellect.

"They feared the Lord, and served their own gods."—II. Kings xvii., 33.

Thus the historian, with a dash of irony that bites like vitriol and with one stroke of the pen, depicts the religious life of a people. By this brief but terrific arraignment he brands them as a nation of double faced idolaters. Those degenerate sons of godly ancestors, while they feared the Lord—that is to say, while they worshipped Him according to the established forms and ritual—did in reality enter into religious alliance with their heathen neighbors whose creed was less narrow, less exclusive, more artistic, more tolerant of certain habits and practices that were forbidden by their own Mosaic law. They prayed as Jews but they lived as Pagans. Their creed was that of the children of Jehovah, but their conduct was that of the children of Jove.

These words might have been written yesterday, so persistent are they and so applicable to present day tendency. I wish to point out the three most popular deities of the modern world.

There is, first, the golden calf, the god of wealth, whose devotees are counted by tens of thousands. Money, more money, is the be all and the end of all their very existence. They fear the Lord, oh, yes; they go up to the temple or to the synagogue; they sing the hymns, say the prayers, repeat the creed, genuflect at the proper moment.

Keep the Feasts and the Fasts, compliment the preacher and pay their respects to the old God, but their thoughts are afar off on the high place or the grove where their favorite deity is installed. To be rich and increased in goods, to fare sumptuously every day, to ride about in liveried elegance, to occupy a still larger space in the social firmament—this is their ambition.

where his sway seems to be unchallenged. There he is worshipped in spirit and in truth. Might, kultur, efficiency, "the will to power," are the watchwords of his worshippers. He is Germany's "good old god"—its war god. He is invoked by the Kaiser and he accompanies the Kaiser's armies. He knows nothing of mercy or chivalry or fair play, but only force, before whose onslaught civilization must go under. He knows no respect for treaties or pledged word of honor. Any respect for such things is only mediaeval foolery. Hence the atrocities which have filled Christian hearts with horror—women violated and mutilated, babies impaled and crucified, old men and invalids ruthlessly murdered, priests tortured and slaughtered. All this in obedience to the god Force.

Culture and Barbarianism.

Still another deity whom it is fashionable in these days to serve is Intellect. Men fear and in a perfunctory way worship Him who is the giver of every good and perfect gift, but they serve and put their faith in intellectual attainment and achievement, and they cherish the delusion that the greatness of a people is to be reassured by their knowledge. They seem to be blind to the fact that knowledge is at the best only a weapon on which may be wielded by a scoundrel as well as by a saint. The whole world is indebted to the Germans because of the results of their scientific research. Their achievements in this respect have enriched the other nations, who have not been slow to own the primacy of that people in various departments of scientific knowledge. But the civilized world has no obligation to offer to knowledge which transforms itself into asphyxiating gases and inflammable liquids and Zeppelins and undersea boats for the poisoning and torture of an honorable foe and the murder of innocent women and children. If this be culture, give us barbarianism. The nation which rules in science but rules out ethics, which rules in culture but rules out conscience, which rules in Thor but rules out Jesus, invites doom. Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God—the God of justice and mercy, righteousness and truth, and Him only shalt thou serve.—Rev. Thomas R. Macleod.

Struber looked at me. "What do you know about that? Beat me to it," was his comment. Then he asked Miss Fox: "How do you know they took it?"

"While you two were talking, before I came out on the porch, I paused long enough to look into the front room myself. Right away I missed the little box from the mantel, where it has always stood."

"Did you or your aunt keep anything in it?"

"Nothing of consequence: only a few choice Pescadero pebbles and agates—her precious stones. Aunt Lois jokingly called them. But you know what they are; ours were exceptionally pretty, but of no particular value."

We continued to discuss the episode at length, but with no very satisfactory results. The unavoidable theory that Mrs. Fox's assailants were Chinese explained nothing whatever. Anyway it was only an assumption that they were Chinese; the laundry wagon might have been a blind. Steve Willets was not a Chinaman, although masquerading as such at the time he met his death.

One factor, however, now seemed clear, namely: the object of the persistent, secret search, directed at first at the unknown Republic guest's room, next, at my person, and my own rooms and office, and then carried into Miss Fox's home, was closely identified with the carved ivory boxes; but as Struber observed, "There seemed to be no end of them."

My mind flew back suddenly to the early morning. For the first time I connected my two Chinese callers with the box missing from my desk drawer, a conclusion with which Struber promptly agreed.

"It's like this," he voiced an idea of his own: "In some way or other the Chinks 's' mixed up in the whole business, but whether they're the main guys or just tools I don't know. But there's this about it—we don't know whether it's only the boxes they want, one particular box, or what they believe is inside some particular box."

"The diamond?" I suggested.

"Sure it might be the diamond," Struber admitted; "I've had that idea in my skull right along."

"But as I was going to say, if it was Mr. Ferris's two Chink callers that frisked his desk for his box—the one the diamond was in—they didn't have time to open it to see what was inside, or to look far enough to find the one with the ring. They didn't know what second the kid'd be back."

"Same right here with your aunt, Miss Fox. Mrs. Fox surprised whoever it was trying to get her box. They must a-had it already when she came from the kitchen to the front door. If she hadn't a-done that they'd a-blown without botherin' her. She forced them to fix her so's they could make their get-away. They didn't stop to find out what was in the box."

"Do you suppose," I asked, "that the two Chinamen would have assaulted me this morning?"

"No, I don't. It's my guess that they came to find out what they could; they meant to question you. But the kid gave them an opportunity, and they weren't overlooking any safe bets."

Conjure our brains as we would, the whole thing remained inexplicable; so presently I asked Struber whether he had found the Republic Hotel's missing guest.

He scowled and shook his head.

"He just disappeared. There's nothing to go on but his description, and that's brought us nothing. We can only wait and see if anybody turns up dead. It isn't the same as if yuh was huntin' somebody that's well known; we haven't any idea who this guy is."

My glance met Miss Fox's. In hers I read understanding.

"Suppose I tell him," I proposed.

"If you think it best," she acquiesced.

Whereupon Struber listened with marked attention to a recital of Miss Fox's mysterious correspondent. He seemed to regard the circumstance as of vast importance, but one that for the time being merely added to his mystification—especially when he became convinced that neither the girl nor her aunt had the remotest idea who Strang could be.

"Trouble is," he laid his finger upon the crux of our difficulties, "we haven't anything to work on but loose ends; there ain't a blamed thing that can be made to serve as a connecting link. Suppose Strang and the guy at the Republic are the same. Suppose he sent you the diamond—why did he do it? Why did he write those letters to Miss Fox? What's she to him?"

"I know—beggin' your pardon, Miss—that you're Steve Willets's daughter. That don't help us any, either, except that Steve gets croaked by a Chink ring while cracking Mr. Ferris's safe where one of the boxes is. Right now everything's so dog-goned tangled up that—unless—"

He trailed off into silence and sat revolving something in his mind. We waited for him to continue, but at length he shook his head once more and merely said:

"I was thinkin' o' Strang; somehow he sticks in my mind. I almost had an idea about him, but it ain't clear yet; I got to work it out a little further."

All at once he was struck with a thought. He turned to me abruptly.

"Seen anything more o' the gray auto?" he asked.

"It followed us here," I told him.

"Say!" he exclaimed, but relapsed into silence without saying it. In a moment he went on: "You just go on about your business without lettin' on you're wise to them trailing yuh. I'll get them ginks anyhow."

Before Struber and I returned to the city—Miss Fox was to remain at home—I obtained the desired interview with Mrs. Fox.

The result was the least expected of any I might have anticipated; that is to say, the older lady was chiefly filled with manifold fears and a dread of the mystery that seemed to hang over not her niece alone but also herself, and she really knew very little of the past that might be of use to us. She was a nervous, timid woman and no doubt of a disposition to magnify, in the light of later developments, the few facts in her possession, until she had come to be obsessed with a perpetual nightmare of terror.

These few facts, however, unsatisfying as they proved to be, were new even to Miss Fox and have a direct bearing upon subsequent developments.

CHAPTER XVI

According to Mrs. Fox's account, her younger brother, Stephen, had always been wayward, and worry over his frequent escapades, more than one of which had amounted to serious breaches of the law, had hastened the death of his parents. Before arriving at maturity, he had been obliged to flee the country when suspicion pointed to him as the murderer of his older brother, Samuel.

Miss Fox whispered to me in an agitated way: "This is the first I knew that I ever had an Uncle Samuel."

The two brothers, it seemed, had been upon some expedition of their own—fishing, Steve accounted for it—off San Pedro, from which Steve had returned home. A Portuguese fisherman talked in the Wilmington barrooms of having seen two men fighting in a catboat after dark, and Steve's story was discredited. The body was never found, but Steve's flight was accepted as conclusive evidence of his guilt and the grand jury later returned an indictment against him. From the day of his disappearance nothing had been heard from him until nearly fourteen years later. Meanwhile the Foxes had moved from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and had been in the latter city barely a fortnight when late one night Steve Willets appeared unannounced at their home—the same cottage where we were now gathered—bearing in his arms a girl infant three years old.

He displayed no trace of tenderness or affection for the child, which he declared to be his, and in answer to his sister's inquiries respecting the mark on the little one's breast, he denied that it was a birthmark.

"It's her brand," he had sardonically declared. "I put it there myself so I can tell her if I ever lose her. When a fellow's on the jump all the time, like I am, a kid's the easiest thing in the world to mislay. If she ever wants to know what it means, let her maliciously added, 'Just tell her it's the Kiss of the Silent Death. It's her mascot.'"

"But," Mrs. Fox wistfully explained, "I couldn't never tell her anything so awful, go I always said it was a birthmark. Steve was base enough to lie about it, and I thought if anybody would go to the trouble of tattooing a little baby they wouldn't waste time over a silly, meaningless mark like Lois's."

Struber's curiosity was getting the better of him, so I went over to where he was seated and told him about the tattoo-mark. He gave me a bewildered look, but made no comment.

The entire episode of Steve Willets's visit to his sister had been so cold-blooded, so brutal and unfeeling, that the woman had needed no urging to accept the little one as a charge. Her husband ordered the unnatural father from the house with a command never to show himself again under pain of being turned over to the police. Willets had laughed, apparently unimpressed either by the threat or the wholesome loathing with which these good people regarded him.

"I brought the kid here—and I risked my neck to do it, too—because I knew she would be well taken care of," he had said. Then followed a threat of his own: "See that you do it too, for if she dies hell will be a cool retreat for you compared with this happy home when I'm through with you. Some day I'm going to have use for the kid, and when I want her I'll want her in a hurry."

With no word respecting the baby's mother, nor his own hidden wanderings and flittings to evade the law, Willets faded away into the night as secretly as he had appeared to the surprised and dismayed Foxes.

They were not troubled by him again; at least he never directly bothered them; and it was not until he came to be connected with various crimes and outrages, after Lois had grown to maturity, that Mrs. Fox learned anything of her evil brother's subsequent career.

It was when his name began to adorn the newspapers that terror crept into her soul and took up a permanent abiding place there. Her husband was now dead; she had no protector; and she could not banish from her mind her brother's veiled promise to return some time and demand his daughter. Recollection of the man's vicious nature was stamped indelibly upon her memory, and she was in a constant state of gnawing anxiety over the girl.

"But now that he's dead," she pointed out pertinently enough, "who could have inspired to-day's dreadful attack on me? Why should anybody want the ivory box badly enough to do such a thing? Surely, it isn't worth much."

"Where did you get the box?" I asked her.

"I forgot to tell that part," the reply came slowly. "Her father left it the night he brought Lois to us. He had gone part way down the walk when he turned suddenly and came back into the lamplight—my husband was still standing in the open door. I crouched behind Jim, hugging little Lois so tightly she could hardly breathe, for I was terrified at the possibility of Steve changing his mind and taking her away again. I believe, though, he would have had to kill me before he could have done that."

"Anyway he stopped at the steps and pitched something at Jim's feet, something that clattered upon the

PRACTICAL FARMING

Hold on to the Good Breeders.

It is well known that the progeny from mature parents are superior to those descended from young progenitors not fully developed. Bona and sows, for breeding, should be kept in a good thrifty condition, but not fat, writes a well-known breeder of hogs.

The writer has always been troubled to keep his breeding sows from becoming too fat, and consequently, farrowing a small number of scrawny pigs.

I once took a large sow to fatten for one half the pork. I did not know she was with pig and fed her all the cornmeal and wheat middlings she would eat. Imagine my astonishment and vexation when she had three little dwarfed pigs—not only smaller than pigs usually are when first farrowed, but emaciated.

Sows for breeding should not be allowed to run with the fattening hogs fed on corn, but kept in a pasture by themselves and given a plentiful supply of slop, made of equal parts of wheat shorts, cornmeal and wheat bran.

Most young sows will breed when three months old, if allowed to run with a boar, but eight or twelve months is as young as it is judicious to breed them.

The pigs from large-bodied, old sows will be more in number, and frequently double the size of pigs from young sows when farrowed—and this with the same feed and care—and will frequently weigh 50 per cent. more at a year old. Not only this, but it stunts or dwarfs the growth of such young things permanently, and they never attain good size.

A neighbor of mine last year bought an old sow in the spring for $10. She had ten fine pigs in April, which were fattened and sold to a butcher in the fall of the same year, bringing him $115, and he still has the sow for a breeder.

Sows should be kept for a number of years until their places can be filled with younger ones which have proven to be good breeders.

Formerly, heavy pork from hogs, twelve to 24 months old (and the fatter the better) was demanded. Men who worked hard in the open air, said there was a wasting quality about pig-pork—that it shrunk in the pot "and did not stick to the ribs."

Fortunately, this call for heavy pork is decreasing. In the farmer's family, and with people generally employed in indoor occupations in the towns and cities, pork from younger hogs is preferred. This pork is not only the best, being the tenderest and sweetest, but it is the quickest produced, at a lower cost and at better profit to the producer.

Young animals grow faster and with less food than when they become older, and pork from a hog less than a year old does not cost so much to produce as the pork from old hogs.

To make the most money from hogs, none, except those kept for breeding

FOR HEADACHES, BILIOUSNESS, CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION

Nearly all our minor ailments, and many of the serious ones, too, are traceable to some disorder of the stomach, liver, and bowels. If you wish to avoid the miseries of indigestion, acidity, heartburn, flatulence, headache, constipation, and a host of other distressing ailments, you must see to it that your stomach, liver and bowels are equal to the work they have to do. It is a simple matter to take 30 drops of Mother Seigel's Syrup daily, after meals, yet thousands of former sufferers have banished indigestion, biliousness, constipation, and all their distressing consequences in just this simple way. Profit by their experience. As a digestive tonic and stomachic remedy, Mother Seigel's Syrup is unsurpassed.

floor. 'Here, take that,' he said. 'It held a fortune once upon a time; maybe it will bring the kid luck.'

"That's all. That is the sort of creature my only living brother was—his own brother's murderer. I was sick at heart for the poor thing who had been Lois's mother; I hoped that she might be dead."

"It was the ivory box that he threw at Jim. I kept it—I don't know why; perhaps because I thought it really might be worth something."

As Struber and I were preparing to leave, I detected an uneasy look in Lois Fox's eyes and fancied she was reluctant to see me go.

"Are you afraid to stay here?" I asked, lingering upon the porch.

"No, no. But I am troubled about that automobile following you. Please be careful."

My heart leaped at the thought that she should be concerned about me. I impulsively caught one of her hands in mine, and she made no move to withdraw it.

"I shall," I promised. "Since my own unpleasant experience I am not likely to walk into any more traps—not if I know it. But, my dear girl, you two women must not remain here alone, unprotected. I'll find out from Struber a reliable man and have him watch the house."

Although she protested that there was no need of my doing so, I was resolved that she was not going to be the next victim of the scoundrels who had enveloped us in their coil. And yet, when the snare was finally laid for us we both walked into it as blindly as moles!

Our taxi had proceeded perhaps two blocks on the return to town when Struber muttered:

"There she is all right, all right! They stay just far enough behind so a fellow can't see their number."

I looked back and saw the gray automobile perhaps half a square in our rear, painstakingly accommodating their pace to ours, as a few experiments on our part—speeding up suddenly and abruptly slowing down again—demonstrated.

Toronto Soldier Victim of German Savagery

The first case of extreme, barbarous cruelty in which the narrator himself was the victim was told when Herbert Bradshaw, 391 Main Street, Toronto, a member of the 3rd battalion of the Grenadiers, declared that his right eye had been torn from its socket in a German hospital at Essendon without any chloroform or anaesthetic of any description. Pte. Bradshaw told his story in a simple, unvarnished style. And yet there was a calmness, a bitterness that showed his realization of what he had undergone. His pitiful story, told in his own simple words, is more effective than any paraphrase.

"A bullet entered my right eye at Ypres, and I dropped unconscious. I was left on the field for dead. For six days the battle raged about me and I was left alone. There were many to attend but it was impossible for them to reach me. During the six days I was without food. Then the Germans came. I was taken prisoner and that night taken back with a lot of others to Essendon to the hospital there. Without any preparation I was laid upon a table. Strong men held me down and before I realized it a doctor in his bloody white apron was standing over me with a knife.

Prodded His Eye Out
"I struggled, but weak from loss of blood and lack of food I was helpless. And then they stood over me and with a knife the doctor prodded the right eye from its socket. I had no chloroform, no ether, no anaesthetic of any kind. I knew what they were doing, experienced the excruciating agony and was conscious throughout. I was then taken away. A bandage was tied over the empty, bleeding socket, and I was placed in a ward bed. I had food that was nothing but swill. In Canada they would not feed it to the swine. I was in five other hospitals and in only one—that conducted by Catholic nuns—was I treated in a humane manner. And now I am back."

That was Pte. Bradshaw's story. The first to reach Toronto of the merciless savagery that the British and Canadian soldiers have experienced. Toronto has read with horror of tales related by returned soldiers which have come to them in a second-hand manner. But in Herbert Bradshaw's story, told with all the honesty and simplicity of a man who has given his all for his country, the truth of German methods heretofore reported cannot be doubted.

Another Toronto Man Barbarously Treated

With the sight of his right eye destroyed by shrapnel and with bullet wounds in his right hip, Lance-Corp. Christy Lunney arrived home last night and was warmly greeted by wife, mother and brothers. Corp. Lunney, who previous to enlistment was a time clerk at Eaton's, went overseas with the 50th regiment of the first contingent, being a member here of the 48th Highlanders. Corp. Lunney received his wounds at Ypres and was taken prisoner by the Germans after that engagement. He was a prisoner in Germany for about two months. Asked as to his treatment by the Germans, he said that it could not have been worse.

"The British prisoners were especially selected for all possible abuse by the Germans. I underwent two operations for the injury to my eye, and on neither occasion was any anaesthetic used. My right eye was taken out twice, and I suffered the most intense pain imaginable. The French wounded were treated much better than we were."

Corp. Lunney resides at 25 Winifred Avenue, and his mother's home is at 23 Danforth Rd. Two other brothers have already enlisted, and a third is ready to go.

Christmas Seal Campaign
For the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives
8885 teachers throughout Ont. to have had Christmas Seals placed in their hands. 761 banks will shortly receive the seals. Some of the other organizations which are already at work are merchants, manufacturers, lawyers, real estate and insurance men.

Over four million Christmas Seals have already been prepared and further issues are expected to follow.

The necessity of the Christmas Seal Campaign is clearly shown in the following statement, issued by the National Sanatorium Association:

Tuberculosis killed 2294 persons in Ontario alone in 1913—one every four hours.

Tuberculosis kills one tenth to one-seventh of all our people.

Tuberculosis kills one third of all who die between the ages of 16 and 45.

OBITUARY
THOMAS EDWARD BODDY passed away suddenly at 38 Wilton Ave., Toronto, last Friday from gas poisoning. He was found dead in bed with the gas jet turned on. The remains were brought to Streetsville on Saturday and the funeral took place on Monday afternoon from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Anson Pope, Harborton. Deceased was a member of the Masonic lodge at Peterboro and a Masonic service was conducted at the house by River Park Lodge, Streetsville. Rev. T. O. Curless read the funeral service of Anglican Church and the remains were conveyed to Streetsville cemetery for interment. The Masons also conducted the service at the grave.

Among those who attended the funeral were a number of members of the Masonic lodge at Peterboro, where Mr. Boddy was city passenger agent for 20 years, and several well known railwaymen; including William Fulton, assistant district C.P.R. passenger agent; William McIlroy, Toronto city passenger agent; J. J. Rose, Canadian passenger agent of the Union Pacific; J. J. Brignall, traveling passenger agent for the Canadian Line; J. H. Radcliffe, C.P.R. ticket agent at the Union Station. The late Mr. Boddy had been on the pension list for the past four years and during that time had lived at 161 Concord Avenue.

A superannuated official of the C.P.R. the late Mr. Boddy represented the company as ticket agent at the Union Station, a position which he received thru having been first train despatcher on the old Credit Valley Railway at Streetsville Junction.

Mr. Boddy went from Toronto to Peterboro, where he was city ticket agent for the company for over 20 years.

MRS. JAMES DUNTON, widow of the late James Dunton, died at the home of her son, Mr. P. G. Dunton, Britannia, last Thursday at the age of 83 years. She is survived by six sons and one daughter. She had resided on the farm where she died for the past 23 years.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

German militarism has always trained and prepared itself to secure an immediate result. Frederick the Great established the German tradition, which has been maintained and enlarged ever since. Frederick the Great's father had died in 1740, leaving his son a standing army of 80,000 men highly trained, and better than those of any of his neighbors. He pretended to discover a plot against him and suddenly launched his army against those of Austria, completely defeating them and annexing Silesia, by which Prussia got an invaluable territory, rich in iron and coal.

Austria made peace, but a little later Frederick found out, or pretended to find out, that a coalition was forming against him, and again jumped upon Austria before she was ready, and opened the Seven Years' War, which spread to England and France, and cost France Canada among other colonies. Austria succeeded in arraying against Frederick, Russia, France, Saxony, and Sweden, but the Allies did not co-operate, and Frederick was able to do what the Germans have been trying to do in the present campaign, rush troops from one side of the kingdom to the other to defeat his enemies in detail. Frederick was a wise old despot, greatly developed his country, and when he died left a regular army of 200,000 well-trained men, which became a force that all Europe had to keep well in mind.

Napoleon caught Prussia unawares by his superior quickness and ability. The Prussian army had become, through its aristocratic control, badly dry-rotted when Napoleon struck it with his enthusiastic Republican Volunteers. Prussia's defeat was complete and pronounced; but there came later an uprising of the people and again Prussia helped force a quick decision at Waterloo. In 1864 Prussia and Austria descended upon Schleswig-Holstein and brought about Denmark's quick defeat.

In 1866 Prussia with everything in complete readiness jumped upon Austria, who was only getting ready, and in seven weeks forced her to a humiliating peace in which Austria was expelled from the German Confederation, allowing Prussia to become the head of the New Empire. This was followed four years later by Prussia catching France similarly unprepared, and crushed her in a war which lasted only from July, 1870, until January, 1871. In reality France was crushed inside of three months.

Germany had hoped to repeat these quick conquests in the present war. She expected to crush France before England and Russia could come to her assistance and then jump, as Frederick the Great had done, upon the other Allies, and defeat them in succession. The history of the war, however, has been a grave disappointment to the German militarists who have not succeeded in securing a decision anywhere, although they have had most astonishing successes.

Though Germany concentrates all her strength for a quick decisive blow, yet she has shown great powers of endurance. Frederick the Great managed to maintain the war in spite of awful defeats for seven years, during which time Berlin was taken twice. The whole country was ravaged and even the seed wheat was destroyed. But the country had no foreign debt. The currency had been badly inflated, but under Frederick's wise despotism Prussia was able to re-establish herself.

WANT RUINS TO BE SEEN.

Belgians Oppose German Plan to Rebuild Them.

Plans and descriptions of a rebuilt Louvain, prepared by German artists and architects, have been distributed in Louvain in order to get the Belgians interested in this work, but so far only a few new houses have been erected among the ruins. The descriptions are in the Flemish language.

An English governess, who has just been released by the German authorities and who has just arrived in London, declares that the Germans are using every means to ingratiate themselves with the people of Louvain. As the ruins serve to remind the Belgians of their woes, the Germans are doing all they can to enforce rebuilding. But the people are antagonistic, and want the ruins to stand until they can be seen by all the world.

Brussels and the towns generally are quite Germanized now," she says. Even the roadside sign posts bear the names of places in German. The cities and country are full of spies, male and female, who pretend to be Belgian patriots, so that the people are extremely cautious in what they say to strangers.

While Belgium appears calm enough, there is a strong undercurrent of antagonism, and the Germans have to submit to constant pinpricks. Humorous remarks under official posters is a common form of annoyance, although heavy penalties, amounting to fines of $2,500 or five years' imprisonment, are imposed for interfering with Germans or German official proclamations.

Mayors of London used to be elected for life.

Hogs—Selected lots, $9.75 per cwt., weighed off cars.

The Bride's Cooking.
"I must say these are fine biscuits!" exclaimed the young husband.
"How could you say those are fine biscuits?" inquired the young wife's mother in a private interview.
"I didn't say they were fine. I merely said I must say so."

HEALTH

How to Keep Young.

If you want to stay young and keep the folks about you looking young, practice the habit of always telling your neighbors how well you feel and how well they look.

According to Dr. S. R. McKelvey, this policy of the new health movement is putting a new feeling into hundreds of persons.

"It is not only bad taste to talk of your pains and ailments, but it is a reflection on your intelligence and your knowledge of health, sanitation and hygiene not to keep well and fit and enjoy good health," says the doctor. "We are not far from the time when the cause of illness will have to be accounted for personally. In other words, nature is no longer going to be blamed for sickness when it is simply the result of ignorance, indifference or wrong ways of living."

"You can make a man take a new lease on life by telling him how well he looks, and how young; by telling a fellow he's sure to make good when he's down and out, and by declaring that you yourself are as young and healthful as you ever were. The principle is that it encourages, it makes us think differently and act differently, for, after all, we are only what we think we are."

The Milky Way.

Milk is not exactly a favorite drink, yet when one is "run-down," there is absolutely no better or quicker "pick-me-up" than a glass of hot milk. It is forty-seven times better than alcohol. Milk, being a perfect food, will sustain life for months. The objection of many that "milk does not agree with them" is simply due to the fact that they don't know how to drink it!

Milk should be sipped slowly, and a glassful should take five minutes. When milk enters the stomach it is instantly curdled. To drink a quantity right off is to have in your stomach a large curdled mass, on the outside of which only can the digestive juices work. Trouble—nausea, or indigestion—follows. Sip it, and each sip is curdled separately. Instead of one large mass there are many small ones, and the stomach can do its work. Troubles disappear.

Health Hints.

A cold bath, or a sponge bath rubbing, or a rapid walk in the open air, or going up and down stairs a few times just before retiring, will aid in equalizing the circulation and promoting sleep.

A simple and effective remedy for ivy poisoning is given by Dr. John E. Lane, of New Haven, Conn., in the Medical Record. Dr. Lane's treatment is to cover the affected areas with two or three thicknesses of cheesecloth, which is kept continually moistened with a solution of boric acid.

An important particular in which cow's milk differs is that the former is likely to curdle. Some children fed on cow's milk are apt to suffer from the formation of large, tough curds. If citrate of soda is added to milk in the proportion of half a dram of soda to a pint of milk no curds will be formed. Given in this proportion citrate of soda is said to be entirely harmless and is often found very useful in feeding infants. The addition of barley water or any other thin cereal gruel has much the same effect. A coated tongue may be due to snoring. You see, you cannot snore unless you breathe through both the nose and the mouth at the same time. It is impossible to snore with the mouth closed or with the nose closed. Breathing in through the mouth and nose at the same time, however, occasions a vibration of the soft palate at the back of the throat. So when you snore you draw a current of air over your tongue. Being moist, the tongue collects the germs from the air and not infrequently produces a very heavy coating of them during a night's sleep.

THE SUNDAY LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON.
DECEMBER 5.

Lesson X.—Uzziah's Pride and Punishment, 2 Chron. 26. Golden Text: Prov. 29. 23.

I. The Fame of Uzziah (Verses 8-10).

Verses 8. Gave tribute—See 1 Kings 4. 21; 10. 25; 2 Chron. 17. 11. Part of the tribute which the Ammonites gave Uzziah was evidently a right to pasture his cattle in the Ammonite country (see verse 10).

9. The corner gate—Probably the gate at the northwest angle of the city where the north wall approached the Valley of Hinnom (see 2 Kings 14. 13).

The valley gate—The modern "Jaffa" gate which leads to the Valley of Hinnom.

10. Built towers—Primarily for defense from marauding bands.

The wilderness—To the south and southeast of Jerusalem, extending from the western shores of the Dead Sea toward Beersheba.

Hewed out many cisterns—Reservoirs cut into the natural rock and covered at the top except for a small aperture. These were for storing the rainfall. Many remains of such are encountered by the traveller in Palestine to-day.

The lowland—The maritime plain to the west of Jerusalem between the hills of Judah and the sea.

The plain—The rich grazing land beyond the Jordan, on the plateau of Gilead.

II. His weakness (verses 15-21).

15. Marvellously helped—See verse 7.

16. His heart was lifted up—His pride became strong.

To burn incense—None but the priests were allowed to celebrate this rite. Hence Uzziah's transgression (verse 18).

17. Azariah the priest—The high priest (verse 20).

With him fourscore priests—Uzziah doubtless had a large retinue with him. Azariah, therefore, takes a strong following, to withstand Uzziah with force if necessary.

19. The leprosy brake forth in his forehead—Gehazi was thus suddenly afflicted (see 2 Kings 5. 27).

20. They thrust him out quickly—His own men thrust him out, for death was the penalty (see Num. 18. 7; 16. 31-35). And they wanted to get him away from the incense altar as quickly as possible, so as to escape the penalty.

TREATING FORBIDDEN.

Has Caused a Decrease in Drinking Among London Women.

The no-treating law now enforced in the London district will, from present indications, greatly decrease drinking among women, for it is among the women of the lower classes that treating is the most prevalent. Even in the most poverty-stricken slums of the East End, a woman who drinks by herself is considered mean, greedy and unsocial and she is accordingly ostracized. The only social life among these women is at the public houses. At all times of the day they may be seen around the bars or in the street in front with beer glasses in hand. Since the law prevents minors entering the barrooms, the women with babies in their arms stand outside for their drinks. But often children tend to the babies while the mothers and grandmothers are inside.

The no-treating order went into effect in the West End and in the more respectable parts of London without a protest. It was taken as a joke, and the public houses were crowded with men buying their last treat. But in the East End, actual resentment was felt, chiefly among the women. They regarded it as a blow at their main source of amusement.

Settlement workers count on taking advantage of the new liquor regulations by starting more social halls. A number of these are in operation in the slums now, and their popularity is growing. They were especially designed for soldiers and their girls as a cheap place to spend an evening. The halls are provided with pianos and games, and tea and other soft drinks are sold at cost price. Heretofore, the saloon, or "pub," has been the only social meeting place for the people of the slums, who are glad to escape their own dismal tenements.

BETRAYED MISS CAVELL NOW HANGS SELF IN CELL

A despatch from London says: A message from Brussels, forwarded from The Hague by the Exchange Telegraph Company correspondent, says that the French soldier whose confession to the German authorities resulted in the arrest and execution of Miss Edith Cavell has committed suicide by hanging in the military prison there.

AUSTRALIA WILL HAVE 300,000 MEN IN KHAKI

A despatch from Melbourne, Australia, says: The Commonwealth Government has decided to raise an additional 50,000 men. This will bring up the Australian contingent for the war to 300,000.

BRITISH JACKIES ESCAPED WITH THE SERBIAN ARMY

Naval Brigade Which Assisted in Defence of Belgrade Heard From

A despatch from London says: The safety of both the British and French naval brigades which recently were in Belgrade is now assured. The French section arrived at Monastir, near the Greek border, a few days ago, and a telegram has been received from Admiral Troubridge, commanding the British brigade, dated from Mitrovitz, November 20, stating that all was well.

British and French naval brigades were sent to Belgrade last fall and took part in the fighting against the Germans and Austrians preceding the evacuation of the capital by the Serbs.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

By the Optimist.

You have had your eyes closed for years to everything except silver mines, real estate and the stock market.

You have forgotten that behind these lies the real Canada, the Canada of the field, forest, fisheries and mines.

You may know, through reading or hearsay, that we have record crops of wheat, oats, barley, potatoes, hay and peaches, but has it conveyed anything beyond an item of news to your atrophied mind?

You have heard of war orders for shells, boots, clothing, guns, and provisions, of horses, mules and cattle being bought by the thousand.

Have you thought for a moment of what it means to Canada and you.

Do you realize that the wheat crop in the West alone will total over 250,000,000 bushels or about $200,000,000 every man, woman and child in the West?

Do you realize that the total field crop will equal $800,000,000.00, or $100.00 for every soul in Canada?

Do you realize that you can add to this $144,000,000.00 for products of our mines, $182,000,000.00 from our forests, and $33,000,000.00 from our fisheries, and leaving out dairy products, meat and furs untouched, have a total of over $1,100,000,000.00 produced in 1915?

Do you realize that Canada has received up-to-date over $500,000,000.00 in orders for war material, and that this will be doubled in the next six months?

Do you realize that for the first time there was a trade balance in favor of Canada of $37,000,000.00 in excess of all imports for the first seven months of this year?

Do you realize that Canada is able to borrow money in the United States for Dominion, Provincial and municipal purposes?

Do you realize that Canada could give every man, woman and child in Great Britain, 65 acres of land, or one acre each to every man, woman and child in the entire world?

Do you realize that capital in the United States is beginning to look for opportunities for investment, and that when the war is over the influx of immigration into Canada will be almost uncontrollable?

Try and look into the future. To-day Canada has more money in savings accounts than at any period in her history, and this money must be spent in the future.

The United States is in the same position, and has over a billion dollars of a favorable balance of trade for the present year.

New industries are springing up in Canada, financed by American capital and the probabilities are that Canada will be flooded with such enterprises.

Are you going to sit still? You can, at any rate, help others who are building up Canada, by encouragement and by insisting as much as possible, on Canadian made goods for Canadian people.

This is Canada's century. Do you belong to it?

In a Life of Worldliness

It Is the Surrender of the Life to the Fleeting Fashions of the Present Day.

"The god of this world hath blinded their minds."—II. Corinthians iv. 4.

By what settled process is the blindness brought about? First of all, in a life of worldliness we lose our faith. Our fellowship with the unseen comes to an end. We may keep up a sort of communion with God, but we have no real communion. We may be members of Christ's church, but we are not vital members of his body. Our names may be on the roll of the church, but they are not written in the Book of Life. In worldliness we do not "endure as seeing Him as He is invisible." We walk by sight and not by faith.

A Loss of Moral Refinement. And then in the second place: In a life of worldliness we lose our faithfulness. No man can lose his reverence without impairing his obedience. When we become prayerless we almost inevitably become careless. If there is spiritual neglect there will be a loss of moral refinement. All the finest loyalties are dimmed when we become disloyal to God. If worldliness kills our faith it will also make us unfaithful.

And then, thirdly: In a life of worldliness we lose our sight. We begin by not wanting to see God and we end by not being able to see Him. Our minds are blinded. Day after day and week after week we see nothing of Christ; there is no Christ in our life. It comes to this, that when we have made our daily choice we surrender Christ and we choose the world. Judas sold his Lord for thirty pieces of silver. His mind was blinded; he sold the Pearl of Greatest Price for an old song.

Let Truth Flood Our Minds. Worldliness is, therefore, not a question of how much we have but in what manner we live. It is to be tested not by the contents of the purse but by the attitude of the soul. Worldliness is a horizontal life; it is life without height and depth. It has no sky. No morning stars sing together for joy.

And yet we may avoid this tremendous peril. It is possible to be in the world and not to be its captive. We can keep our minds open to God and the god of this world will be routed. In all our concerns we can let the light of Christian truth flood our minds. We can receive the truth of the Gospel and obtain all our mental furnishings about God and life and sin and destiny from that holy fount, and then I think everything will be flooded with light and we shall be "light in the Lord."—Rev. J. H. Jowett, D.D.

RUSSIAN RIVERS ARE FREEZING UP

Austrian Battalion Attempts to Cross the Sty, But Is Annihilated.

A despatch from Petrograd says: Intensely cold weather is prevailing all along the front in the eastern theatre of war, and already the rivers have begun to freeze up.

Attempts of the Austrians to use the ice on the Sty River for fording purposes resulted in the annihilation of an entire battalion. While the troops of the battalion were crossing the stream the ice gave way and all were drowned.

At other points on the front, Russian artillery is breaking up the ice with shells in order to prevent the Germans and Austro-Hungarians from crossing.

An official report tells of an attack by Russians on the enemy near the village of Semikovtze, on the Stripa. The Germans were driven to the river and those who escaped Russian bullets were drowned in an attempt to cross the river. Over 100 killed or wounded were found on the scene of the action.

On the Dvinsk front, the Germans are now upon the defensive, although strong counter-attacks have been launched north of Iloukatz in an effort to capture the ground lost to the Russians. Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army has been driven from important positions in front of Dvinsk and the Germans have suffered severe losses.

Notwithstanding this, the Germans still are making desperate efforts to advance in the direction of the Dvina. They have built a new road for the transport of ammunition and heavy guns. Huge quantities of ammunition recently have been forwarded to the regions of Ikskul, Friedrichstadt and Jacobstadt.

The position of the Russian armies has been enormously strengthened, however by an abundance of ammunition, the correspondent says. Gunners now show to infantrymen inscriptions written by workmen on ammunition boxes, which read in substance: "Don't spare shells. Plenty more are coming, comrades. We are working hard to keep you supplied. Cheer up."

HUNGARIANS KILLED RUSSIAN PRISONERS

Number of Victims Is Placed at Two Thousand.

A despatch from Bucharest says: According to trustworthy sources at Debreczen, 2,000 Russian prisoners confined nearby, who revolted owing to bad food, and killed two sentries, were shot by Hungarian troops.

An official communique attributed the disappearance of these prisoners to an epidemic of cholera.

Had a Conference With King Victor, Gen. Cadorna and the Premier

A despatch from Rome says: Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, British War Minister, arrived here from Naples and went directly to the British Embassy. His arrival was a complete surprise. After a conference with Premier Salandra and the Minister for War, Lord Kitchener left for the front, where he conferred with Lieut. Gen. Count Luigi Cadorna, chief of the Italian general staff, and King Victor Emmanuel.

Kitchener's movements have been kept so secret that it was not even known he meant to visit Italy or that he had left the Near East. In view of the allies' anxiety to secure Italian aid in the Balkan campaign, the greatest importance was attached to Kitchener's presence here. Whether he had come here especially to hasten the despatch of Italian troops to the Near Eastern war zone and will return to the Balkans, or return to England, is not known.

ONLY 10 MILES FROM BAGDAD

General Sir John Nixon's Army Within Sight of the Famous City.

A despatch from London says: A telegram from Gen. Sir John Eccles Nixon, commander of the British forces in Mesopotamia, reports that Gen. Townsend's troops were in possession of the battlefield, while the Turks were reported to be retiring on Diah, ten miles above Ctesiphon, and the same distance from Bagdad. Gen. Townsend was engaged in clearing the field of wounded and prisoners.

"At first it was stated that 800 prisoners had been taken. It now appears that no less than 1,300 have been marched back to Lajj.

"Our wounded are reported to number about 2,500, of whom 1,800 were leaving that day by steamer for Basra. The number of killed has not yet been reported.

"Gen. Nixon praises the excellent handling of the troops by Gen. Townsend, and the splendid spirit shown by them after their severe losses and hardships from want of water and food."

History of the Expedition.

One of the most severe surprises the Turks were given in this war was on the Persian Gulf, where they found their offensive forestalled by a British invasion.

Turkey had shown her hand since the last of August, 1914, and Russia and Great Britain were ready for the events leading up to and subsequent to the 30th of October, when Islam joined Teuton.

By the beginning of November the British in the Gulf of Persia, were ready. The Government of India had sent the Poona Brigade, under Brigadier-General W. S. Delamain, to Bahrain.

This brigade contained the 2nd Dorset, the 20th (Punjab) Infantry, the 104th (Wellesley's) Rifles, the 117th Mahrattas, and the 23rd (Persian) and the 30th Mountain Batteries. On November 7th the force reached the bar of the Shat-el-Arab, where the village of Fao, with its Turkish fort, lies among the flats and palm groves. The gunboat Odin bombarded the fort and troops landed and occupied the village. The brigade then sailed 30 miles up the estuary, passing the refinery of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, at Abadan, and disembarked at Sanjeh, on the Turkish bank, where it prepared entrenched camp, and sat down to wait for the rest of the British force.

STARVE IN WARSAW; GERMAN FOOD SCARCE

A despatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph Company says: Food riots are frequent in Poland. The shortage of supplies is so great in the towns around Warsaw that even the wealthy are unable to obtain sufficient food. As a consequence, outbreaks are of almost daily occurrence, and involve fighting between civilians and the German troops.

The situation has been made worse by the refusal of General von Bessler, Governor-General of Poland, to allow the Polish Relief Committee to work except under German control, to which the committee declines to assent. The mortality among children has doubled since the cold weather began.

ROUMANIA HAS DEMANDED RELEASE OF HER SUBJECTS

Bulgaria Refuses on the Ground That They Are Spies, Complications Are Likely

A despatch from London says: The report that Roumania has refused the request of Austria and Germany for permission for their war craft on the Danube to go through to the Black Sea is confirmed by inquiries made here.

A Rome correspondent learns that a serious incident between Bulgaria and Roumania has been provoked by the arbitrary arrest at Sofia of several Roumanians on suspicion of espionage and Bulgaria's refusal of the formal demand made by Roumania for their release. Complications are feared as a result of the incident. Despatches from Bucharest, Roumania, to Budapest papers state that the Roumanian Council of Ministers has decided, since the Unionist Federation has threatened to make a demonstration and interrupt the speech from the throne, to open Parliament simply with a Royal message which Premier Bratianu will read. The message will declare, it is said, that the foreign political situation makes it the duty of Roumania to maintain neutrality to such limits as the vital interests of the country will permit.

WHEAT SEIZED FOR THE ALLIES

Canadian Government Has Taken
Over Nearly 15,000,000 Bushels.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The Dominion Government has commandeered all wheat of Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Northern in store in Eastern elevators. The amount of grain affected is estimated at from twelve to fifteen million bushels, although there is a possibility that the total may run slightly above these figures.

This action, probably the most drastic ever recorded in the grain trade of the Dominion, was taken for the purpose of protecting the Imperial Government, which is buying the grain, and for which the Government here is acting. The commandeering of the wheat caused a sensation in the wheat market, particularly in the West, and inquiries have been pouring in as to the significance and scope of the Government's action.

As explained in an official memorandum, the method of commandeering the grain was adopted in order that the purchasing Government might not be subjected to the extra expense of inflated prices which would follow the Government's entry into the open market as a buyer. The Dominion Government has been bending every energy toward securing a market for the huge grain surplus of Canada, and it is hoped that by securing the fulfillment of this order from the Imperial Government at a fair price that other orders will follow. All wheat of the grades mentioned in store at the head of the lakes and Eastward is taken over. The price has not been fixed, but will be adjusted on a basis of the fair market value, taking into consideration the magnitude of the order.

No wheat in elevators west of Port Arthur and Fort William or in the hands of farmers or in transit is affected. Information as to the actual destination of the grain is not yet available, and it is possible that the British Government is buying for one of the other allied powers.

GERMAN SOLDIER ARRIVES.

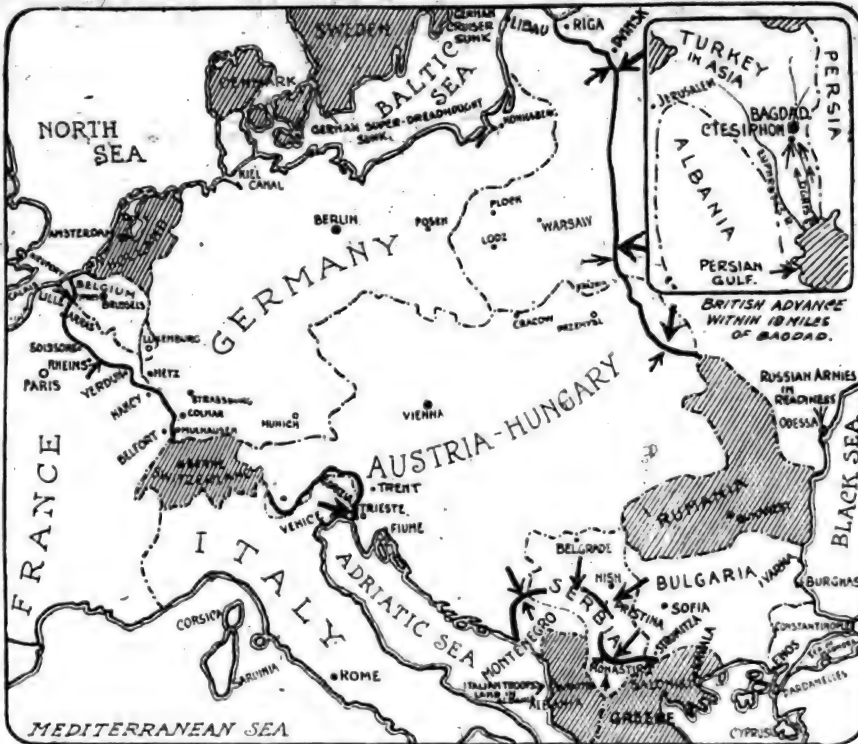

Tells U. S. Immigration Authorities
He is Weary of War.

A despatch from New York says: Heinie Schultz, late a private in the German army, reached New York, a deserter and a stowaway aboard the Dutch steamer Noorderdyk. He wore a uniform which bore the earth stains of the trenches, and said he had grown weary of war. If he is denied admission, he probably will be held here indefinitely, as to deport him would result in his capture by the British. Schultz deserted, he said, after his father and brother had both been killed.

BRAVE FRENCHWOMAN WINS THE WAR CROSS

A despatch from Paris says: Mile. Emilienne Moreau, cited recently in an army order for brave conduct in connection with the operations in the vicinity of Loos, has been received by President Poincare.

Earlier in the day at Versailles, she received the war cross in the presence of General De Sully, Colonel Duruelle and troops of the garrison at Versailles.

The Week's Developments in the War.

The Balkan States and the Austro-Italian front have held the chief interest in war developments during the week. After four months of terrific fighting with heavy losses in a mountainous country where operations were extremely difficult, the Italian armies are reported to have captured their immediate goal of Goritz. This news has not yet been officially confirmed, but if it proves true, the Italian victory is one of the greatest importance. An immediate advance against Trieste may be expected.

In the Balkans the Austro-German and Bulgarian advances have continued, the Serbian army making a masterly retirement. It is now pretty definitely believed that the Serbian army has escaped the trap set for it, although both sides suffered terrific losses. Large forces of French and British troops are now in Serbia, and the defence is becoming very much stronger.

At the Dardanelles the Turks have made desperate efforts to drive the British and French into the sea, evidently depending upon the reports that the Allied forces there have been greatly weakened to provide reinforcements for the Balkan campaign.

Russian armies, thoroughly equipped, are now concentrated near the Rumanian border, and will be fighting in Bulgaria next week. Greece has complied with the demands of the Entente nations, and after the Allies have succeeded in checking the invader, it would not be at all surprising if both Rumania and Greece should assist in driving out the enemy forces and in punishing Bulgaria for her part in the war.

On the Western front winter conditions prevail, and fighting has been largely restricted to artillery duels. The Eastern battle-front is almost entirely unchanged. Considerable naval activity has been reported in the Baltic, a squadron of the latest British submarines having passed through the Cattegat, according to repeated reports. A German super-dreadnought is reported to have been sunk by a mine.

ITALIANS TAKE PODGORA PEAK

Capture of Heights Crowns Five Months' Campaign Against Fortress.

A despatch from Rome says: After five months of fighting the Italians have taken the Podgora heights, the key to Goritz, now known to the Italian soldiers as Monte Calvario, because of the heavy losses suffered by them in their efforts to conquer it as well as by the Austrian defenders. These heights, just west of Goritz and on the opposite bank of the Isonzo, command the stronghold. Their capture means that virtually the last step in the taking of Goritz has been accomplished.

The Italian official statement containing the announcement of this, the most important victory won by the Italians in many months, follows:

"On Monte Calvario (Podgora heights), west of Goritz, our attacks continued, and we reached the summit, which we held under the fiercest and concentrated fire of the enemy. On the Carso plateau, after repulsing weak night attacks, the operations were vigorously resumed in the morning, and a strong entrenchment was taken near the San Martino Church. A total of 7 officers and 86 men were taken prisoners."

Following their success in the capture of the heights of Podgora, the Italians are now storming the heights of San Michele, on the edge of the Carso plateau to the south of the Austrian stronghold on the Isonzo. These heights form the only important fortifications south of Goritz, and the Italians have been making desperate efforts to occupy them for several weeks.

In the official report, it was announced that General Cadorna's forces succeeded in occupying the fourth line of entrenchments near the summit of the mountain. This victory was achieved after a terrific bombardment of the Austrian positions lasting all night. When the artillery fire ceased, the infantry charged from the district around the church of San Martino. The Austrians were unable to retreat in time, and most of the defenders of the fourth trench were made prisoners.

Since the beginning of the Italian offensive, which is now known as the fourth battle of the Isonzo, the Austrians have delivered a series of artillery and infantry attacks along the whole line of the Isonzo in futile attempts to regain some of the ground lost to the Italians. These attacks were in every case broken down by the terrific bombardment of the Italian big guns. Every day sees an increase in the violence of the bombardment in the neighborhood of Goritz.

It has been learned here that a council of war was held recently at Laibach, at which it was decided by the Austrian commanders that Goritz could not hold out any longer without aid from Germany.

A later despatch says: The Italian advance against Goritz made some further progress to the south and the north-west of the city. The forces which took the summit of the Podgora heights extended their conquests north-west of the city, taking further trenches in the course of vigorous fighting, and holding them against an Austrian attempt at a counter-attack.

South of the city, on the Carso plateau, the Italians gained some ground to the north of Monte San Michele, between Boschini and Peteano, and to the south of the mountain, in the direction of San Martino.

Austria's urgent appeals for German aid on the Italian front are still unheeded. Germany has two reasons for refusing to aid her ally in this quarter: the necessary troops are not available, and Germany is not at war with Italy. As a result of Germany's position, it is possible that the Austrians will be compelled to retire and give up the desperate resistance which they have been interposing to the Italian advance.

This Italian offensive, heretofore belittled by the Austrians, now evidently is pressing them hard.

Germany's refusal to aid Austria on the Italian front is said to have been instigated by Prince von Buelow, former Imperial Chancellor, whose visit to Switzerland is believed to have had for one of its objects an attempt to learn whether appreciable Italian successes, including the permanent occupation of Goritz, would satisfy Italian public opinion. It is evident that Prince von Buelow hopes that the war between Italy and Austria will not be continued longer if considerable territory is gained by the Italians before Winter. Hence Germany would be benefited in the future if she now refuses to aid her ally.

PINCH OF HUNGER SHARPENS TONGUES

The Problem of Supplying German Stomachs Is Placed Uppermost.

A despatch from Cologne says: The Volks Zeitung in a sharp article urges the Reichstag to call the Government to account for its failure to deal adequately with the problem of supplying foodstuffs.

"To supply the German nation with provisions is at present the most important military question, and one which must be carried through before winter," the Volks Zeitung says. "This doubtless will be recognized by the supreme army command, whose orders will find no opposition. We recommend the appointment of an economic dictator in military clothing."

The article closes with an attack on Herr von Stein, recently appointed Under-Secretary of the Interior, on the ground that he has not dealt energetically enough with the food problem.

Sure Proof.

SOUGHT TO CUT FRENCH LINE

The Bulgarians Were Driven Back, Leaving Many Dead and Wounded.

The Salonica correspondent of the London Daily Mail telegraphs as follows: The French retook the offensive and threw back the Bulgarians, taking a majority of the positions lost on the Krivolak-Cerna-Rajec line. The Bulgarians had tried to force the French lines with full strength, and had left in the rear no covering troops, so that a vigorous French counter-attack forced them to withdraw hurriedly, leaving a considerable number of dead and wounded.

A small squadron of French aeroplanes bombarded the Bulgarian village of Strumitsa with great success and reached its base uninjured.

The Serbian army is continuing its retreat in the new direction and has attacked the Bulgarian forces covering Priplep. The Austrian forces are marching on Uskub.

British reinforcements are continuing to disembark. The Bulgarian press is unanimous in declaring that after the occupation of Serbian Macedonia the Bulgarian army will have brought its mission to an end, but Bulgaria in no way is disposed to ward fresh sacrifices the advantage of which is not apparent. Bulgarian public opinion seems uneasy at the presence of Turkish forces in Thrace. Five Turkish divisions are at Sudi, one at Mustafa Pasha, one at Varna and one at Burgas.

On the other hand the Turkish press states that the question of Thrace will be definitely settled with the support of Germany, for Thrace, contrary to the declarations made by Premier Radoslavoff, of Bulgaria, should fall to Turkey.

200,000 SERBIANS FIGHT ON TAKING HEAVY TOLL OF ENEMY

Losses Thus Far 35,000 Killed and Wounded and 20,000 Prisoners—Allies Have Surprise in Store

A despatch from Athens says: The newspaper Hestia publishes an interview with the Serbian War Minister, who is at Salonica, in which the Minister said:

"Although we have lost 35,100 killed or wounded and 20,000 taken prisoner, the operations are anything but ended. Our forces now numbering 200,000 are still intact. We are only deficient in heavy artillery. The morale of the troops is unimpaired. The commissariat is working splendidly, thanks to the French organizers."

"Nevertheless, the situation is difficult, though not hopeless, from a

CZAR'S MESSAGE TO THE SERBIANS

Reported to Have Promised Their Presence in Bulgaria a Week
Hence.

A despatch from London says: The Russian Emperor has addressed a personal telegram to the Serbian Premier, M. Pachitch, according to a Salonica despatch to the Daily Telegraph, in which he promises the appearance in Bulgaria shortly of Russian troops. The Italian Government, according to this despatch, has also promised to send an expeditionary force of 40,000 men.

According to the latest news from Salonica the French line is still unbroken, the report that the Bulgarians have occupied Krivolak being unfounded. On the contrary, all their attacks have been repulsed.

The French official statement reports an engagement with the Bulgarian forces near Brusnic, to the east of Krivolak, in which the Bulgarians were repulsed.

Great Britain and France are preparing to establish a great military position at Salonica, where large barracks are to be erected for the allied troops, and where a great electric power station is to be built to enable the allies to carry on their repair work. France and Great Britain have notified Greece that full indemnities will be paid Greece for any damage to Greek property that may be caused by the allied armies.

The change in Greece's attitude, together with the impressive military preparations by Russia, are understood here to have caused a marked reversal of sentiment in Roumania for the allies. It is believed here that Roumania will grant full permission to Russia to send troops across Roumanian territory for an attack against the Bulgarians.

Many heavy field and siege cannon from Japanese armament factories have arrived in Southern Russia. Despatches received in Berlin state that large consignments of these cannon are now at Odessa. This news has caused a deep impression in military circles at Berlin. German military authorities state the Russians are about to strike the blow for which they have been preparing in the Near East for the last month. The fact that Russian troops are being concentrated at Odessa, the principal Russian port in the Black Sea, has given rise to the conviction that Russia will attack Bulgaria from two points, one of the Czar's armies marching through Roumania for a direct assault on the Bulgarians, while another seeks a landing-place on the Bulgarian coast of the Black Sea.

REFUGEES MASSACRED ON THE ROAD TO VAN

A despatch from London says: News of further Armenian massacres has reached those in charge of the Lord Mayor's Armenian Refugee Fund. It tells of the massacre of 500 refugees by Kurds. The refugees succeeded in reaching Russian trans-Caucasia, but nearly 200,000 refugees were already there, and the 500 tried to return to that part of Armenia in Russian occupation. They were massacred on the road to Van.

PARENTS AND SISTERS KILLED BY GERMANS

A despatch from Kingston says: Pte. Vervicke, a Belgian soldier who returned from the front, says he lost his father, mother and three sisters when the Germans destroyed Belgium, and that he and his brother, who is training in Ottawa, wish to get to the front to avenge their deaths. Pte. Vervicke was with the Canadian Engineers.

URGE PROVINCIAL LEVY FOR PATRIOTIC FUND

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The Union of Manitoba Municipalities, represented by over two hundred Reeves and councillors, in annual convention at Stonewall, resolved to petition the Manitoba Government to levy a tax of one mill for five years on all assessable property in the province for the Manitoba Patriotic Fund, in aid of the soldiers' dependents.

strategic standpoint, and as regards munitions we shall remain on the defensive, holding the passes and wearing down the enemy until the Anglo-French forces are sufficiently strong to enable us to resume the offensive.

"The participation of Italy meets with difficulties owing to the divergence of views regarding Albania. Russia's intervention will be effected after the concentration of the allied armies in the Balkans, and it is expected that this will produce a change in Roumania's attitude."

"I can assure you that France and England are preparing surprises in the Balkans."

It is reported that a number of capitalists have purchased the Barberton Woollen Mills and if they can get a fixed assessment for ten years from the Township Council they will put in machinery and make shells for the British army. Of course we do not infer by this that the war is expected to last ten years, but it would be a good thing to have the factory running even if it was only for a couple of years. We have no definite information yet, but expect to give details in a week or two.

The Rev. S. B. Robold F.R.G.S., Pastor of the Christian Synagogue, Toronto, President of the Hebrew Christian Alliance of America, will lecture on Monday evening next, Dec. 6th, in St. Andrew's Church, Streetsville, on the subject "The War and the Jew," giving a bird's eye view of the world's situation and the place of the Jew in it. Rev. Mr. Robold is a duly ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church and is doing a great work as a settled pastor in the first Christian Synagogue in Canada. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E., and an offering will be taken for the missionary funds of the society. This is a rare chance to hear this vital question discussed by one who is a master of his subject. All welcome.

Wedding Bells

A quiet wedding took place at four o'clock on Wednesday, Nov. 24th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, Milton, Ont., when Margaret Wright, only daughter of Mr. Wilson, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Jesse O. Treason, Streetsville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Draper, Methodist minister. The bride looked handsome in a dress of grey satin with lace and pearls. They left on the evening train for a short honeymoon trip to Ottawa and other points east. On their return they will reside on the Treason homestead, 2nd line west, Toronto Township. The Review extends congratulations to the newly married couple and wishes them many happy years of married life.

Farewell Party in Honor Of Gordon B. Kipp

The home of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Church was taken possession of one evening recently by the Harriers' Club. O. R. is quite interested in the club and invited the boys to do honor to Mr. Kipp who has joined the Canadian army. A most enjoyable programme of games and music was carried out and the hostess had not overlooked any detail of the practical end of the programme. Cakes with icing, cakes with fillings that were filling, pies and then more pies and coffee, (it was real coffee) coffee that the Harriers would run 10 miles for; and sandwiches, and candies, in fact everything in the goodies line was on the table. The baking was all homemade and probably that's the reason why the Harriers didn't leave the table until Big Ben had sounded twelve bells—midnight. Mrs. Church and Mr. Norriogton rendered vocal selections and Mr. J. Clarke was toastmaster of the evening—and John never overlooks anyone. Speechmaking was a feature of the programme and Mr. Church made the speech of the evening in which he referred to and asked the young, physically fit, unmarried men of Streetsville to take up arms against the Hun and banish their militarism so that they will never have an opportunity of invading this fair Dominion of Canada.—Contributed.

A Worthy Cause

Rev. Mr. Morgan, who has been a missionary in South Africa for twenty years, preached in the Presbyterian Church last Sunday morning and in the Methodist Church in the evening. He spoke in the interests of the Bible Society and gave a good account of the work the society is doing in distributing the Word of God. As soon as the present war broke out the Bible Society took immediate steps to meet the needs and to utilize the opportunities of the situation. Immense editions of pocket Testaments, Gospels and Psalters were at once prepared, specially bound in kiki with a red cross on the cover. These books are in many different languages and have been provided for sick and wounded soldiers and sailors, for prisoners of war, refugees, aliens and for the troops of various nations. Everybody can help to send the Gospel to these people. The collectors for the Bible Society will call upon you some day soon. Be generous.

High School Notes

High School Commencement Exercises on Friday evening, Dec. 3rd. An excellent programme is promised to all who attend. One of the main features will be a drill by the third and fourth form girls. This is something entirely new to Streetsville because it is a new form of drill. Other items on the programme will be choruses, dialogues and recitations. Come and learn how to train your children by the new method, as will be clearly shown by the humorous dialogue "The Young Gradgrinds." Of course, the most important feature of the evening will be the presentation of the diplomas and medals. Everyone is invited to attend. The admission is free.

peared several times—on five successive days, I afterwards ascertained. The one of that morning was similarly addressed, but it seemed to indicate a conflict of purposes somewhere. It was worded thus:

CHAPTER XVII.

On the day of the attack upon Mrs. Fox there were two more happenings that demand some attention, and then this narrative takes a stride forward to the first week in May. The interim is thus casually dismissed because nothing of importance fell; it was as if everything had come a standstill—as if the mystery were not to offer another single development.

I saw Struber almost every day during the period. He was always busy, seemingly accomplishing nothing, yet never was downcast or discouraged. He grew unaccountably reticent, merely hinting at strange and unimaginable surprises that were in store for all of us. I assumed that this attitude was a pose behind which he hid a consciousness of defeat and failure.

Late in the afternoon of the day in question, however, the detective sauntered into my office with an affectation of careless indifference that quickened my curiosity more than if he had been excited and eager.

I surveyed him expectantly, and somewhat testily told him to throw away the cigar he was smoking. He did so, cheerfully, and wrinkled his nose at me when I handed him a cigar that was at least endurable.

"I've nailed the owner of the gray auto," he announced without preamble. Doubtless it is apparent by this time that a marked characteristic of Struber's was his unexpectedness. I waited, and in a moment he added:

"It's Mr. Meyer Hardwick's machine. Know him?"

I stared my bewildered. "Meyer Hardwick's machine! Why on earth should he be so interested in my movement?"

Struber shrugged his shoulders. "It is kinda funny, ain't it? But it wasn't Hardwick that was shadowing you. A pair of private bulls from Frisco was a-usin' his auto; I haven't learned yet what their drag with him is. It's a sure thing he ain't runnin' any taxi livery. These two sleuths has blew across the Mojave to where they come from, and Hardwick has been out o' town a couple o' days—up in the mountains fishin', they say at the company's office. Now what do yuh make o' that?"

I could make nothing of it. I remembered Hardwick's surprising show of feeling when I took him to task for his treatment of Lois Fox. And then I remembered the two personals. I rallied Struber for having failed to see them.

For the barest fraction of a second he looked crestfallen, but immediately his jaunty self-assurance returned.

"Yep, I missed 'em," he confessed. "The L. A. papers don't carry personals every day, like as if this was New York or Chi., so it ain't a regular thing for us to tag 'em. One on me. But, say, Mr. Ferris, I'm beginning to see a lot I didn't see before."

He was moving quickly toward the door when I halted him.

"Here, you tell me what you have in mind before you go. I'm sufficiently in the dark as it is."

He paused and considered, inspecting the inside of his hat.

"None," he decided at last. "I won't tell you nothing now. I may be dead wrong about what's stirring in my skull, and till I know better I can always look wise."

And so he left me.

The second happening does not have to be treated at length, yet it can not be lightly dismissed. During the night of the day on which Mrs. Fox was attacked, she died. The anæsthetic, it would seem, searched out an unsuspected weakness of the heart, and next morning Lois Fox covered that her next was dead. A tenant was found for the cottage; Miss Fox moved to a down-town rooming-house; and on the third day she was back at the office—a trifle paler, a trifle more subdued, her eyes tender with a light of added suffering. My heart bled for her.

An immediate effect of Mrs. Fox's death was to transform the police's lukewarm search for a burglar into a determined effort to run down a dangerous assassin.

Nothing of note, however, occurred until the first week in May; and then, one morning, came the incident which now I regard as the first careless act of our unknown opponents—for want of a better designation I call them such.

I was engaged in my private room when I was attracted by a strange feminine voice. It wasn't a pleasant voice; it rasped and jarred and seemed somehow out of place. I went to the connecting door and beheld a stout woman in a shabby, cheap velvet dress. She was perhaps fifty, but her coarseness of feature and bold manner erased any veneration which her sex and years might otherwise have commanded.

She had opened a sample-case upon the end of one of the tables nearest Miss Fox's typewriter desk and was displaying an assortment of worthless perfumes, toilet soaps and cosmetics in gaudy wrappers, and despite Stub's tart reminders that canvassing was not allowed in the building, and Miss Fox's undisguised repugnance of the woman, she was exploiting their questionable virtues with a rude, familiar loquacity that suggested liquor.

Miss Fox's attitude, naturally enough, was anything but encouraging, and I was on the point of interfering and relieving her of the embarrassment of the unpleasant woman's persistence, when the situation took a turn that made me pause and prick up my ears.

Without warning, and without the least cessation of her leering talk extolling her wares, she suddenly swept everything back into the case and snapped it shut. Then she laid a card upon Miss Fox's desk.

"If I can't persuade you, dearie, to try any of my unsurpassed preparations," she glibly pursued, "I can anyway give you an opportunity to help some friend—perhaps, eh, my dear? I positively remove all disfigurements, such as birthmarks, warts, wens, moles, tattoo-marks and every sort of blemish, restoring the skin to its original perfection."

"D'ye know of anybody disfigured, say, by a hideous tattoo-mark, dearie? Just tell 'em Madame Carcassi can remove it—wipe it out like yuh'd erase a chalk mark on a blackboard—and all without pain or inconvenience or interference with engagements."

Lois had drawn back and was staring at her with a sort of fascination. The woman happened to glance around and became aware of my presence. Doubtless I was eyeing her with extreme distaste and for a second she was disconcerted; but only for a second, for at once she leered at me in a way meant to be ingratiating and came and gave me one of her cards also.

Many Commit Suicide Rather Than Face Courtmartial.

The frequency of army desertion, as well as suicide of some of the deserters, is causing some concern among the Japanese military authorities. Statistics show that during last year there were 956 cases of desertion, of which 93 per cent. were common soldiers. Tokio leads other cities with 184 cases, while there were 112 cases at Osaka. Out of the total, 258 soldiers were brought before the military court and punished, while 698 deserters voluntarily surrendered before the three days' grace had expired.

The increase of suicide among deserters is believed to be due to the reduction of days of grace during the war from six to three days, the deserter sometimes preferring to kill himself than face the shame of court-martial. Deserters who surrender before the three days expire are restored to the service with a light admonition. If they delay their return they become fugitives and are peremptorily punished on their arrest by the military court.

Lieut. Robert Fay, German Army, who confessed he was in America to attempt to destroy Allied munition ships.

To the Man Higher Up.
Do you ever stop to think
As your pen dips in the ink
Which will separate some fellow from his job,
What an awful thing 'twill be
When your letter he shall see—
How his anxious heart will palpitate and throb?

How about the little tot—
Do you think of it or not?
And the wife depending on him for her bread;
And does something seem to say
That they need his little pay?
Does such a thought e'er travel through your head?

Do you think of him I wonder—
Of the man who's serving under,
Whose destiny you hold in your right hand?
Is your thought upon him then,
As you dip in ink your pen
Which will cast him out upon this frigid land?

Is he old and grey and bent?
Could he never save a cent
That would help to keep his little family now?
Was he lucky, just like you?
Is he honest, brave and true?
And did you take the word of So-and-So?

Does it ever seem to you,
That just what he's going through
May be meted out to you some day in kind?
Is your love for self alone?
Is your heart as hard as stone?
Do you ever have your fellow-man in mind?

Do you ever, in despair,
Kneel down and say a prayer?
Or, do you never, never think of God at all?
He has prospered you, old boy,
Gave you health and wealth and joy;
So be careful when the axe you must let fall.

PRACTICAL FARMING

Calf Diphtheria.

Calf diphtheria is due to a specific infection, and is always a serious matter. The trouble may appear with calves from three to five days old. Such calves refuse to drink milk or suck. They show more or less discharge of saliva from the mouth. These patches gradually develop into ulcers covered with a lead, granular or cheesy mass, which does not peel easily from the raw surface underneath. There is considerable rise of temperature and an offensive odor from the mouth. The trouble may easily extend to neighboring parts, to the lining membrane of the nose, and then there appears a yellowish discharge. In some cases the lining membrane of the digestive tract is similarly affected and then there is tendency to diarrhoea. Little pigs show similar symptoms.

So far as now known the germ is a normal inhabitant of the intestines of healthy hogs and cattle and probably always virulent. When the disease is prevalent, the virus is, of course, scattered everywhere. Very young animals are most easily and most seriously affected, but cases have been reported in calves and pigs six or eight months old, and even occasionally in adult cattle and adult hogs.

The sores may be cleaned with two per cent. creolin in warm water, and then treated with Lugol's solution, applied twice a day to the ulcers. Permanganate of potash may also be used, two ounces to each gallon of water; made up fresh each time, as the mixture cannot be kept from day to day. Either treatment should be given to valuable animals about twice a day for from four to six days.

Frequent and thorough disinfection of calf-pens and calf-yards is one of the first essentials in management.

Unsafe Lanterns.

The season of shortened daylight brings its own peculiar fire dangers. One of these is the use of the lantern about farm buildings. Of recent years, owing to competition, a low-priced lantern, which is a serious fire menace, has been placed upon the market. Instead of being securely screwed on the oil reservoir, the burner is simply slipped on, with the result that if the lantern is upset, the burner comes off and the oil is allowed to run out upon the lighted wick. The result is either an explosion or a serious blaze and unless speedily checked, damage to life and property.

Poultry and Fruit.

If the hens have the run of an orchard they will not render as good service in protecting the trees from injurious insects as they will if confined in yards around the trees. While the orchard should be utilized, it gives much opportunity to the fowls to work over a large surface, which may to a certain extent lessen their vigilance.

around the trees. The old maxim is "Bring your chickens to your tree, keep them there, and they will destroy more insects than in any other way." The suggestion is a good one if not inflicting extra expense for fencing, but it is possible that some kind of movable fence should answer the purpose, as the fowls need not be confined except early in the season.

Pride in the Country.

We hear the term "civic pride" in the city. It applies just as much to the country resident. It means the pride that causes you to keep your premises clean and slightly and presentable to the stranger or passerby. And then you yourself might get some pleasure out of a well-kept farm.

Measured by the common standard, keeping your farm tidy actually adds dollars to its value and to the value of the products you have for sale. Let's clean up and stop breeding trouble on our farms.

There now could be no doubting that the two unrecognizable passengers were determined not to lose any of my movements. The circumstance had ceased to be merely curious; it was becoming positively disquieting.

"Don't worry," my companion counseled. "Just leave it to me. I'll nail them guys before—"

He broke off with an exclamation of surprise. He was staring backward, then all at once he slewed round and curtly commanded our chauffeur to stop, which he did so promptly that I was pitched forward.

"What yuh make o' that?" he asked under his breath.

My companion's manner already had impelled me to look backward too. We had just crossed Alameda Street. The gray car was drawing in to the curb where a man was advancing rapidly from the sidewalk to meet it. Obviously he had signalled it to stop.

The tonneau door swung open, the movements of all three being now marked by nervous haste, and the newcomer was climbing in when Struber was stung to action. He suddenly turned to our chauffeur with a sharp command that made that young man obey on the instant.

"Here, you! Swing this machine round and rush that gray auto like you meant to knock it off the street. Move! Hurry!"

Our car circled and speeded up. Already the other machine was itself gathering headway, coming toward us manifestly with the intention of turning into Alameda Street before we could get close to it. Struber was flustering with impatience. He stormed at our driver:

"Beat it, you boob! Beat it! It's a cinch you'll never get pinched for fast driving."

The gray car skidded into Alameda Street, and darted away with its muffler open. An instant later we crossed behind them, and I barely glimpsed one of the figures in the tonneau jerisively waving a hand at us.

It was plain that our slower machine could never hope to overtake the gray racer, and Struber once more drew us to a halt. He seemed not in the least disappointed or put out, however, by our failure.

"Well," said I, "you missed them. And now they know that I know they've been following me."

The detective produced a soiled and tattered envelope and a stub of pencil. He jotted something down as he laconically returned:

"But I lamped the number. That's all I wanted."

I dismissed the taxi and we separated at the entrance to the building where my office was situated. Two or three clients were impatiently waiting my return, and Stub handed me a slip of paper bearing several telephone numbers that I was expected to call up on my arrival.

For the next half-hour I was absorbed in business. As soon as the last caller was gotten rid of I called the first of the numbers, which proved to be the Spring Street jeweler where Aarsten was employed. Within a second or two after I had announced my name I recognized the Dutchman's voice.

"What you tink, Mr. Ferris, I found the regord of your diamond," he said. "You'd nefer guess who the other fellow was that brought the incut stone to Opzomer Brothers—the big, jolly fellow, I mean."

I assured him that I was not good at guessing.

"Ferris," came the surprising information.

"What?" I yelled. "Do you mean my father?"

"Ah! That, now, I can't tell you. I just wrote down the last names—Willets—Ferris—like that. I don't regollect whether I efer heard the first names."

All at once Aarsten's oft-repeated phrase, "the big, jolly fellow," took on a new and suggestive meaning. My father had been a large man, of genial disposition, fond of his joke, and as far as it went the phrase fitted him.

"Describe the man more particularly, Aarsten," I eagerly requested. And the details which came back over the wire tended more and more to establish the astonishing possibility.

But, after all, why should the circumstance be so improbable, though it remain astonishing beyond the power of words to describe—that one of the men with the diamond was my father?

At any rate, the idea immediately set my brain to a piecing together of some of the loose ends, and for a few seconds after I had hung up I sat at my desk in a state of high excitement, while my thoughts fairly flew.

There were my father's long years in China and his familiarity with the country and language; I knew little enough of the history of that period of his life, and almost anything might be possible.

I considered that everything that had happened possessed a Chinese, or at least an Oriental flavor. First of all, the ring and its ivory receptacle, which had been my father's, were unquestionably of Chinese workmanship. Next came the diamond in a box that was a duplicate of the ring box, and on top of that was Lois's box—Lois Fox, the daughter of Steve Willets. Then Willets himself is discovered masquerading as a Chinese; what was his connection with the mystery?

He must have been led to my office safe by either the ring or the diamond, which latter possibility at once suggested that he had been in touch with the person who had mailed it to me.

Then, going back to Miss Fox again there was her mysterious correspondent hailing from the Far East and the surmise that he and the anonymous sender of the diamond were the same; right here, it seemed to me, one link anyhow ought to be found.

Advancing a step farther, James Strang had failed to appear at a stipulated time; apparently he had vanished in thin air. Then, on the day he was expected, at almost the hour, a man calling himself "S. Willets" appeared at the Republic Hotel, gave his place of residence as Johore, and then in turn disappeared.

That my father, in some unaccountable way, should be involved was a startling suggestion, and before I called the next number I was sensible of a strong premonition that matters were approaching a crisis.

Only one other of the calls has any bearing upon my story. It proved to be a brother lawyer who had been moved purely out of curiosity to question me about something of which, until he brought it to my attention, I was ignorant.

"Say," he shouted at me, "don't you ever read the Times personal column?"

"No," was my reply. "What's on your mind?"

"Well," my friend bluntly advised, "one addressed to you appeared all last week. This morning it is worded differently. Better look 'em up."

That morning's issue of the Times still lay upon my desk; I sent Stub out for that of the day before. Although I immediately turned to the second advertisement (the one already at hand), I give them here in the order of their appearance.

I may add that I read them with a distinct shock of amazement, and straightway started off on another frenzied but futile excursion of speculation. Here is the first one:

WORN WORRIED WOMEN

Her Many Duties Affect Her Health and Often She Breaks Down Completely.

It is little wonder that there are many times in a woman's life when she feels in despair. There is no nine-hour day for the busy housewife. There are a hundred things about the home to keep her busy from the time she arises until it is again bed time. What is the result? Often her nerves give way, her good looks suffer, her blood becomes thin, her digestion is disturbed and her system threatened with a complete breakdown. Every woman should do all possible to protect her health and good looks, and there is one way in which she can do this, and that is by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These actually make new, rich blood, strengthen every nerve and every organ, bring the glow of health to the cheeks and brightness to the eye. These pills have done more to make the lives of thousands of women unshiny than anything else in the world. Mrs. Daniel Theal, Waterloo, Ont., says: "I was very much run down, my blood was thin and watery and I would faint at the least excitement. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, and often it seemed as though there were clouds before my eyes. Finally I was forced to go to bed with weakness. I doctored for six weeks while in bed without receiving any benefit. Finally I was induced to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and when I had taken ten boxes I was completely cured, and never felt better in my life. I am convinced that what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me they will do for others, and I warmly recommend them to all weak women."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FREAK MEMORY REVEALED.

A Man Who Can Recite Walpole's "Old English Baron."

The possession of a freak memory was revealed during the course of a case of robbery tried recently at Melbourne. The prisoner declared that when the crime was committed he was in the hut of a man named Lane, hearing him recite Walpole's "Old English Baron," which occupied two hours and a half in the delivery. The jury disbelieved this statement, so Lane was called to prove that he was capable of the feat. He stepped into the witness-box and started reciting the story in a way that showed he knew it thoroughly. When he had gone on some time without a moment's hesitation the judge wanted him to stop, but counsel for the defence insisted upon proving his case by having the whole story repeated. Eventually, it was decided to admit the evidence if Lane could repeat the last page of the book. This being satisfactorily accomplished the alibi was allowed, and the prisoner received his discharge.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Mrs. G. Morgan, Huntsville, Ont., writes: "I wish every mother and especially young mothers know the value of Baby's Own Tablets. They have certainly worked wonders with our baby. She was troubled with colic and constipation and cried all the time, but the Tablets soon put her right, and she is now a fine healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

INSTRUCTION IN LANGUAGES.

Englishmen Are Learning Polish and Balkan Dialects.

Classes in Russian, French and Spanish are prospering in London as never before. It is recognized that Germany's great gains in trade were due largely to the pains German clerks and business men took to acquire foreign languages. Special courses in the Slav tongue, including Polish and the Balkan dialects, are now established at King's College, University of London. T. G. Masaryk, professor of philosophy in the Czech University of Prague and formerly a prominent politician in the Austrian Parliament, is the head of the school. Instruction in the languages will be accompanied by lectures in Slavonic history and literature. Spanish is rather the latest to be taken up; just as Russian was the first after the outbreak of the war. The Welsh people, on account of being bilingual, are the cleverest students in language and the Scotch next, according to the teachers.

Formidable List of United States Railroads in Receiver's Hands

Among U.S. railroads the intervention of the receiver has been so frequent, and has concerned so many important systems, that this official is no longer considered an omen of approaching dissolution, but rather, in cases, the promise of economical administration. Figures issued by the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics, Chicago, show that there were twenty-eight railway companies of more or less importance in the hands of receivers at the close of the calendar year 1914, in addition to nearly forty minor roads. The combined length of these larger railways operated by receivers amounted to 19,449 miles, with a total capitalization of no less than $1,376,678,913. They include the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, with excellent services in the southwest; the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad, with one of the best services between Chicago and St. Louis; the Wabash, with its strong geographical position, providing short line mileage between many important cities in the Middle West; the Pere Marquette, serving thickly populated districts in Michigan; and the Toledo, St. Louis and Western Railroad, known as the Clover Leaf Route, traversing the progressive states of Indiana and Illinois. The receivership record for 1914 is as follows:

A FARMER'S CHARACTER.

The conditions which any man creates about him are apt to reflect his own character to a very large degree. When you pass a farm that is well tilled, with fences, roads and lanes in good order, when you see in the field a herd of good cattle, well fed, thrifty and contented, it is a pretty safe conclusion that the owner and master is a man of a certain type of character, and that one to be approved of. You will probably find him to be a man of quiet and dignified manner. That is the first point about a character such as will mark the man who keeps his farm premises in good order and good repair, who will own such stock, and keep them in such condition. If fields are well tilled and fences in good repair, it is safe to assume that the stable premises will be comfortable and neat and trim. His herd of cattle and their condition bear further evidence of the fact. A man possessed of simple energy and activity may keep his premises neat, but his kind of character is apt rather to find expression in the performance of a lot of hard work, that will display more or less of irregularity in its performance. It takes a nature that is orderly, a mind that is deliberate and studious, thoughtful and considerate, to direct energies to the best all round advantage. These are the characteristics to expect in the man whose farm and its herds impress you, in this favorable way, as you pass along the road—Canadian Countryman.

Compensatory. Nature bestows her own compensations: if a man is fat he is usually endowed with a jolly, optimistic temperament.

The total capitalization, stocks and bonds was $1,376,678,000. Eliminating duplications, the net capitalization is less than $60,000 per mile.

In the thirty-seven years, from 1876 to 1913, the records show that not less than 754 U.S. roads, with an operated length of 145,176 miles, and with $8,262,453,000 capital stock and funded debt, passed into receivers' hands. Among these were included such properties as the Northern Pacific, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, that were subsequently reorganized and placed upon a profitable basis. Other important lines which have gone into receivership in 1915 include old established properties, such as the Missouri Pacific System, with a length operated of 9,670 miles. The stock of the Missouri Pacific a few years ago was selling above par, and it is still considered to be a road with considerable possibilities.

POTATO AND FORAGE CROPS.

So Abundant as to Compensate Shortage in Wheat.

Senator Jules Melne, former president of the French Cabinet, presiding at the annual meeting of the Agricultural Assembly, presented statistics showing that the potato and forage crops this year are so abundant as to compensate the shortage in wheat. The excess of hay produced over other years will enable the feeding of enough live stock to make up for all the necessary requisitions of meat for the army. "The culminating point in the meat crisis," he says, "will come after the war, when all the belligerent nations will have pressing needs with reduced means of production. Consequently the forage crop means quite as much to France as its production of wheat."

How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water and drop in one Bon-Opto tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses might never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches, and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-changing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong magnetic eyes through the prescription here given. The Valmas Drug Co. of Toronto will fill the above prescription by mail, if your druggist cannot.

Winning Is All Nonsense.

One day, while her grandfather was paying a visit to Florence's home, the little girl said to him:—"Grandpa, your talk about perseverance winning is all nonsense." "Well, well," cried grandfather, "why do you say that?" "Why," said the little girl, "I've worked all the afternoon blowing soap bubbles and trying to pin them on mother's hat."

Peace with Germany When Kaiser Falls

London, Dec. 1.—Viscount Haldane, former lord high chancellor, discussing the possibilities of peace during a meeting in King's Hall last night declared that peace was more to be desired than any other thing at the present moment.

Nevertheless the speaker predicted that no peace negotiations would be considered by Great Britain or her allies until Emperor William and the German war party had been thrown out of the saddle by the German democracy.

"The allies of a century ago," said Viscount Haldane, "were quite ready to make peace with France, but not with Napoleon. So also, today, until we can deal with the real German people, whom we can trust and whom we know as sane contributors of many good things to the world's civilization, but who have temporarily yielded their place to false leaders, we do not care to talk peace."

Thirty Killed by Explosion

Wilmington Del. Nov. 30.—Thirty workmen were killed and seven fatally injured today in a terrific explosion of about four tons of black powder at the Upper Hagley yard of the Du Pont Powder Company. It was the worst accident that has occurred in any of the company's plants in a quarter of a century.

The cause of the explosion is not known. According to a statement by the company the origin "will probably always remain a mystery." Nevertheless a most searching investigation has been instituted by the officials of the company.

Nearly all the victims of the blast were young men between 16 and 21 years of age. The greater number of them lived in and about Wilmington.

The explosion occurred in a packing house where black powder pellets are prepared for shipment. These pellets are used for rifles and other purposes, much of the powder, if not all, being shipped to the warring nations. The packing house was situated about three miles northwest of the city.

Workmen who survived the tremendous blast said the scene was one of horror. From every tree left standing in the neighborhood there were hanging pieces of flesh or parts of clothing worn by the unfortunate men.

Twenty-six men were in the packing house when the powder went off, and not enough of any of them was left for identification, with the exception of Allen A. Thaxter, the foreman, whose home is given as Portland, Me.

For more than a quarter of a mile about the scene of the explosion the ground was strewn with arms, legs and bits of flesh.

The funeral of the late Thomas Young took place on Wednesday last, on the arrival of the 11:27 train here, to Dixie cemetery. The late Mr. Young was born near Port Credit and lived in this vicinity for a number of years, later taking up his residence in Weston, Ont. He was a brother-in-law of Messrs. Thomas Ross and J. J. Goldthorpe here. His death took place in Duganmoss Ont. He was in his 73rd year.

A couple of families in the village are at present under quarantine for mild cases of scarlet fever and it is to be hoped that the epidemic will not become prevalent.

The entertainments under the auspices of the various Sabbath Schools are in course of preparation. The Mission Band of Cooksville Meth. S. S. are to give an entertainment here on Friday, Dec. 3rd.
